HAS AGAIN BEEN CONTESTED,

and

On Melbourne's Historic Lawn

SUMMER FASHION

has also been decided.

Light and Dainty CREPE and VOILE Effects were the most popular. Pale neutral colours, and white in lightest gauzy semi-transparent fabrics suited to summer weather.

You will find a choice and select assortment of all the latest at

LASSETTERS'

CREPE RATINE.

It is the latest Parisian introduction, beautifully light and cool, and eminently suited to the approaching hot season.

It is double width, 40 inches wide, in all the newest season shades, 2/6 yard.

a most attractive and seasonable Dress Material. It is extremely pretty, and makes up into Dainty Dresses.

It is double width, 40 inches wide. The designs are neat and effective, on pastel shade grounds, 2/11 yard.

GRAFTON FLORAL VOILE.

The neat Rosebud designs may be worn by Ladies of any age. They wash perfectly, and always look charming. We have now a choice assortment to select from, 27 inches wide, 1/6½ yard.

Another popular material still much in demand is

SPONGE CLOTH.

We have this very attractive material in all the newest Summer shades. It is double width, 40 inches wide, 1/11½, 2/8, 3/6 yard.

JAPANESE CREPE.

We have just opened a new shipment in all the latest colours, both plain and stripes, 30 inches wide, 9½d yard.

The choice of materials in the present season is endless, and in the limited space of an advertisement we can only mention a few, amongst which are:—

FLORAL CREPELLE, 27in.—This is a very light and pretty Washing Fabric, and the patterns are neat and becoming, 9½d yard.

COLOURED MERCERISED WHIPCORD.—A new and extremely useful plain washing material, 40in wide, in the latest colourings, 1/11½ yard.

PLAIN MERCERISED POPLIN, 40in.—This rich-looking material is still very popular. Our latest openings are 1/11½, 2/3 per yard.

PLAIN WHITE SWISS MUSLIN.—The ideal Summer Washing Material, 45-47 inches wide, 10½d, 1/0½, 1/3, 1/4½, 1/6½, 1/9 yard.

COOL CREPE SHIRTS

IN TWO SMART STYLES.

Summer Shirts made of this material are ideal for comfort.

The fabric is light and open in weave. After washing it becomes almost as soft as silk.

Crepe Shirts retain their colours, and withstand frequent laundering. For these reasons, and because they are distinctive in effect, they are very popular during the Summer season.

In all the realm of World-travel there is ever the same magic fascinating centre—LONDON! Around this magnetic pole revolves the interests and destinies of the British Empire. History, Art, Science—every civilising thing radiates from it.

Is it to be wondered at that a compilation of every feature of its vivid SOCIAL LIFE AND HISTORIC LAND MARKS, rendered into being with absolute thoroughness by the unerring art of the Cinematograph, should challenge and enhance the absorbing interest of the travelled and the untravelled Britisher alike?

During a recent trip to Europe the Compiler conceived the idea for the delectation of the people of the Oversea Dominions and the world in general, a work so comprehensive in the living depiction of this fascinating subject as to far excel anything of the kind hitherto either conceived or accomplished. How far he has succeeded will be abundantly manifested in its initial representation here.

A MAGNETO is a delicate Electrical Machine, and needs adjusting at regular intervals. Why not let an expert do this for you, and obtain MORE POWER from your engine. A better spark ensures this.

Have you had your Magneto Magnets RE-CHARGED since buying your Car? This will not cost much, and will be well worth while.

Remember, we POSITIVELY GUARANTEE to make every Magneto handled by us to work equal to a new one, or hand you back your money.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

ALLOTMENT OF TARGETS.

In order to reduce to a minimum the inconvenience caused to metropolitan rifle clubs by the deplorable scarcity of targets at the Randwick range, Lieutenant Dakin (secretary N.R.A.) some time ago called all the clubs together to apportion the targets available each week. Although the arrangement arrived at has no official recognition, it has been found to work well, and would work still better if more closely adhered to. It was found after careful inquiry and analysis, that of the 76 targets at Randwick, 45, approximately, would be required each Saturday for musketry purposes, under the control of the Defence Department. This left 31 available for club shooting. The clubs agreed that a certain definite range would be used throughout each month, and that the clubs would accept an apportionment of the 31 targets available each Saturday. For the information of metropolitan marksmen, the details of this allotment, up to the end of the year (December 27), are appended, showing each Saturday the clubs' alloted targets and the number of targets apportioned, as follows:—

NOVEMBER—800 YARDS RANGE.

November 8: A.M.P. (2), A.N.A. (2), Auburn (2), Western Suburbs (4), Metropolitan Railway (6), Engineers (3), 21st Infantry (2), 24th Infantry (4).

November 15: Belmore (2), Concord (12), Eastern Suburbs (2), Enfield (2), Granville Technical College (2), Gladesville (2), Lands Department (2), Legion of Frontiersmen (2), Rockdale (3), Water and Sewerage Board (2), Yorkshire Society (2), North Sydney (2), Clyde Engineering Works (3), Randwick Institute (3).

November 22: Parramatta (6), Randwick (4), Sydney (5), Western Suburbs (4), Post and Telegraph (1), Wunderlich (3), 24th Infantry (4), 29th Infantry (3).

November 29: Reserved for Metropolitan District Union's grade matches.

DECEMBER—900 YARDS RANGE.

December 6: A.M.P. (2), A.N.A. (2), Auburn (2), Belmore (2), Concord (2), Eastern Suburbs (2), Enfield (2), Granville Technical College (2), Gladesville (12), Lands Department (2), Rockdale (3), Water and Sewerage Board (2), Field Artillery (2), Clyde Engineering Works (3), Randwick Institute (4).

December 13: A.M.P. (2), Parramatta (6), Randwick (4), Sydney (5), Western Suburbs (4), Post and Telegraph (1), Metropolitan Railway (6), Engineers (3).

December 20: A.M.P. (2), A.N.A. (2), Auburn (2), Granville Technical College (2), Rockdale (3), Water and Sewerage Board (2), Yorkshire Society (2), Wunderlich (3), 21st Infantry (2), 24th Infantry (4), 29th Infantry (3), Clyde Engineering Works (3), Randwick Institute (4).

December 27: Belmore (2), Concord (2), Eastern Suburbs (2), Enfield (2), Legion of Frontiersmen (2), Sydney (5), Metropolitan Railway (6), Engineers (3).

Whilst this arrangement is expected to be adhered to among the clubs, it is distinctly understood that club secretaries must make application to the range officer in the ordinary way whenever targets are required. Short ranges than those set out are also a matter of arrangement with Captain Cooper, in charge of the range.

THE TURF.

ST. SIMON BLOOD.

In view of the success of Beragoon and Traquette, both of whom possess stout Musket blood and St. Simon strains, at the Victorian carnival on Monday, an article in the London "Field" on St. Simon blood is of interest. During the last two decades, says the writer, nothing in connection with the breeding of thoroughbreds has been more remarkable than the success of St. Simon blood, both in this country, in France, and other parts of the Continent, and also in Australia. But it is now said that in the country last mentioned breeders are breaking away from this particular strain because they have got too much of it. It is undoubtedly the case that when any particular line of blood is extremely successful there will be a tendency to overdo it, and more especially to inbreed to it to an excessive extent, but after all the many successes which it achieves are proof of its strength and vitality. We are probably well within the mark when we state that in very modern times there has been no blood in this country which has been so eminently successful as that of St. Simon, and when writing this we bear in mind that Cyllene sired the Derby winner in four years out of eight. We are inclined to think that at present it is holding its own, though perhaps it is not exactly dominating the position so much as it did a year or two ago.

The big winners of the year give some idea of what is taking place, and at present Jest stands highest in this list, though she is only £16 above The Tetrarch, and likely to be passed by the two-year-old and Tracery in a week or two. Jest comes of another branch of the Blacklock family, but through Sundridge, Amphion, Rosebery, and Speculum from Vedette, whereas St. Simon was by Galopin, who, like Speculum, was a son of Vedette. Jest's dam was by Melton from a Timothy (Hermit) mare, so she has no St. Simon blood. Neither has The Tetrarch, but his dam goes back to Vedette through Hagioscope. The third highest winner—who will head the list if he wins the Jockey Club Stakes—is Tracery, who is by Rock Sand out of Topiary by Orme. Rock Sand was out of Roquebrune by St. Simon, so that Tracery has the blood close up. After Tracery comes Louvois, by Isinglass out of St. Louvaine, by Wolf's Crag out of St. Reine by St. Simon, and then Light Brigade by Picton out of Bridge of Sighs. Picton has no St. Simon blood in his veins, and represents an unusual line of Bend Or through Orvieto, but Bridge of Sighs was by Isinglass out of Santa Brigida by St. Simon. Aboyeur, who stands sixth in the list of winners, is by the St. Simon horse Desmond, and so too is Stornaway, who comes next, while Prince Palatine and Long Set (eighth and ninth) are by the St. Simon horses Persimmon and Rabelais. Of the 18 horses who stand at the top of the winning list, seven of them are by sons of St. Simon, while six of the others have St. Simon blood close up on the female side.

All this shows the blood to be still playing a very big part, and it must not be forgotten that the unlucky Craganour was by Desmond or that Desmond himself is leading the winning sire list by about £6000. But, for all that, other St. Simon sires are not making quite the mark they did, and, for example, William the Third, though third in the list, has had no winning two-year-old except William Cann, while St. Frusquin has only had the two-year-olds Mira and St. Catrine in his list of winners. In the first forty winning stallions up to the end of last week there were a dozen sons and grandsons of St. Simon, and half a dozen others who have the blood through their dams. Extreme vitality is one of the characteristics of the breed, and we have heard that this is objected to in Australia, where it is said that some of the descendants of St. Simon have been exceedingly hot-tempered. In this country horses of St. Simon blood seem now, as a rule, to be as quiet as those of any other strain. Some of them are perhaps a little inclined to shirk their work at times, but the best are consistent runners and resolute fighters, and in this connection we may mention Persimmon and St. Frusquin, who fought out a couple of desperate struggles, and—coming to a later date—Prince Palatine. Another great performer of the breed was Ard Patrick, somewhat difficult to train, but a great horse when fully wound up, as he proved by his Eclipse Stakes victory over Sceptre. Of the mares of the family, Sceptre and La Fleche rather stand out.

St. Simon was a big horse, but we imagine not quite so big as his son Persimmon or his grandson Prince Palatine. Desmond was not a big horse, and some of his stock are on the small side, but neat and very bloodlike. Craganour was not a big one, and was somewhat light of loin, but many of the Desmond yearlings sold at the recent Doncaster sales were not only very short-backed, but showed extraordinary depth through heart and loin. And if Craganour did not fill the eye, he was probably the best three-year-old of the year, and certainly the most unlucky. He stood out as a two-year-old, and one cannot help thinking that he ought to have won both the Guineas and Derby. All the same, he was well sold at £30,000, but he has gone into good hands, and it is in every way likely that he will be a successful sire in the Argentine. Under any circumstances, Desmond is the sire of the year, for Roi Herode has only got The Tetrach to represent him, and, wonderful colt as the grey undoubtedly is, his sire's list is a barren one without him, for it only contains one other winner of £100. What we would like to see would be a tail male revival of Blair Athol blood in this country, and a chance was lost when Great Scot was allowed to go abroad from the recent Cobham sale. The horse in question has, we understand, left a fine colt foal behind him, but it is enormous odds against any foal being the saviour of a line of blood, and what would be better would be the purchase of one or two of Prince Charlie's male descendants from the colonies.

NOTES.

A proposal is on foot to hold a conference between representatives of the A.J.C., V.R.C., and V.A.T.C., with the object of coming to some arrangement, if possible, to prevent the clashing of dates of the Randwick and Caulfield spring fixtures, which at present operates detrimentally to both clubs.

Last year the fifty-second Melbourne Cup race was run. The amount of stakes for those fifty-two cups reaches the immense sum of £221,454.

The death is reported from New Zealand of the eight-year-old Gold Lace, by Gold Reef from Kahawai, by Quilt from Brooklet, by Torpedo from Rivulet, by Javelin. Gold Lace won the Northern Oaks at Auckland in 1909.

Monoquil, the dam of Soltana, last month in New Zealand, produced a filly foal to General Latour (son of imported Soult). La Notte, dam of such good performers as Noctuiform, Midnight Sun, and Nightfall, has produced a filly foal to imported All Black (son of Gallinule).

The late Mr. Geo. Faithful, of Brewarrina station, near Narrandera, was a very keen and sound student of the thoroughbred, and of the Bruce Lowe figure system. Mr. Faithful was a very successful buyer of brood mares. At the stud sale of 1895 he bought Lady Trentville, by Trenton, from Lady Granville, for 55 gns. Lady Trentville was raced in the Riverina, and won at Narrandera, and also in Sydney; but she did still better at the stud. Mr. Faithful sold her to Mr. Jas. Thompson, of Rylstone, and among her progeny is Jolly Beggar. Two other fillies bought in Sydney by Mr. Faithful in 1897 were Firebrand, by Russley (imp.) from Wildfire, and Goldust, by Niagara from Goldlike, by Trenton. In the season 1899 he sent these mares to Grafton at Rylstone. Having sold Brewarrina Mr. Faithful also disposed of the fillies to Mr. Thompson. Amongst the progeny of Firebrand was Tartar (by Grafton), the dam of Cagou, while Golddust produced the dual Derby winner, Sylvanite. Another mare raced by Mr. Faithful was Medalet, who afterwards produced Uxbridge, winner of the Australian Hurdle Race.

Since the inception of the A.J.C. Derby in 1865, the first V.R.C. Derby having been run nine years before, only 12 horses have succeeded in carrying off the blue riband of both States. The first to do so was Mr. E. De Mestre's colt Navigator in 1882, then came Nordenfelt 1885, Trident 1886, Amberite 1897, Maltster 1900, Hautvilliers 1901, Abundance 1902, Sylvanite 1904, Poseidon 1906, Mountain King 1907, Prince Foote 1909, and Beragoon.

The insane craze of many of our younger jockeys, especially Wootton's boys, for getting on the rails on every possible occasion, says an English writer, involves considerable danger to other jockeys, and such cases should be drastically dealt with by the authorities. The standing down of a boy for a day for such a grave offence is far too lenient, especially after so much has occurred in official circles of late over the matter of jostling.

The Hawke's Bay (N.Z.), Jockey Club has decided to borrow up to £20,000 for the purpose of carrying out improvements to its course and appointments.

The Maid, who won the £1000 trot at Richmond (Vic.) last week, after scoring in an earlier event, is a big, loosely-built, aged mare by the American sire Soumi, whose progeny are great performers in the States. She was brought to Australia, along with a consignment of other American horses, by Andrew Robertson, brother to "Lou" Robertson, of Allendale Stock Farm fame. The latter drove the mare in both her races with fine judgment. It was his first appearance in public as a driver for 12 months. The Maid, who is the property of a Sydney trotting enthusiast, had never previously won a race, though she made half a dozen efforts at Richmond during the past 12 months. In her first race she averaged a speed of 2.20 to the mile, whilst an hour later she reappeared and won the rich prize after averaging a speed of 2.23.

KILLARA V. NEWCASTLE.

CLUB COMPETITIONS.

The Killara and Newcastle clubs each season play home and home matches, and on Saturday the return match was played at Killara, the Northern Suburbs players having earlier in the year visited Newcastle, where they were defeated by the odd match.

There is a great advantage to the home team in matches between clubs so far apart as Newcastle and Sydney; and it was accordingly not a surprise to find Newcastle victorious in the first match. On Saturday, however, they did exceedingly well to beat Killara on the latter's course, which was, by reason of the alterations that have been effected, entirely strange to them. The fairways were, to the visitors, unusually rough, not having yet settled down to their state of expected excellence, which it is hoped will come with top-dressing and much attention. In the circumstances, the visitors put up a very meritorious performance.

W. P. Maschwitz, who led Killara, was opposed by J. R. Hooper, and the pair had a splendid match. There was little or nothing between them the whole way; and at the last green Hooper laid Maschwitz a stymie, and won the hole and the match. A. A. Burke (N.) early established a good lead from W. Atkins, Jun., and at the thirteenth was 4 up, with 5 to play, a very comfortable position. Of the next two holes, one was halved, and Atkins won the other, leaving Burke dormy 3. Atkins, however, was not finished with, and by plucky play, won the next three holes, squarring the match at the eighteenth green. Going on, the nineteenth was divided, and Burke ran down a long putt on the twentieth green to win a good match.

J. Paton, the Newcastle champion, was a little too strong for C. E. Graham. Playing steadily, he went gradually ahead, and won by 5 and 3. Newcastle had won the first three matches, C. E. Cowdery scoring first win for Killara by defeating his brother by 5 to 4, the local man holding the advantage all the way. J. W. Clark (N.) overwhelmed W. A. Purdom (K.), winning in the easiest fashion by 8 and 7; but H. Beiers (N.) had a more difficult task to beat C. J. Gant, but accomplished the feat by 2 holes. The last three matches went to Killara, W. C. Penfold beating A. N. Paton by 2 and 1, Lindsay Clarke defeating C. W. Donnelly by 3 and 1, and W. H. Locke being successful over H. Evans by 4 and 3. Newcastle won by 5 matches to 4, and established something in the nature of a record, inasmuch as it was the first time either club had won on the other's links.

Matches between Sydney and country teams have much to commend them, and it is a pity that more of such engagements are not held. With the exception of Killara, Concord, and Parramatta, none of the city and suburban clubs send teams to the country.

With such clubs within easy reach of Sydney as Newcastle, Waratah, Goulburn, Bathurst, and Wollongong, this is to be regretted, especially from the viewpoint of the country clubs. Looking at it from the other side, city teams are always well assured of an enjoyable time when visiting any of the country golf centres, and the trip once made is sure to be repeated. The country clubs benefit by meeting more advanced players on better courses than are usual in country centres; city clubs benefit by the understanding they acquire of the difficulties of playing golf in the country. The above has no application to Newcastle, which, with its excellent 9-hole course, will compare favourably with any of the Sydney suburban courses. Unfortunately, however, the club's tenure of the course is coming shortly to an end; but a large area of ground has been acquired at North Stockton, within a few miles of Newcastle, and work is proceeding which within a few years should give Newcastle a course equal to the best in the metropolitan area. Of course much labour and money is required, but the Newcastle golfers are keen enough players to supply both.

The Avalon shield at the Australian club's links was won by C. W. Bennett, who, with 15, seems very liberally handicapped. Playing in good form, he was round in 90, not by any means his best performance, his handicap giving him a net return of 75. P. Reading, with 92—15=77, was a good second, and R. T. Armstrong with 81—3=78, third. The others were far behind. H. B. Gritton scored a good win at Rose Bay, with a card of 79—3=76, being closely followed by D. Kelly, 101—22=79, and E. R. Moser, 96—17=79.

At Manly the results in the bogey handicap were not remarkable. P. F. S. Spence (scr), L. J. Osborne (3), W. R. Opie (3), and J. E. Westgarth (7) tying with cards of 2 down. Of the quartet the best performance over at least one half of the round was that of Spence, who was 5 down at the turn; but by brilliant play was 3 up coming home. In order to show that their recent defeat of Bonnie Doon in the inter-club competition was not in the nature of a fluke, the Manly team challenged Bonnie Doon to play a match at Manly. This was played last week-end, and, contrary to expectations, Bonnie Doon won by 5 matches to 4, though giving away one match by forfeit, owing to the absence of P. N. Russell. J. B. Ferrier led for Manly against J. E. Howard, and a good match resulted. The former was 3 up at the twelfth, and dormy 2 at the sixteenth. Howard won the seventeenth with a well-played 2, but Ferrier scored at the last hole, and won a good match by 2 holes. Ferrier was round in approximately 77 and Howard in 79.

L. R. Oswald Sealy, though he took sixes for the first two holes, required only 77 for the round, and finished 3 up and 1 on O. H. O'Brien, who was round in 79. P. F. S. Spence (M.) and H. W. M'Lelland (B.D.) had a good match. The former was out in 40, as against 41, and at the turn was 1 up. Coming home, Spence increased his lead, and at the fifteenth was dormy 3. M'Lelland won the sixteenth, but a half at the seventeenth in indifferent fours gave Spence the match by 2 and 1.

P. Sydney Jones was the first man to win for Bonnie Doon, by means of a good victory over T. Tombleson, and P. Ellis followed this up by defeating O. H. Wines by the odd hole. Ellis played very well going out, taking only 33 for 8 holes, but was not quite so good coming home. L. W. Mogg (B.D.) easily defeated G. S. Freeman by 5 and 4, and J. H. Brown and R. Aitken scored good wins over L. A. Dimant and H. G. V. Adler respectively. In the afternoon four-ball matches were played, and in these the Manly players were successful.

The best scoring on Saturday was recorded at Concord, where, of the first 10 cards, the lowest was only 1 down. Honours were divided by R. B. Godbolt (scr.) and R. Bull (16), who each finished 2 up. Godbolt started well with a 4, but threw away chances at each of the next two holes, taking 3 putts at the second, though close to the pin in 2, and taking 3 from just outside the green at the third. He was 2 up at the turn, and came home all square, though faulty putting left three sixes on his card, which read as follows:—

Out: 4, 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3, 3, 5=38.
In: 4, 4, 4, 6, 4, 4, 6, 3, 6=41.

R. Bull, one would think, has, with 16, rather too much handicap. He drives a very long ball, and only needs care in the short game to develop considerably. He was 2 up at the turn, and 3 up at the seventeenth, but, though he had a stroke at the last hole, lost it, and finished 2 up. J. S. Perry (7) had a good card of 1 up; D. W. Roxburgh (10) was square, and six players had cards of 1 down.

L. Upward, of the Killara and Manly clubs, is playing in good form. He has just won the knock-out singles at Killara, and is in the final of a similar event at Manly, where he has to meet J. B. Ferrier. At Killara he defeated S. A. Perry, who was 1 up at the turn, but faded away on the run home, and Upward, winning all of the remaining holes except one, which he halved, ran out a winner by 4 and 3. He will have his work cut out to beat Ferrier at Manly, but has done well to get into two finals.

E. T. Jones had the best return in the first round for the President's trophy at Dobroyde, with a well-compiled 93—22=71, which gave him a lead of five strokes from T. Campbell, with 96—20=76. This was followed by a 77 and seven 78's, so that it should be an interesting struggle for second place next Saturday. Jones, if he can maintain his form, should win.

H. Warren and Mrs. Warren won the mixed foursomes at Cammeray, with 93—29=64, being followed by T. Michell and Miss Crouch, with 95—27=68.

Long mark men were in evidence at Parramatta, M. G. Webster scoring a good win with 97—25=72, and R. G. Meek running second with 99—25=74. L. E. Carter was the best of the short markers, with 82—6=76. J. Kell (4), with 1 down, was successful in the bogey handicap at Hunter's Hill, where returns were not very good. The same may be said of Bonnie Doon, where the best return was that of H. A. Richardson, who, handicapped at 9, finished 2 down.

A strong team is being organised by W. A. Windeyer, to visit Newcastle on 15th inst., the names of W. C. Sturrock, H. Terrey, A. Orr, W. A. Windeyer, J. Kell, and others, being mentioned. Newcastle has not, so far, been beaten by a visiting team, but will have to look to its laurels on this occasion.

The Ellesmere Cup, an open stroke competition of 18 holes, from scratch, will be played at Kensington on Saturday.

THE SUMMER COMPETITIONS.

THE WHITE SOX-GIANTS' TOUR.

The season may now be said to be in full swing, but only six teams took part in Saturday's competition games. At the beginning of the season it was thought that fully double this number would take the field every Saturday. At present, Leichhardt are leading in both grades.

There are one or two notable instances of sore arm amongst those who were very enthusiastic. H. Dean, of Petersham, is unable to throw a ball, and is, therefore, incapacitated for both baseball and cricket. It is to be hoped that he will be able to get his arm well soon, otherwise the Petersham team will be without their most reliable pitcher for the winter series.

In the second-grade competition the Bank of Australasia team received a forfeit. This team is composed of players new to baseball—novices, brimming over with enthusiasm; but through a series of misfortunes they have only had the pleasure of competing in one game in the October round, which is disappointing. It was only natural that at the beginning the organisation would not be complete, and that there would be many little setbacks. The competitions have, however, been going on for a month, and will doubtless continue along smoother lines in the future, even if the number of clubs competing is fewer than was expected.

At Epping, the Leichhardt battery was too strong for the Waverley Red Sox batters, the result of the game never being in doubt; the final scores being 9—6 in favour of the former. For the winners, L. Turner and C. Franks did some fine baserunning, and the fieldwork of the side was good. The same cannot be said for the Red Sox, although Hernden, Heardman, and Duffy were exceptions. Duffy had a lot of work to do on first base, many of the erratic throws of the fieldsmen being difficult to negotiate. Home runs were hit by C. Franks (Leichhardt) and Hernden (Waverley). Leichhardt registered two double-plays.

Waverley Blue Sox v Petersham was a more evenly-contested game than the scores, 27—14, in favour of the former denote. Cave is back in the game again, and gave a good exhibition as catcher in the first part of the game. He subsequently went on the pitcher's plate and showed good form, striking out three opponents. Smith took his place behind the mask, and did well. Players should always take the cue from their captain; unity is essential in the game of baseball. In several instances Waverley's score was materially helped along by erratic throwing, and the infield was not faultless in this respect. By winning this match, Waverley Blue Sox lead Waverley Red Sox in the competition. Through the absence of Brown, A. Bragg put the mask on, and Tucker did the pitching. Casey, at shortstop, is a tower of strength to the side, both in batting and fielding. Generally speaking, the batting of the team was good; Vaughan, Coulter, and Casey, each hitting a home run. Campbell, in the outfield, was in good form.

The competition points:—
B. Grade.—Leichhardt, 8; Waverley Cubs, 2; Tramway, 2; Bank of Australasia, 2.

THE WHITE SOX-GIANTS' TOUR.

The forthcoming world tour of the White Sox-New York Giants combination is of much greater importance than any similar sporting event of modern times. The tour is backed by the greatest and richest sporting men of America, and has been planned, and will be carried out upon a basis never before attempted in an event of this kind. The tourists have already had recognition from the President of the United States, and from the State Department, and are receiving their fullest co-operation at each of the ports to be visited.

The tour, as a sporting event, has assumed proportions of international importance, and has created great enthusiasm in the majority of the countries to be visited. It is not their mission to go around to the different cities of the world renting grounds and advertising the games to be played. This would reduce the tour to the level of a travelling circus, and put a spirit of commercialism into the enterprise which has no place in it. Naturally, the project involving such expense as this one does, must be carried out upon a business-like basis, and the guarantee, required, which is a very small one, is regarded more as an index to the demand for such a high-class event in any given locality. The party are not dependent for existence at any point upon any possible receipts which might be taken in at that point. Australia was included in the itinerary because it is known as a country that loves sport of every kind.

CRICKET.

FOURTH ROUND COMMENCED.

A DAY OF SURPRISES.

It was a day of great surprises in the first grade competition on Saturday, and no more emphatic illustration of the uncertainty of the game could be desired. The biggest surprise of all, perhaps, was the extraordinary batting failure at North Sydney Oval, where, up to the time that each side had completed an innings, 20 wickets had fallen for 141 runs, 21 of which belonged to sundries. The average, therefore, worked out at six runs per wicket. That meagre average naturally suggests some defect in the playing conditions, but that suggestion is quite erroneous. It was not the pitch, which, though not perfect, was in good run-getting condition, and the light, though dull at times, could at most have been only a very subsidiary cause. The heavy atmosphere certainly lent assistance to the swerving bowlers, but B. G. Long may be said to be the only one to make use of this assistance. The North Sydney left-hander, though he has played in all three matches this season, had only been twice asked to bowl previously, and in all had sent down only 9 overs for 14 runs, without getting a wicket. On Saturday along with Moore he was deputed to open the attack, and in his first over clean bowled Cranney and O'Neill. Both were out to slightly over-tossed balls carrying a lot of swerve. Subsequently, he captured three more wickets, and had the distinction of bowling right through the Cumberland innings. In the end, he secured five wickets for 35 runs—a very good performance.

"SWERVES."

Bowling round the wicket, he made the new ball swing in quite a lot to the right-handed batsman, but tended rather to overtoss the "swingers;" with his other deliveries he kept a good, steady length. A young player, with a very nice free-swinging action, and more than average ability to make the ball "do things." Long should develop into a more than useful bowler, even in better class company. His swerve is a great asset. It is just the ordinary "seam" swerve so common amongst English bowlers, but it is worth while studying how it can be made most effective.

Moore also bowls a swerve with the new ball, but the uncertainty of his length makes him comparatively expensive. After he had bowled six overs for 18 runs and one wicket, Dr. Herdern took the ball, and rapidly finished off the Central Cumberland innings. He captured four wickets for 12 runs.

BATTING MEDIOCRITY.

All out for 80 seemed a most mediocre performance—top score 18, by L. W. Pye. North Sydney batsmen opened as if in a hurry to hit off the runs and knock up a big score. The early batsmen showed unwarrantable daring in their treatment of the bowling, and, after their downfall the remainder displayed the opposite attitude of masterly inactivity, amounting almost to batting paralysis. That exactly summarises the North Sydney innings: it was too feeble for further description. In the circumstances, of course, Central Cumberland bowlers were seen to signal advantage. Coogan bowled best, and captured four wickets for 32 runs. He is a slow right hand bowler with a short halting run and a leg-break action in delivery. He turns the ball very little from the leg-side, but on Saturday he kept a good length, and occasionally sandwiched in a "bosie" which apparently gave the batsmen a deal of trouble. He bowled throughout the innings, and after the fatal attempts of Hopkins and Moore to hit him, his slows had the batsmen entirely on the defensive, and in difficulties, whilst repeatedly beating the bat and missing the wicket. His performance must certainly be accounted an excellent one, better than his figures indicate, even admitting the frailty of the batting opposed to him. May be his bowling was largely responsible for the feeble batting display, but even, if not, Coogan is entitled to full credit for taking advantage of his opportunity.

R. Strange, whose five for 50 against Western Suburbs in the previous round attracted notice, commenced the bowling with Coogan, and kept an end going for 15 overs, during which period only 20 runs were hit from him, and he secured three wickets. Curiously enough, his medium-paced deliveries never appeared to present any difficulties to the batsmen, who, on the other hand, seemed quite unable to get the ball away for runs, though many half-volleys and an occasional full toss happened along.

With three wickets to fall, Pye took the ball, and quickly capturing two of them, finished off what must have been one of the worst batting displays ever given by North Sydney. The chief credit, however, for the lead on the first innings belongs to Coogan and Strange.

THE UNEXPECTED AT 'VARSITY OVAL.

Another surprising afternoon's cricket was that at the University Oval. The pitch was good and the conditions favourable to run-getting, yet twenty-one wickets fell during the afternoon. Sydney collapsed completely, being all dismissed for 68 (thirteen sundries), with A. R. Jenkins 30 not out as the only double figure scorer. Jenkins, as usual, played very soundly. He made a number of excellent strokes on both sides of the wicket, and was the only batsman to give an appearance of withstanding the University attack. Massie was in great form, sending them down at a great pace with plenty of swerve. It was a suitable day for the development of the swerve, and the amount which the tall left-hander imparted to the ball was very highly suggestive of what he might do in the dull, heavy, English atmosphere. In eleven overs he captured five wickets for 32 runs, but these figures are no sort of index of the difficulty the batsmen experienced in trying to play his bowling.

ALL BOWLERS SUCCESSFUL.

In a total of 68 it was curious, and most unusual, to find four bowlers having a turn with the ball, and yet that was the case in this innings, in which Stack, Cooney, and Gregg, all bowled, besides Massie. They all got wickets, Stack two for fifteen, Cooney one for 5, and Gregg two for 3; and, apart from their results, all appeared to bowl quite well. It is worthy of note also, perhaps, that all four Sydney bowlers tried during the University innings got wickets. Dr. Willcocks did well against his old comrades, dismissing Barbour, Tozer, and Lamrock in quick succession with only 31 runs on the board. It was this good start that laid the foundation for the subsequent successes of the Sydney bowlers, although R. B. Minnett (53), and Gregg (23), partly checked their success. Minnett played a very determinded and useful innings, hitting two sixes and eight fours. His square cutting was excellent, and he also made, in addition to a number of fine drives, several very effective pulls. Gregg shaped aggressively, but not in his best form. Wickets were divided between Collins (two for 41), Toby (two for 41), and Coffey (three for 16). It was a splendid achievement to get University out so cheaply.

BARDSLEY'S REMINDER.

Warren Bardsley made an auspicious return to the ranks of Glebe. Elected to his former position of captain, he won the toss from Trumper, and although compelled to wait an hour and ten minutes with his pads on for the first Glebe wicket to fall, he set about the bowling merrily, and was not dismissed till he had scored the only First Grade century of the afternoon. His display was not perfect, but his innings was a remarkably fine out-of-form effort. It will do much towards putting the great left-hander into his best form; in any case it was a "reminder" of Bardsley's batting mastery. At first he was not too sure of timing, but later many of his strokes were gems. It was surprising, for instance, with what precision and certainty he made the leg-glance, and how accurately he placed his drives. These latter, though not of the cannon-ball variety, reached the fence just as unerringly because of their placing. An eminent English authority (to wit, Arthur Shrewsbury) often used to say to young players, "Look here, young man, you do not need to knock the palings out of the fence with your strokes—merely place them nicely, and only hit them hard enough to just beat the fieldsmen. It makes the fielding side more tired than the other sort of play, and you will get more runs in the end." Shrewsbury certainly practised what he preached, and Warren Bardsley gave a good illustration of the lesson on Saturday.

OTHER ITEMS FROM GLEBE.

C. Kelleway (82) was the next highest scorer to Bardsley in First Grade on Saturday, and but for a piece of bad luck in being thrown out, would probably have reached three figures. Kelleway played very solidly throughout, whilst at times his methods were decidedly bright and his stroke play attractive. He hit eleven fours, and participated in two fine partnerships (89 for the first wicket and 58 for the second). His batting went far towards establishing Glebe's strong position, though it must be admitted that the scoring was good right through, only one batsman (A. Cotter) being dismissed for less than double figures. D. Taylor batted with plenty of vigour and enterprise in making a very useful 37 not out. It was curious that Trumper only utilised three bowlers during the afternoon, and between them they sent down 83 overs. In the circumstances it is much to the credit of the bowlers that the scoring rate for the Glebe innings did not exceed four runs per over. Bowden bowled 24 consecutive overs, whilst in all he and Shortland sent down 31 overs each.

PETERSHAM MAKES BIGGEST TOTAL.

Petersham did well to hit up 352 runs, the biggest total of the afternoon. Here again the honours were well distributed, eight batsmen making double figures. E. A. Newton, who played very solidly from the first, had a big share in laying the foundation of the big total. His defence is not very elegant, but it is hard to break through, and his scoring strokes are generally made with a big margin for safety. Going in first, he took part in three useful partnerships, and was not dismissed till the total had reached 172, of which his share was 61. A. W. Norris also made 61, batting freely and well throughout; he hit nine fours, and showed plenty of confidence. The brightest batting of the innings, however, was that of R. W. Law, recently returned from Queensland, who gave an earnest of his aggressive intentions by lifting the first ball he received into the pavilion. Continuing in aggressive mood, in 22 minutes he hit up 51 runs, including three sixers and seven fours, i.e., 44 of his total in ten strokes. His re-appearance will be very welcome to his old club. Scott also hit out very vigorously, scoring three sixers, and one four in his 35, whilst R. Wenholz notched a very useful 38 not out. The most attractive batting of the innings, however, was that of Andrews, who made a very neat 30 before being cleverly taken in the slips. Seven bowlers were tried for Paddington, whose batsmen have a stiff task ahead this week-end.

WESTERN SUBURBS OUTPLAYING MIDDLE HARBOUR.

Western Suburbs have all the better of the match with Middle Harbour at Pratten Park, requiring only 138 to win with all wickets intact. After a promising start, 57 for the first wicket, Middle Harbour were all dismissed for 226. The batting was patchy. E. Bull showed by far the best form, and his 69 was a really good effort. Bull has a capital defence, as well as all the advantages of a long reach in the making of his strokes. His defence is modelled more on English lines than on Australian. He drives splendidly, and with reasonable opportunities should develop into a very strong batsman. He held the side together on Saturday, when collapse seemed imminent, and in this endeavour he received able assistance for the seventh wicket from Neville, who stonewalled for 29. Docker, with three for 32, bowled best for Western Suburbs. He kept a better length than Dive and Owen, who, however, captured four and three wickets respectively. Dive has proved a very valuable acquisition to the Western Suburbs attack. Three of his four wickets were clean bowled on Saturday, and the fourth was the result of a specially good left-handed catch off his own bowling. With the bat, Pratten and Docker showed fine form, and soon established a mastery over the attack. Four bowlers were tried, but none succeeded in making any impression upon the batsmen, who scored steadily and regularly till the close of play. Their partnership has so far realised 89 runs, and their attractive batting gave great pleasure to local enthusiasts.

FLUCTUATIONS OF FORTUNE.

The outstanding feature of the Redfern-Balmain contest was the manner in which the fortunes of the game fluctuated. Having won the toss, Redfern started off well with 40 for the first wicket; the second wicket fell with the score unaltered; the third wicket partnership retrieved this temporary check, and, by adding 106 runs to the total, placed the batting side in a comparatively strong position. This, by the way, was the biggest partnership of the afternoon, and the only one to exceed three figures, and strangely enough, it was followed by the most complete collapse of the afternoon, the last seven wickets adding only 24 runs.

Balmain, on going to the wickets, immediately met with a reverse, losing the first wicket before a run had been scored; then Folkard, assisted by Ward, effected a recovery, adding 47 for the second wicket, of which number Folkard was responsible for 41. The Balmain all-rounder, in fact, was in fine form again. He batted very confidently against the returned tourists, Emery and Mailey, being especially severe on the former, whose four overs, as erratic as ever, cost 33 runs. With the ball Folkard captured six for 64. He was the principal in the Redfern collapse, as he captured six of the last seven wickets for 10 runs. Previous to going on to bowl the second time, he had taken no wickets for 54 runs; having dismissed the two Redfern top-scorers, he went through the remainder of the side. If Balmain does not win this match it will not have been the fault of Folkard. Wall also bowled well. He sent down 20 overs without a maiden for 55 runs and three wickets. Both he and Folkard had chances missed off them, or their figures would have been much better.

SCIENTIFIC BATTING.

The most scientific piece of batting in the game was that of J. C. Barnes, who played a stylish and almost chanceless innings for 71. He made runs on both sides of the wicket with a variety of supremely confident and choice strokes. His best hits included nine fours. Goddard put together an eminently useful, if less elegantly made, half-century. He made more mistakes than Barnes, and his style and methods were by comparison laborious. His runs, however, were badly wanted, and on that account his 51 was a very valuable and meritorious contribution. Emery and Mailey, by the way, both failed to score, but Rix shaped in his customary breezy, energetic manner whilst making his 20. Balmain require fewer than 100 (99) to win on the first innings, with eight wickets in hand, an achievement which should be easily within their power, notwithstanding the fact that Folkard is out and that the full strength of the Redfern attack is available.

SEDUCTIVE SLOWS.

Having the bye, Waverley commenced a match with Dr. O'Hara's country team, but the metropolitan players had matters all their own way. Except for E. L. Waddy, himself a metropolitan representative, the countrymen failed completely against the bowling of Pite. Waddy made 44 in a total of 94, and no other batsman made double figures. Pite, who captured eight wickets for 60, simply demoralised the countrymen with his hanging off breaks. Only one man was bowled, and Waddy was given out l.b.w., but the remainder were all out in the attempt to hit the seductive slows. Pite captured eight out of the nine wickets that fell to the bowlers, one man being run out. Shea was the other bowler to capture a wicket. Against him the country batsmen were practically helpless to score, for Shea sent down 12 overs, seven of which were maidens, for 11 runs. Flynn only bowled three overs, from which 28 runs were hit (mostly by Waddy). The left-hander, however, had his revenge with the bat, for going in second wicket down, he hit up a fine 113 out of 187 made while he was batting. This success with the bat is as encouraging as it was unexpected, but it was by no means undeserved. In the course of his innings Flynn made any number of fine strokes, and there was nothing lacking in the way of variety about them. Davis also played exceptionally well for 68, and Grace made a very neat 35 not out.

BOWLING.

THE PRESENT AND THE FUTURE.

In five weeks time the pennant competition is scheduled to start, and meantime the cool, moist weather is bringing on the greens nicely. Bowlers will have some fine swards to play on this season, and every one of them should be in apple-pie order by December 13. Last year, it will be remembered, a couple of the grounds were not sufficiently forward to permit of the opening round being played thereon; and the venues had to be changed. Those clubs fortunate enough to possess auxiliary rinks are in much demand nowadays, and last Saturday some excellent practice matches took place.

A strong three-rink team from the City visited Petersham, but was defeated by 77 to 69. Perhaps the advantage of playing on the home green meant a few points to the winners, but there are distinct signs that Petersham will be a foe to be reckoned with when the battle begins in earnest. President Felix Booth has succeeded in restoring the old harmony in the club circle, but players like Lawson and Harber are not readily replaced. Strong won from T. Anderson, 30-21; O'Neill beat Harris by 26-18; but only a point divided Peter Anderson and Yeo.

A home-and-home contest between Marrickville and St. George resulted in a narrow win for the former by 4 points. In every rink the game was stubbornly fought, the only advantage of any magnitude being secured by McIntosh, who beat Dr. McLeod, 33-20.

Two other matches were won by 4 points each on the same afternoon, Parramatta beating Ryde by 48-44, and Petersham beating Redfern by 78-74. For Parramatta, Pearson was a good winner, 25-15, and for Ryde, Berry scored 29-23. At Gladstone Park, where Petersham and Redfern met, Morgan, 26-13, was the former's best skip, and for Redfern, Hanigan returned a card of 26-15.

Gladstone Park did not succeed against Randwick, but Jesson prevailed over Kinnane, 26-21. Gordon, 25-15, Spohn, 31-20, and Hardy, 28-22, were captains of Randwick's winning rinks.

Manly made the long journey to Waverley with some purpose, for their rinks won with ease in each instance. Knox, 32-19, Dumbrell, 29-19, and Hind, 28-21 were in command. Mention of Manly reminds one that rumour credits Fuller with a decision to go fishing instead of skipping a rink in this season's pennant. Extraordinary, if true.

That old campaigner, McPherson, 27-16, and Thomas, 24-20, were chiefly instrumental in the Hunter's Hill victory over Ryde, while Bridgewater, 27-19, and Burney, 27-22, carried the Warringah banner on high over Chatswood.

Those close neighbours, Strathfield and Burwood, had a friendly spar prior to more serious bouts later on, but Strathfield won hands down in every rink. Shadforth, 29-15, King, 23-11, Reid, 27-20, and Lane, 23-17, skipped for the Union Club. The Wednesday Shield matches should have provided Burwood with some ideal practice, but only the competition itself will reveal whether the hoped-for improvement has been effected.

Victoria Park had two engagements, and won both. Against Balmain, Hogue 33—23, Thorne 23—14, and Purves 24—20 were successful, as were Abel 29—18, Purves 25—15, and Bamfield 22—18 against Marrickville. Balmain's only winning rink was piloted by the genial McLaren 26—19, while Wedlock and his men, by scoring 37—15 for Marrickville, almost counterbalanced the non-success of their comrades.

SUNDRY TOPICS.

Teams as well as greens are in course of construction, and in every club a deal of thought is being expended just now in order to arrive at the strongest representatives. Methods of selection vary, and it is somewhat puzzling to think that clubs are now no nearer a solution of the best method than they were 15 or 20 years ago. Bowlers are notoriously difficult to please. Even among the 16 who reach the coveted distinction of inclusion in the pennant team dissatisfaction is often rampant, because placings do not accord with the idea of the individual. The scratching pen is freely used, and the club strength is unfaithfully reflected when the day arrives. Why is it that bowlers are so sensitive in this and parallel matters? It is scarcely playing the game to agree to a certain course of choice, to appoint certain arbiters, and then to repudiate their decision. Two or three nights ago skippers were being appointed in one of the clubs, and the president made a special appeal to members to abide loyally by the teams when chosen. It remains to be seen whether the appeal will be heeded, but it is safe to say that scarce one club exists where this canker is unknown.

Waverley has chosen the same captains as last year, but somehow the 20 players from which the final rinks will come do not strike one as being very formidable for a club of its size. It must not be forgotten that Waverley has been unfortunate in losing some sterling players recently, but the enthusiasm which invariably characterises Waverley's competition efforts will weigh heavier than mere reputations when tried in the balance.

From a large field of candidates the same four Randwick skips also emerged triumphant. Phippard will probably return from the home trip on December 11, just in time to take his accustomed position on the opening day, but it is not unlikely that the New Zealand tour will affect Randwick more than most clubs. Bressington was chosen as emergency captain, and his services are almost certain to be required occasionally. It would seem that anything in the nature of keen and vigorous contest is a bit of a bore to Randwick, and consequently their showing in pennants of late years has been below par. In the year 1912-13 the club championship was not decided. It commenced in June last, and about the beginning of September four were left in. They are still in, and appear likely to be in for some time yet, for, though the quartet spend almost every afternoon on the green, the bare mention of settling the championship seems by common consent to be tabooed. Three games would decide it, and if not soon done there is a likelihood of a tangle ensuing with the current season's event. The business-like methods of Marrickville and Waverley stand out in bold contrast, and it is such apathy that prevents the single-handed championship of the State being carried out on the club and district lines, as was done the season before last.

Entries for the visit to Victoria will close to-morrow, but at latest the prospects of the trip taking place were extremely slender.

A meeting of the New South Wales contingent for New Zealand will be held this evening at the Builders' Exchange, when the itinerary and other important matters will be discussed. The president, Mr. Spence, was bent on making one of the party, but the State of his health, unfortunately, precludes the proposition.

The objection to the preliminary roll-up prior to pennant matches is a little difficult to understand, and it is not unlikely that many breaches will take place in the course of the year. The early arrival had an interesting reward for punctuality in the shape of a test of the "strength" and "draw" of the green. Now he has to cool his heels in idleness till the last laggard enters an appearance.

Mr. Clayton has secured a wonderful reformation if his advocacy of Saturday as a competition day bears fruit. Hitherto, the singles, pairs, and rinks championships have been played on ordinary business days, and the events were not in reality State championships at all. Under the old style, the association discovers only the champions of the leisured class; under the new suggestion, every bowler in the State may become a candidate, and the title when won will be true to label. The answer to another inquiry of the Northern Districts representative practically appears above. How is it that half-a-dozen or more entries for each of the competitions may be received from one club? Because the majority of clubs are too tired to ascertain for themselves within a reasonable period who is their best individual player, which their best pair, and which their best rink.

Selections are in the air, and strange things are told. Among others is the case of a number three, who played throughout in by far the most successful rink of the most successful club in the State last season. Left in the popular vote, his name is absent from the 20 from whom next year's team must come. Of course, the rink in which he played last year may have been enabled to achieve its splendid record in spite of his efforts. It simply demonstrates how magnificently the leader, second and skip., must have played to carry such a handicap through a strenuous series, and win. And yet it seems more than passing strange.

The Civic Club made its debut during the week, and inaugurated what promises to be a long series of sociable matches. Already the membership numbers the half-century, and under the popular hand of Mr. L. C. Terrey, hon. secretary, it promises to increase rapidly. Even before a bowl was greened they won the title of the "Cuckoo Club," for the obvious reason that they have no nest of their own, but promise to invade others regularly. This afternoon the Balmain bower will be visited.

The Ashfield rinks have been put together, but the names of Richardson, Harber, and Spendilove, who figured prominently in last season's triumph, are missing.

Eighteen visitors from the Maitland Central Club returned on Monday, a call which Randwick paid them last April. On that occasion, wet weather interfered with the game, but better fortune was encountered on this occasion. Messrs. Rose, Raffan, Crouch, Gale, and Bressington met the holiday makers at the Central station, and an interesting tour in motor cars of the city and suburbs followed. Coogee beach was visited, and luncheon partaken of at the Royal Hotel. The match in the afternoon was won by the Metropolitan players, after a keen game. An exchange of compliments by the two presidents, Messrs. Galton and Rose, concluded a happy day, and the northerners returned home in the evening well pleased with the trip.

SAILING.

THE GASCOIGNE CUP.

ADVANCE'S "HAT TRICK."

The first ocean race of the season will be held on Saturday next, under the flag of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, for the cup presented to the squadron by the late Colonel Gascoigne at the time when his son, Captain (now Colonel) Gascoigne, was A.D.C. to Lord Carrington and also a member of the squadron. The initial race for this cup took place in 1886, and was won by the Magic, which was owned by Sir James R. Fairfax, who some years ago retired from the more active part of the sport, as many other distinguished yachtsmen have done who have taken part in this contest.

The Gascoigne Cup has come to be looked on as almost a perpetual trophy, owing to the condition that it must be won three times in succession by the same yacht and owner. Should a yachtsman succeed in winning it outright, it will, no doubt, be the most prized of all his trophies on account of the severe conditions under which it will be won, and the names inscribed on it of famous boats and yachtsmen. This event has been won twice in succession by Mr. S. M. Dempster, in Petrel, and Mr. T. W. Bremner in Scotia, and these wins were recorded in four successive years. The list of winners to date are:—

1889.—Volunteer, Mr. W. P. Smairl.
1890.—Isca, Dr. F. Milford.
1894.—Iolanthe, Dr. F. Milford.
1896.—Herreshoff, Mr. J. Cox.
1898.—Iduna, Mr. W. M. Cameron.
1900.—Aoma, Mr. C. T. Brockhoff.
1901.—Aoma, Mr. A. Dixson.
1902.—Petrel, Mr. S. M. Dempster.
1903.—Petrel, Mr. S. M. Dempster.
1904.—Scotia, Mr. T. W. Bremner.
1905.—Scotia, Mr. T. W. Bremner.
1908.—Whitewings, Mr. J. A. Moston.
1910.—Yeulba, Mr. A. L. Mullens.
1912.—Petrel, Mr. C. Trebeck.

The yachts will be given a flying start at [illegible] p.m., time allowance being deducted from the finishing times. The course will be from Neutral Bay, round a flag mark off Long Reef, and back to the finishing line off the Squadron Club-house.

In a nice nor'-east breeze last season, this event provided a most interesting and exciting race, Petrel winning from Thelma by the small margin of seven seconds, while Culwulla III., the winner the previous season, was beaten for second place by only 21s.

On Saturday afternoon the Sydney Amateur Sailing Club will hold cruisers' handicap races for both A and B classes, which are open to the cruiser boats of the club, the sails being restricted to working sails, including topsails, booming out not being allowed. The course for the A class will be from a line between starter's boat and Orient buoy in Neutral Bay, round R.S.Y.S. buoy at Manly, round Shark Island, and finish over starting line. The B class course is from the same starting line, round gas-buoy, Sow and Pigs, Shark Island, Fort Denison, Shark Island, and finish over starting line. Entries for both of these events will close to-day at 4 p.m., which is a day earlier in the week than has been the custom in the past, and which will give the honorary handicappers an extra day in which to work out the handicaps, always a difficult and tedious task, especially with so many different designs of boat as are to be seen racing in this club.

Before the start of the Flying Squadron's racing on Saturday, Sunny South, the limit boat in the first heat was fancied, but she failed to sail up to expectations, and was not even placed amongst those which qualified for the final. Since she distinguished herself by her speedy leading qualities a couple of seasons ago, when she achieved considerable success, Sunny South has not been very prominent, but she did not race for some time. It was probably her third in the Sydney Club's handicap on Saturday week, coupled with the fact that she was receiving 3m over the triangle, as against 5½m in the race mentioned, that made her chance so much liked on Saturday.

Not only was her failure disappointing, but the unexpected happened in the first heat with Quibree, which looked the winner, and actually did win all the way. This boat has rarely been taken seriously, and it was a coincidence that she should bob up at the time when Advance, another of the "long-markers," was making a name for herself.

The latter's decisive wins in both the second heat and the final show that she will in future need to be treated with more respect by the handicappers. Apparently the handicappers for Saturday's race did not regard Advance's easy victory in the Sydney Club's race on the previous Saturday worthy of notice, as she was not penalised for her win. On Saturday she was placed on the same mark (3¼m) as she started from in the Squadron's previous race on October 18. It may be that they considered her Sydney Club success a "flash in the pan," so to speak, in view of her indifferent performances of the past, but this was really no reason for not bringing her back in the handicaps.

By winning the Sydney Club's last race and the second heat and final of the Squadron's race on Saturday, Advance has performed the "hat trick."

Saturday's was the third consecutive race in which the handicap boats scored over the backmarkers. This they have really done in four of the six races decided up to the present, but this is rather a healthy condition of things, as Kismet, Australian, Nimrod, and possibly Mavis will take a lot of beating before the season is out. It must be admitted, however, that some of the handicap boats are sailing better than before, and their crews are showing improvement, too.

Australian has not yet secured a win this season, but her second in the final on Saturday was the next best thing. Her performance was full of merit, for at Taylor Bay Swastika, which had done well, appeared to have all except Advance beaten.

SWIMMING.

RESTORATION OF EAST SYDNEY

WATER POLO.

The chief item of interest in local swimming circles during the week has been the movement to re-form the East Sydney Club. It will be remembered that the officials of the famous old club decided to disband last season owing to the difficulty experienced in finding young officials with sufficient enthusiasm to carry out the executive duties of the club. But in order to preserve the name, the remaining members presented to the New South Wales Association a shield to be competed for in the 500yds teams' championship of the State, with which race the name of the East Sydney Club is indelibly connected. It now appears as if time will bring its changes, and wipe out the stigma of the year's inactivity by enabling the club to make a bold bid to have its name engraved on its own shield for the ensuing season.

At a meeting held during the week it was decided to re-establish the club, and amongst the names of intending members were those of Cecil Healy, E. Wickham, Tas. Jones, Ross Garland, F. C. V. Lane, and others who were members in the prosperous days of the club, and whose names are prominently connected with the swimming history of the State. Over 50 active members have already been enrolled and on Saturday afternoon the officials took time trials for 20 new swimmers. F. C. V. Lane has signified his willingness to strip once more for his club in the teams' championship, while from Wariaida Ross Garland (one time State distance champion) writes that he intends to take up active swimming again, and if fit will compete in the State championships during the annual galas. The country championship at least should be easily won by the East Sydnerite.

Although a strong team of State and Australian champions and ex-champions may represent the donors of the shield in the teams' championship this season, Saturday afternoon's swimming at the Domain gave indication that once again the Sydney Club will be able to give all entrants a good race for the honours. The pride of place was again taken by Barry, who was timed by several onlookers (including Cecil Healy) to cover 100yds in 57 1-5s. The Sydney Club champion, although swimming well, appeared to lack his usual strong finishing effort. A shortage of condition was also noticeable in the case of Hardwick, who, however, swam consistently in both heat and final, recording 59 3-5s and 59 1-5s respectively. The winner of the event was also a member of the club's representative team—F. Cummings, the association handicapper, who showed plenty of condition and dash in winning both heat and final by the closest of touches in 62s. Cummings is perhaps swimming too well for so early in the season. Neither of the Boardman brothers, who also figured in the Sydney team last season, swam in the club events on Saturday, but a fine performance was registered by Riley, an ex-Queenslander, who covered the distance in 65 2-5s, with a nice "crawl."

The premiers (Rose Bay) appear to have fallen on evil days, so far as their chance of retaining the teams' championship is concerned, as only two of last year's team will remain with them. Tas Jones and E. Wickham will join other clubs, and A. Wickham will be engaged in an occupation necessitating him abstaining from amateur swimming. Manly will also lose at least one member in Cecil Healy, who has not yet competed this season, but who will certainly rejoin East Sydney. At the same time, the sea-side club is in a healthy condition, as the 73 starters on Saturday and the standard of its swimming testify. Solomon again demonstrated his capabilities over 50yds with a performance of 25 1-5s, which was almost equalled by H. M. Hay's 25 2-5s. The Manly Club have several promising sprint swimmers, the majority of whom use the up-to-date "crawl," and still another was discovered in the winner of Saturday's race (F. Lough), who put up 26 3-5s.

In the Western Suburbs the social side of the sport was in evidence on Saturday at the opening of the new club room at Drummoyne. Representatives of the association and kindred clubs were present. It is good to note that the powerful Western Suburbs premiers are more reconciled with the association since they have gained greater familiarity with its workings, and this was the principal note struck in the speeches.

Water Polo is again "in the air," and, in spite of the pessimistic note struck at the annual meeting, the local amateur Association is making preparations for a busy season. Entries have been called for the three grades to be contested. The matches will be played on fixed nights during the week, and inquiries are being made for suitable baths and referees. It is probable that the Manly Baths, which are lighted by electricity, will be a popular deciding place for various games during the season. Entries will close on November 11, and the competitions will commence on November 25.

It has been suggested that the Novice competition should be revived, but the committee is wise in restricting the competitions to three grades. When introduced a few seasons ago, the Novice grade served its purpose in bringing into the game a fresh set of players, including the members of the Rechabite club, which, in successive seasons won the Novice, C and B grade competitions. But the difficulty of successfully working the three competitions decided upon, combined with the general unsuitability of baths in the metropolitan area, and also the lack of referees, make it a wise step not to enlarge the scope of the competitions. When interest begins to lag, and fresh blood is needed, a Novice competition might be again initiated instead of the present C grade. For the first time in many years the polo competition will be controlled by a secretary who will devote his whole energies to the duties. Mr. V. Read, of the Drummoyne Club, has volunteered to relieve the A.S.A. Secretary of that portion of his duties, and, with his experience in other sports, should make a success of the competitions.

In both Queensland and Victoria the policy of having a separate committee and secretary for water polo is in vogue. The Queensland committee has already received entries and arranged fixtures for the season's competition, in which eight clubs will take part. Endeavours are also being made to form a referees' association. In Victoria Mr. A. Souter, of the Melbourne club who has played water polo in Belgium and France, has accepted the position of water polo secretary. Swimming matters in Victoria are, however, very quiet at present. The association is faced with a big deficit on the last Australian championship meeting, and at present is not inclined to join in the risk of financing the visit of Kahanamoku. However, the new secretary (Mr. Campbell, an ex-Balmain swimmer) is endeavouring to arrange guarantees outside the council. To slightly relieve the financial stringency, the governing body has raised the affiliation fee paid on active swimmers to 1s 6d for this season only, and has also adopted this State's system of interclub entries passing through the governing body.

In Queensland, however, a different story is being told. The season is already in full swing, clubs are holding weekly events, and the association is making preparation for a busy season. The State championships have been allotted as follow:—One mile to Toowong, 1320 yards to Rockhampton, 880 yards to Railway, 220 yards to the Valley, 100 yards to Warwick, and 60 yards junior to Ipswich. The annual Kieran Memorial Race was allotted to the Commercial club. The Queensland A.S.A. is also moving in the matter of bath accommodation, in which Brisbane has been stationary for over 10 years. Visitors to the last Australian championships held in Brisbane will certainly agree that improvement is necessary. The ladies' side of the sport also seems to be flourishing, as there are no fewer than 10 active clubs in and around Brisbane. In this respect they are certainly showing more enterprise than the local ladies.

Distance swimming has become popular in the northern State, and the Bremer River, at Ipswich, seems to furnish an ideal course. No fewer than three races over the three miles' course will be decided on this river during the season. The first one—the three miles championship of the Commercial Ladies' Club—took place last Saturday. There were 10 competitors, and those who completed the course received a gold medal and special certificate. The winner was again Miss Minnie King, who in covering the distance in 1 hour 21 min. 28 secs improved on her last year's effort by over half an hour. Her two sisters, who were second and third, also bettered the winner's figures of last year. The three swims are all fine efforts, but the girls were evidently greatly assisted by tidal and other conditions, as the figures show, when compared with the local swimmers' times in the New South Wales three miles championship. This season there will also be a three miles ladies' championship of Queensland, which the Queensland Ladies' A.S.A. has granted permission to the Valley Ladies' Club to control on the Ipswich course. A team State championship for ladies will be held on the same occasion, probably on the last Saturday in this month or the first in December. The association's three miles handicap will also be held on the same course.

It is doubtful if either the Victorian or South Australian Associations will receive a visit from Kahanamoku. This will enable the visitor to make a more leisurely trip between Sydney and Brisbane and back, and thence to New Zealand. At the same time, it appears that Kahanamoku is expected to be present at the annual great mid-Pacific carnival at Waikiki Beach, Honolulu, in February next. If he intends to appear at the function mentioned an Australian trip appears impossible.

English files show that once again the 100 yards championship has proved the stumbling block to Hatfield winning all the free style English championships in one season, and thus equalling the achievement of the Victorian Beaurepaire in 1910. Last season, it will be remembered, the Englishman swam second to the American McGillivray, but this season he was defeated by a brother Englishman. The race attracted a large entry, necessitating three heats, the first of which was won by H. E. Annison in 60 3-5s, the second by Hatfield in 60s, with Radmilovic second, and the third by L. J. Haskins in 63 4-5s. The final resulted as follows:—Annison (first), 60s; Hatfield (second), 61 2-5s, and Radmilovic (third), in 62 1-5s. A few days later Hatfield won the 100 yards championship of Northumberland easily in 60s, while Haskins defeated Annison in the southern counties 100 yards championship in 59s by three-quarters of a yard, the occasion being hailed as the first time an Englishman had won a 100 yards championship under a minute. Radmilovic also showed improved form in winning the western 100 yards championship in 60 3-5s. Evidently the two swims on the one night in the National championship affected competitors. Current files also record that the English diving championship was won by G. W. Gardzic (Chicago), one of the American representatives at the fifth Olympic Games, with Johansson (the Anglo-Swede) second, and Pott (the holder) third.

ROWING.

UNIFORM STYLE FOR VICTORIA

SYDNEY CLUB NOTES.

The Victorian Rowing Association recently decided to follow the lead of the New South Wales Rowing Association, and adopt a uniform style of rowing for the whole State. With this object in view the southern association has empowered a sub-committee to draw up a uniform style, which, if adopted by the V.R.A., will in future become a basis on which all Victorian oarsmen will be coached.

Victoria is fortunate in having a big crop of country oarsmen, which, if coached on uniform lines, must in time greatly strengthen combined representative crews, and will certainly afford the selectors of interstate and inter-national representatives a wider range from which to select their crews. It did not need a very keen observer at last week's Henley to notice the necessity and wisdom of adopting a uniform style. To adopt uniformity of style, or, rather, to decide the correct methods, is not an easy task. The matter is now being dealt with by the sub-committee, and Mr. "Jimmy" McFarlane, who is regarded as perhaps the best authority on oarsmanship in Australia, is drawing up a style which the sub-committee will take as a basis on which to commence their work.

Visitors from this State were somewhat astonished to find that many and varied styles of rowing existed at Henley-on-Yarra. The opportunity was a good one to contrast styles, inasmuch as there were 33 different clubs represented, and about 20 of these were Victorians. In some cases the difference between the country and city clubs was most marked. One enthusiast was heard to say that he could easily tell to which club the individual belonged.

It might be an opportune time for the Australian States to band together and adopt a uniform style, for the time will come when it will be necessary to select a representative Australian crew for inter-national competitions, and the task would be made much less difficult if all the States were to adopt the same style.

AMONG THE SYDNEY CLUBS.

The annual regatta of the Sydney Rowing Club will be held on Saturday next on the Parramatta River, which will be in full tide. An attractive programme has been arranged, which includes senior eights and maiden fours, as well as club events. The course for the eights is from Walker's Hospital to the Sydney Rowing Club's branch shed at Abbotsford, about 1½ mile—certainly not a long course, in view of the fact that the championship eights, which will be rowed in about a month, will be contested over the full championship course. The probable starters in the big race will be Enterprise, Balmain, Sydney, and Leichhardt. It is not expected that the Glebe crew will start, owing to the fact that they are reserving themselves for the championship event. The maiden fours will be rowed from Putney to Abbotsford, about one mile. Mr. Mears, the club's hon. secretary, reports that the arrangements are well forward, and anticipates that next Saturday's function will be up to the standard of the many successful ones already held. The visitors on the club's steamer, which will follow the races, will be landed at Abbotsford and entertained on the lawn of the branch at afternoon tea.

The Balmain Rowing Club is busy preparing for its annual regatta, which will take place on November 22. On this occasion the club propose to make a decided innovation by way of rowing their races on the Leichhardt Canal. Although the idea does not appeal to the majority of followers of the sport, yet the scheme has many advantages. The competitors will be assured of calm water, and with careful organisation the programme should be successfully carried out. A feature of the venture is that it will confine its interest to local districts, which will not only be a big draw to the regatta, but is hoped will attract new members to the club.

It is stated that Messrs. Grant and Cox will not be eligible to row in their champion eight, owing to the fact that they both propose to enter for the champion sculls, and it is almost impossible for them to do both.

The Balmain crew which is entered for the Senior Eights next Saturday is well together. Stuart Ances, who is stroking, is giving his men a nice lengthy stroke, and the body swing throughout the boat is fairly good. The crew should give a good account of themselves, especially as they have the assistance of Mr. O. J. Wood as coach as well as cox.

The surprise of the season so far is the absence of senior crews from the Mosman Club. Seeing that they won the junior premiership pennant last year it was naturally expected that there would be a large acquisition to the senior division this season. However, the fact is that the club has been handicapped by some of its best men being absent from the State, and the selection committee is disinclined to break into the junior division for recruits. But the club hope by the latter end of the season, perhaps at St. Ignatius regatta, to boat a senior eight with some prospects of success. At present the club has a maiden and junior crew in training for forthcoming regattas.

The North Shore Club is not showing much aptitude for racing, and the selection committee's range of choice is somewhat limited. At present they have a maiden and junior four in training for December regattas.

The racing spirit in the Leichhardt Club is still keen. It is very unlikely that any open races will go uncontested this season without an entry from the club. Their champion eight has a very fair chance of success, but is rather light for the long-distance events.

It is stated that owing to the fact that examination will be interfered with, the University Club will be unable to get a champion eight together for the association's regatta in December. This is all the more regrettable because the 'Varsity have a number of rising oarsmen, who would be an acquisition in the interstate boat.

Glebe is certainly not behind the times in boating a championship eight, but a "flutter" at the Sydney's regatta would not have done them any harm, for the race is a comparatively short one. The crew which will represent the club in the champion eights is as follows:—H. Vaughan (stroke), 11st 12lb; H. Lassen, 12st; D. Anderson, 12st 2lb; W. Keith, 12st 5lb; J. Rogerson, 11st 9lb; L. Hayton, 11st 8lb; T. Lassen, 11st 4lb; G. Donald, 10st 12lb (bow).

The Sydney Grammar School will send a maiden four for the Sydney's regatta next Saturday. It will be the first school to compete in open events this season, and the entry came as a welcome surprise.

Those who went to the boat race had some misgivings as to whether they would get value for their £1 tickets. They followed the race in the old Gosford, and there never was a better opportunity of seeing a race. Her owner is an old friend of aquatic men, and his father, the late Mark Stephenson, was for a quarter of a century the recognised scull and oarmaker. The Gosford carried many referees before Mr. Beach became one, and in the old days of Hanlan, Beach, and others was in much request. When the second Beach-Hanlan race was rowed on the river, the price of tickets on the Gosford was £3—to hang on anywhere, and ten seats on the bridge realised £100. The "gate" on that occasion was the record, and still stands alone.

SCULLING TYPES.

DISTINCTIVE FEATURES.

Last Saturday there was so much difference in the sculling of Arnst and Paddon in their match for the championship of Australia that the public may think because the former was beaten he rowed badly, but that would be ungenerous to both men. Neither sculler is an ideal rower; but the experience of many years is that all our first-class scullers have had some characteristic manner of doing their work. To go no further back than Trickett, Rush, and Laycock, nor to go further afield than what has been seen on the Parramatta River, it may be stated in a general way that all of them could be identified by some action their very own. Trickett was a fine sculler, just as tall as James Paddon, and as long in the back. He used great length of swing, and sat up very erect. Rush, another big man, and very little less in height, did not swing so much, but his immense reach—too much, indeed—and a tendency to tear the stroke through by the strength of his arms, while his knees were kept close together, marked his rowing as easily recognisable at a distance. Laycock would make a great grab at the water, thump on his powerful shoulders and swing a long way back. These men were types of Australia's best between the years 1873—1883.

Then Edward Hanlan came, and showed us quite a new way of doing things. He gripped with remarkable crispness, lifted his shoulders with a particularly vigorous movement, which was supported by a very strong leg drive. As he released his sculls he broke up the swirl, and in all the rowing parts of the stroke he used demonstrative action, but never "bullocked" at his stroke. His teeth were clenched, his lips were wide apart, and his head was carried erect. Some people thought that his face carried a broad grin, but it was not in his heart to laugh—far from it. The stroke being ended, he fairly "sneaked" down the slide, and, once in position, jabbed his sculls into the water. He was a small man, but 5ft 8½in in height, weighing 11st and measuring 40in round the chest. However, he was a model athlete.

William Beach, the unbeaten world's champion, developed from the rugged plugger of the heavy boat class. His reach was short, and his swing by no means long, but the natural and great power of the man made him a tough customer to deal with. Seated very high, and carrying his sculls ready for the catch instead of feathering them whilst making the recovery, he gave one the impression, and the right one, too, that there was a lot of work being done in his boat. Beach improved after his first race with Hanlan—very much so—but he was always a plugger rather than a clever rower. His closely-cropped hair seemed to add strength to his strong face, and no one could doubt his earnestness, for his looks confirmed his actions as he "punched" his boat along.

Peter Kemp was rather crude at first, but he soon became a perfect sculler. He was a small man compared with the other champions who had preceded him, but there was no waste in what Peter did. He sat up, rowed freely and hard, recovered steadily, and the sculls entered and left the water better than any of his contemporaries.

Harry Searle next appeared, and had a style peculiarly his own. He reached out well, got hold of the water, ripped the stroke through with a bow-shaped back, and finished by dropping his shoulders on his side. One could never tell if he was rowing hard, for so easy was the action that none could gauge his pace. He was 5ft 10½in in height, weighed 11st 10lb at most, and had a soft look about him, being fair and without marked features or pronounced muscular development. Yet he was fast, strong and a man of splendid grit.

Following Searle, and but little short of his great attainments, came the huge Shoalhaven youth, James Stanbury. He made a style of his own—all energy. Once his sculls gripped the water something had to happen, and it was a case of either breaking the boat or making her travel. His action of sculling was rightly described as a "hit, a kick, and a wrench," yet it seemed all so natural and easy to big Jim Stanbury. And when his sculls left the water he would just glide down the slide, and the boat shot along as if it were running from under him, which, as a matter of fact, it did. He had little swing—some assert none—but the power that man got on his sculls was a revelation.

George Towns may next claim attention, and what a different type of sculler. A short, light sinewy man of about 10½ stone, he could always row well. He sat low and finished up in a heap; he did not have much catch, but had a lot of swing for a small man. He also had a fine recovery, and was always on such good terms with his boat that the combination was perfect—the man and the boat were one machine.

William Webb, of New Zealand, was a poor rower, but he was made of good material. He does not come in here as a type, and the reference is merely incidental, for it leads up to the introduction of Richard Arnst. The latter quickly picked up some knowledge of sculling, sufficient to make use of his wonderful strength. His style was quite distinctive. He reached out well, had an "oily" catch, trusted to his legs for the first part, and a wrenching, wriggling, but powerful use of his shoulders as he put on the weight of a well-lengthened swing to carry way on the boat until he was ready to repeat his strenuous labour. He is still the same Arnst. Time and experience have not altered his methods, which have nowise diminished in their effectiveness. In ordinary circumstances a man should develop a perfect style; but Arnst still slogs along, a tower of strength, as last Saturday's race conclusively proved. The old faults are there—the catch with the left shoulder taking the weight, then the right, afterwards a hard leg drive, and finished with a thumping on of his great shoulders. The head is thrown forward, the body sags as of old, and there is the familiar hump on the back as it swings further than the shoulders. Do these methods affect the pace? Perhaps they do not assist pace; but is there any man in this part of the rowing world who can get closer to Paddon than Arnst did last week? We think not. This man of distinctive type is worthy of all respect.

James Paddon has not yet perfected his sculling, but he gives promise of developing a style which in some respects may be original. At a glance he seems to swing his elbows very much, sits well up with head erect, catches the water well, and leaves it with a square, clean lift of the blade. He keeps his arms straight, supports the trunk with excellent leg work, and so times it as to have some left to finish with; indeed, the slide is never pushed before the shoulders have all the weight on the sculls. Just before reaching the finish his back is bowed, much the same as Searle's, and, like the latter, too, he then lifts the shoulders, throws his chest out, and completes the swing while in that position. Elbows are thrown very wide of the body, which is considered a bad fault by English critics, but it is really the best way to bring the hands right in to the body. Paddon's recovery can be improved upon, particularly that part when he is reaching for the catch. It should be more deliberate and slower than before the sculls are at right angles to the boat. This assists the run and makes the catch more certain. A good point is that he does not hang out the finish, but so soon as the weight is off the sculls the recovery begins, thus relieving the forward end of the boat of the pressure of the body.

POWER BOATING.

AUSTRALASIAN CHAMPIONSHIP

A NEW TROPHY.

Although the unrestricted race for the Australasian motor boat championship does not take place until Saturday, January 31, Mr. Ernest C. Griffith, hon. secretary of the Motor Yacht Club of New South Wales, is already bestirring himself in an endeavour to obtain a representative entry from the other States and also, if possible, from New Zealand.

So far two nominations have been received. Mr. Fred Cornwell, the well-known Victorian sportsman, has entered Nautilus, the craft with which he won the Victorian motor boat championship this year at a speed of something over 32 miles an hour; while Mr. Charles H. Relph will do battle for the New South Wales Club with his successful Brasier-engined hydroplane Meteor II. Messrs. A. G. James and W. Charles Moseley's locally-constructed craft, N.S.W., was out for a trial spin on Saturday afternoon, and was driven quietly down to Rose Bay, but her performances under pressure in the past have never come within striking distance of championship form, so that she may hardly be expected to take a prominent part in the racing, if entered at all, which is improbable.

Mr. L. Mortimer, a prominent member of the Motor Yacht Club, has added a valuable trophy to the attractive collection awaiting the winners of the season's events. The trophy will be contested on Saturday, April 4, when a general handicap event, open to all boats, will be held over the Rose Bay-Manly course, a distance of approximately 10 miles.

A large number of motor craft wended their way up the Parramatta River on the occasion of the championship boat-race on Saturday afternoon. Among them was noticed Prodigal, once the famous speed craft Challenger, owned by Mr. Charles H. Relph. Her powerful installation, however, has now been replaced by a moderate-powered Max engine.

On Saturday afternoon the Motor Yacht Club will hold a general handicap for Mr. C. A. Copeland's trophy, which is open only to boats whose speed does not exceed 10 miles per hour. The boats will be despatched over the 10-miles Manly course, starting from the club waters, Rose Bay, at 2.30 o'clock. Entries close with the club hon. secretary this morning. The handicaps will be sealed.

BILLIARDS.

GEORGE GRAY AND IVORY BALLS.

The challenge issued on behalf of George Gray to play anyone in the world English billiards with ivory balls came as a surprise not only to the English billiard world, but also to followers of the game in Australia. However, there is really no reason why George Gray should not do almost as well with ivory as with bonzoline or crystalate balls. In the case of a player like Lindrum it would be different, for whereas he depends to a great extent on the long loser into the top pockets, Gray makes the majority of his scores from the middle pockets, which means that once he gets strength and position all that is necessary is to drive the object ball straight down the table to the top cushion and back to the key position, about eight inches below the centre spot. For the long loser, the object ball has to be driven to two or three cushions, and in doing this the angle has frequently to be forced. It is in the latter place that the handicap of ivory comes in, for the angle or throw-off is not so wide as can be made from composition balls.

Evidently Stevenson was not prepared for Gray's challenge, as the cable stated that he expected Gray would not have played with ivory balls until next season. As the challenge was directed at him, the ex-champion could not very well evade it, especially as it was only a few weeks since he offered to concede the Australian 2000 in 20,000. However, his backer, the famous amateur sculler, Mr. Guy Nickalls, was not as enterprising as Mr. Wootton, £250 being his reply to the challenge for £500 aside.

If there be no hitch in the negotiations, a good game should result, as after his long experience as a playing opponent of Gray in England, South Africa, and India, Stevenson should know his weakness and strength, and thus be in a better position to successfully compete with him than any other English player.

Reece is also anxious to play Gray with ivory balls, but seeing that Stevenson successfully conceded the Lancastrian a start last week, his chance of defeating Gray is not nearly so good as that of Stevenson's, especially as he is not so temperamentally fitted to stand the assault of big breaks and long waits between innings, so trying to one so hot blooded.

If Gray can only make two-thirds of the average he has done with composition he should win, for whereas his average in long games works out at almost 60 per innings, Reece is only a 37 to 40 player with ivory. Averages are one of the truest tests regarding a player's merits. In the olden days, averages were not kept, and until recent years were not considered a guide as to ability, but they are now considered an unfailing guide.

Of course, a big break is always interesting to watch, but the making of three or four hundred off the balls does not go very far towards winning a match if the player who makes it then remains stationary or idle for half an hour or so afterwards. Smaller figures, consistently made, are much more valuable as match winners. Thus the average is the only true indication as to how a player has been performing. Especially is this the case in an exhibition game, wherein the players go out for everything, and when one just fails in attempting a cannon off three or four cushions, he leaves an easy opening position for his opponent. When the match is a genuine one, however, safety play enters more largely into the game, but under the B.C.C. rules, where only two successive misses are allowed, a limit is placed on a system, which at one time prevailed in professional games of giving safe misses until the spectators became restless.

Should Gray succeed in winning his "ivory games" as easily as he has done the majority of his contests with composition, the demand for restrictive legislation will doubtless be again raised by his brother professionals.

THE B.C.C. AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Particulars are to hand regarding the amateur championship which the Billiards Control Club intend promoting in January next. When the cable notified us of the B.C.C.'s attention we made lengthy comments on the proposal. The following are the conditions which will control the event:—

The following individuals are not eligible:—

1. Professionals who have been, or are, earning money by playing the game.
2. Anyone who has marked or is marking the game, for which service he is, or has been, in receipt of a wage or money fee.
3. Anyone holding a post as manager, salesman, clerk, or is working in any capacity in the offices or factory of any billiard table manufacturer or supplier of billiard goods.
4. A proprietor or manager of a public billiard saloon.
5. Anyone holding a licensed victualler's license, or anyone employed in any capacity in a licensed house in which a billiard table is situate.

The council of the B.C.C. also reserves to itself the right of refusing any entry without giving any reason. It is proposed to hold the meeting about the middle or end of January, 1914, in the Holborn Hall, or some other suitable place.

Those present at the council meeting which drew up the rules were:—Messrs. A. Hatchard (in the chair), R. W. Henderson, H. Pritchard, Alfred J. Peters, Dr. Frank Smith, and Sir J. H. Dimsdale, with G. H. Nelson (secretary) in attendance.

T. Newman, who is thought to be a coming champion in England, recently made a break of 526 at Leeds. This is the youth's (he is 22 years of age) highest run to date, and as it was made by all-round billiards, a good future should be ahead of him.

Despite Reece's big scoring against Claude Falkiner, which was recounted in the "Herald" a few weeks back, the latter defeated the Lancastrian by 4371 points in the 30,000 over which the game was played. Miss Ruby Roberts speaks highly of Falkiner's skill.

An interesting tournament is taking place in London between 24 second-class players for a place in Borroughes and Watt's big tournament. The idea is to encourage rising talent, and the winner will be placed on a mark which should give him a chance against Inman Stevenson, and company. The most promising performance so far is that of Master Tom Tothill, an English juvenile billiard prodigy, who made a break of 281 in one of the heats. This lad is the son of a room-keeper at Bury, and for some years past has been prominently before the billiard public.

GRAY'S CHANGED ATTITUDE.

From the latest London files we learn that on October 1, Mr. Harry Gray, father of George Gray, stated that there was no likelihood of George Gray playing in public with ivory balls—that he, in fact, had not yet struck an ivory ball. Yet, within three weeks, Gray senr. issued a challenge on behalf of his son, to play any man in the world with ivory balls. In an article, which appeared in "Sporting Life" on October 1, on the subject, the following appeared:—

Mr. Gray, to whom his son George is under agreement, and who thus speaks authoritatively, was good enough to explain to our representative why there was no likelihood of George Gray playing in public with ivory balls for some considerable time to come. Contrary to the impression gathered by a considerable section of the billiards community, it would appear that George Gray, so his father informed our representative, is still in the position of being able to say that he has never struck an ivory ball.

"And," Mr. Gray went on to remark, "my son will not strike an ivory ball in public until he has had sufficient practice with them, and be able to do himself something like justice with the natural article."

"Then this disposes of the question of the balls to be used in the second and third matches between Reece and your son George?" was our representative's comment.

"Yes," replied Gray; "the balls for all three matches with Reece will have to be Bonzoline. I should have liked to have effected the compromise suggested by Reece when he signed the 'Sporting Life' articles for the three matches, but in the circumstances already related a compromise is impossible. I should merely be courting disaster, and possibly be doing irreparable damage to my son's reputation were I to consent to playing with a medium that, up to the present is a 'complete stranger' to my boy. Admittedly Mr. Reece is at some disadvantage in playing with bonzoline, but I am making an allowance of 2,000 points start for that disadvantage, and, knowing something of what the Lancastrian has done in the past when using bonzoline, I do not flatter myself that George Gray has what is termed a good thing on with Reece at 2,000 in 18,000. My son, of course, has a good sporting chance, else the matches would not have been made."

The reasons advanced by Mr. Gray whereby his brilliant son must eschew ivory balls for the present—at least in public—will appeal to all fair-minded people who know a winning hazard from a cannon. And among these we would include Tom Reece, who, despite the keenness of the disappointment he will feel that he cannot play George Gray with ivory balls at least yet awhile, will appreciate the reasonableness of Mr. Gray's attitude, and the candour of his explanation.

HENLEY REGATTAS.

ENGLISH AND AUSTRALIAN COMPARED.

In view of the fact that the Australian Henley in the southern State last week proved such a brilliant success, it is to be hoped that efforts in this State to establish a similar function will not be relaxed. Queensland and South Australia have one, but, strange to say, we in Sydney have never attempted, with any degree of seriousness, to emulate the English Henley.

Rowing supporters from this State who witnessed the Australian Henley were much impressed with what they saw, and are loud in their praise, and proud of the fact that Australian rowers can now boast of being able to organise such a brilliant regatta.

It was a magnificent display, and, in the opinion of those able to make a comparison, eclipsed in many respects the grandeur of the Henley-on-Thames of 1912, when Royalty attended for the first time. It would be beyond the range of conception to imagine what the Australian enthusiasm would be like if, by some manner of means, the King and Queen were to make their appearance in the Royal barge, as they did on the Thames in 1912.

It is said that the Australian Henley is becoming too much of a show event, and that there is a possibility of its main feature—rowing—becoming overshadowed by spectacularism. Henley-on-Thames confines itself to rowing, and has the reputation of being the most important carnival of its kind in the world. Those who go to see it are generally imbued with a keen interest in the sport. They are costumed to suit the occasion, the many and varied coloured blazers of the college oarsmen, as well as those of the various clubs, lending added interest to the scene. It gives one the impression that it is what it is supposed to be—a rowing carnival, and nothing more. On the other hand, the Australian Henley's visitors were dressed in their best clothes. One rarely sees the blazer and flannelled men, but perhaps the exquisite taste of what on Saturday week was described as Melbourne's well-dressed, shaded charms—the Henley girl—make up for it.

The geographical situation of the courses and environments of the English and Australian Henleys are somewhat similar, but for charm and daintiness of natural beauty, the Thames cannot be eclipsed, nor can we find its equal in any part of Australia, notwithstanding that the landscape gardener's art has been lavished on our surroundings—especially from Prince's Bridge to Duke's Botanic Gardens' Bridge.

What strikes the keen enthusiast most in our Henley is the fact that the organisation is so complete that it is enabled to contest 39 events in five hours with marked punctuality. But it is, after all, a question whether it is wise to row so many races in one day. The time must come when it will be found imperative that an extra day or two will have to be devoted to the rowing off of heats—which, although important enough in themselves, become monotonous in time—and the last day confined to the finals.

It was plainly noticeable to the keen observer that, with the exception of one or two events, public interest was not centred on the racing. It is said that this brilliant carnival is having a somewhat deteriorating effect on Victorian oarsmanship, as it comes too early in the season to allow the competitors to properly master the art of rowing short races in good style, or to work up the necessary condition.

Mr. F. T. D. Mears, hon. secretary of the Sydney Rowing Club, was an interested spectator of Henley-on-Yarra, and he will be able to impart some useful information to his club, and his experience will no doubt also be availed of by the Rowing Association, of which he is a member.

MOTORING.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF AUSTRALIA.

AN "ALL-IN" CONTEST.

Great interest has been aroused in local motoring circles over the "unrestricted" hill-climbing contest, which the Automobile Club of Australia will hold at the Artillery Hill, National Park, on Saturday afternoon, November 15. The event is open to all club members, irrespective of whether they are directly or indirectly connected with the sale of motor vehicles, or whether they drive purely for the love of the game, which was the basis of last Saturday's successful contest on the same hill. The conditions governing the contest under review, however, are of a totally different order to those which obtained in the strictly amateur event. As conditions go, they are notably lax, and in the phraseology of the motorist are known as being of the "all-in" kind.

In these circumstances no restrictions whatever in regard to the equipment of the cars or the conditions in which they may compete, are placed on the competitors. The chassis may be stripped of the last ounce of superfluous material, or if the competitor may so desire, he can load the car up with "dead weight" to his heart's content. The "open-exhaust" fiend, too, can revel in as much noise, blue smoke and flame, as he desires without infringing any regulations or coming within reach of the arm of the law. Altogether, the motorists and spectators alike will have a merry time. It is an event which has been promised for a long time, and there is no doubt that the "high efficiency" enthusiasts will make the most of it. Entries close with the club secretary, Mr. H. C. Morgan, on Tuesday evening, November 11, at 8. Should the number of nominations so warrant, the cars will be divided into two classes—division A for cars up to and including those of 20 h.p. (minimum entry 10), and division B for cars of any power over 20 h.p. (minimum entry 5). The official programme of the contest and entry forms will be available at the clubrooms to-day. This will be the last contest to be held during the remainder of the club year, which closes on November 30.

The final smoke concert of the season will be held at the clubrooms, on Tuesday evening, November 18, when the prizes won by members in the club competitions during the year will be presented. The club desires that a large attendance should mark this occasion.

A NORTH COAST TOUR.

Mr. Charles Schultz, a member of the Automobile Club of Australia, has just completed an enjoyable week's tour in the North Coast district of the State, part of which, from Sydney to Bullahdelah, on the Myall River, and return, being covered in his 15-h.p. Argyle car, while the remainder of the time was spent aboard a motor launch, fishing and shooting, on the Myall river and lake. Mr. Schultz, who was accompanied on his trip by four friends, says a more enjoyable method of spending a short holiday would be difficult to imagine. The motorists travelled to Bullahdelah from Newcastle, a distance of 64 miles, via Booral. Between the Stroud turn-off and Bullahdelah for a distance of about nine miles the road has been badly cut up by heavy traction engines hauling timber, and it was found necessary to make many deviations for some distance into the bush to avoid the worst places, but these were the only difficulties encountered on the trip. A run of 17 miles in the motor launch from Bullahdelah brought the party to the Myall Lake, well known as a sportsman's paradise. Three days were spent on the lake with rod and line, accommodation being found at Mr. Legg's establishment on the lake-side. The run home to Sydney from Bullahdelah, a distance of 196 miles, was accomplished without mishap in two days, the night being spent at Wiseman's Ferry at the end of a day's run of 120 miles.

MOTOR CYCLING.

THE SUMMER SEASON.

CAMPING TOURS.

The second phase of the motor cycling year will be entered upon this week-end, when the customary reliability trials, hill-climbing, and economy tests will give way in favour of less arduous but none the less enjoyable excursions to the several health or sea-bathing resorts within comfortable distance of the metropolis. Of course, there are one or two big road events to be decided during the summer—the "Continental" interstate reliability trial from Melbourne to Sydney, to be held on December 29, 30, 31, and January 1, under the auspices of the Motor Cycle Club of New South Wales and the Victorian Motor Cycle Club, for £100 worth of prizes—being of widespread importance in the motor cycling world—but the majority of the clubs reserve their more strenuous outings for the cool weather and less dusty roads.

The Kookaburra Club's week-end camp at Bilgola Beach, near Narrabeen, has been opened for the season, and bears evidence of the hard work which has been done gratuitously by members on their "off" days. Unfortunately, the first hill leading off the Newport-road in the direction of the camp is in a shocking condition, and is quite unrideable, but the second hill, which was such a bugbear last season, is now in good order.

Motor cyclists travelling over to the Manly, Narrabeen, or French's Forest districts via Mosman and the Spit hill, will be well advised to take particular notice of the four-mile-an-hour speed limit at the top of the Spit hill (Mosman side), which is very much in force at the present time. There is also a speed limit of 15 miles an hour, which is applied with some effect to motorists ascending either the Mosman or Manly hills from the Spit punt, while the authorities now in almost daily attendance on the punt itself are showing marked interest in the currency of licences.

The members of the Kookaburra Club will meet at Biden and Roberts at 8 o'clock this evening to draw up the season's run card.

MOTOR CYCLE CLUB.

The Motor Cycle Club of New South Wales will hold a week-end run to the Cataract Dam, starting from the club rooms at 9.30 a.m., on November 9. The next competition the club has in view is an economy contest, to be held within the precincts of Centennial Park on Saturday afternoon, November 22, starting at 2.30 o'clock. The last event of a similar nature was won by F. Ross, who put up a record for the club. The club hon. secretary, Mr. J. A. Fair, announces that he has already received 12 nominations for the "Continental" interstate trial, the entries for which do not close until Wednesday, December 10. The latest riders to nominate are:—Silvester Hagney (3½-h.p. Speedwell-Rover), Herbert Head (3½-h.p. Triumph), and A. Levi (3-h.p. Royal Enfield). The club membership roll has also been lengthened by the addition of the following names:—Messrs. W. C. Macdonald, Robert Hood, W. T. Wood, W. J. Forbes, A. W. R. Stevens, W. J. Gibbons, G. Collum, and B. R. Froude.

Entries will be accepted at the clubrooms until Monday, December 1, for the programme of novelty events which the New South Welshmen will hold in connection with the Shakespearian memorial celebrations at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Wednesday and Saturday, December 3 and 6. An important general meeting of members will be held at the clubrooms to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' TRIAL.

In order to afford its members every opportunity as regards light, the Sydney Bicycle and Motor Cycle Club has postponed its 24 hours' reliability contest until Friday and Saturday, November 14 and 15, on which dates the calendar announces there will be a full moon. In its endeavour to lessen the rigours of an abnormally severe trial, the club has taken a diametrically opposite view of the question of moonlight driving to that propounded by the majority of motorists, who prefer to drive on a pitch black night with good acetylene head lights, rather than under conditions in which the road is patterned with deep shadows thrown by the trees and wayside objects. The postponement of trials, moreover, detracts largely from their public interest. An excellent entry of 30 members, published in Saturday's "Herald," however, has been received, which is a record for the club, and the performances of these well-known riders will be watched with interest. The club captain, Mr. E. N. Fyson, has the arrangements well advanced, and, through the instrumentality of the Dunlop Company, the country towns on the route of the competition will be well supplied with the necessary programmes. An alteration has been made to the arrangements as originally announced. The competitors will stay at the Capertee control for lunch, instead of at Ilford, where the club was unable to obtain adequate accommodation.

CANBERRA CLUB'S RACE.

Mr. A. Levi, hon. secretary of the Canberra Motor Cycle Club (of Sydney), put up a fine performance in the club's 10 miles road race on Saturday afternoon. Riding a lightweight 3-h.p. Royal Enfield machine, Mr. Levi cut out the 10 miles in 11 minutes 1 second, an average of 54 miles an hour, thereby winning the race, and also annexing the much-coveted "fastest time."

CYCLING.

SIX HOURS TEAMS RACE.

METROPOLITAN NOTES.

Mr. J. F. Firkin, hon handicapper to the New South Wales Cyclists' Union, has completed his somewhat ticklish task of weeding out the weakest of the teams nominated for the six hours teams race to be held in connection with the Redfern Club's big carnival at the Sydney Sports Ground on Saturday afternoon and evening. Following are the teams chosen:—

C. M. Cutcliffe (Redfern Club) and Theo O'Halloran (Redfern Club).
T. Buttinshaw (Redfern Club) and C. J. Cutcliffe (Redfern Club).
A. Beck (Balmain Club) and H. N. Gannon (Balmain Club).
A. Taylor (Eastern Suburbs Club) and E. W. Pedersen (Petersham Club).
W. Wylie (Petersham Club) and E. Pink (Dulwich Hill Club).
H. Withew (Balmain Club) and R. G. Lewis (Eastern Suburbs Club).
W. L. Taplin (Camden Club) and C. W. Buller (Camden Club).
S. Edworthy (Western Suburbs Club) and S. Denham (Western Suburbs Club).
R. G. Clarke (Eastern Suburbs Club) and E. T. Byron (Eastern Suburbs Club).
G. S. M. Hutton (Liverpool Club) and G. L. R. Walcot (Liverpool Club).
S. H. B. Goodhew (Hurstville Club) and W. Cross (Hurstville Club).
C. C. Hooper (Western Suburbs Club) and G. D. Anderson (Western Suburbs Club).

THE EMERGENCIES ARE:—

H. Horton (Broadway Club) and W. Winterbotham (Broadway Club).
R. J. Porter (Crow's Nest Club) and F. G. Porter (Crow's Nest Club).
R. A. Wagschall (Northern Suburbs Club) and E. J. Stidwell (Northern Suburbs Club).
W. Brown (Liverpool Club) and H. Jardine (Liverpool Club).
E. A. Cowell (Central Cumberland Club) and S. G. Jones (Central Cumberland Club).
A. R. Compton (Kegworth Club) and G. Gordon (Kegworth Club).

The handicaps for the half-mile event and the three miles "miss and out" scratch race, to be held at the same meeting, appear in another column.

The chances of C. M. Cutcliffe (Redfern Club) and A. Beck (Balmain) have been somewhat marred by a couple of bad spills which occurred during training operations at the Sports Ground track on Friday. The back wheel of Cutcliffe's machine collapsed when he was "all out," and, although he raced at the Liverpool Club's carnival the next afternoon, he received a severe shaking, the full effects of which were not felt until after the week-end. Beck picked himself up out of a heap on the track the same afternoon, and has been working quietly ever since.

LIVERPOOL CARNIVAL.

When the executive of the New South Wales Cyclists' Union goes to the trouble of inspecting tracks and giving its members the benefit of a big experience in advising them on the most suitable wheels and tyres to employ, the least riders can do is to fall into line with their suggestions for loyalty sake, if for nothing else. The metropolitan riders who journeyed to Liverpool Show Ground on Saturday afternoon "full of tricks" with single tube tyres, light rims, and high gears, contrary to instructions, returned in a degree wiser, but without the spoils of war. Wylie owes a large measure of his success to his great track generalship, pluck, and assiduous preparation. But the fact that he was mounted on what to all intents and purposes was a road machine placed him out on a long mark, and gave him a big advantage over the riders who had, perhaps, expected to experience the conditions of the Sydney Sports Ground. The sport, however, was excellent. Theo. O'Halloran, the popular race secretary of the N.S.W. C.U. and "six-hours" enthusiast, created a sensation in the sixth heat of the 1¼ mile handicap event, in which W. Knight and he, on the same mark, were the only starters. The Redfern clubman fell in the first lap, and Knight, thinking this was his opportunity, made the pace. O'Halloran, however, quickly remounted and set off in pursuit, to the great delight of the crowd. As a fitting termination to such a display of pluck, O'Halloran caught his man in the straight, and was just in front at the pistol.

OLYMPIC FUND.

Mr. Chas. H. Tremlett, hon. secretary of the New South Wales Cyclists' Union Olympic fund committee represented the amateur cycling bodies at the meeting of citizens convened by the Lord Mayor, at the Town Hall, on Monday afternoon. Mr. Tremlett said yesterday that the point of view propounded at the meeting—that of advertising Australia—would no doubt appeal to the commercial mind, but he felt sure that the cyclists, at any rate, would enter into the games for the sport's sake alone. The idea of the union riders appearing in a "publicity stunt" did not appeal to him.

In compliance with the N.S.W.C.U.'s Olympic committee's request, the following amateur clubs have appointed collectors to assist in augmenting the £600 fund:—Marrickville Club, Dulwich Hill Club, Kurri Kurri Club, Rookwood Club, Eastern Suburbs Club, and Northern Suburbs Club. Altogether there are about 40 cycling bodies of greater or lesser magnitude affiliated with the union, and Mr. Tremlett expects no difficulty will be experienced in accumulating the amount necessary to despatch two riders to Berlin. Already several small amounts have been lodged with the committee.

LEAGUE NOTES.

The efforts of Mr. H. M. Mackay, hon secretary of the Northern Suburbs District League Club, to complete satisfactory lighting arrangements for this club's proposed Wednesday evening carnivals on the North Sydney Oval have so far been without avail. At a special meeting held on Monday evening some additional tenders were opened, but these, it was found, were beyond the reach of the club at the present time, the lowest quotation figuring out at £150 for a most moderate scheme.

The Sydney Sports Ground will, of course, be given over to the amateur riders on Saturday afternoon and evening, and the League fraternity, therefore, will bring their usual track fixtures forward to this evening. The Northern Suburbs Club, who are holding a half-mile handicap, have been particularly fortunate in enlisting the services of several prominent back-markers during the last few days, including A. L. Crook (Ashfield League Club), P. B. Henry (Ashfield League Club), and A. Ansleark (Australian Club).

The League riders who are residing in the Manly, French's Forest, and Narrabeen districts are forming a club which will be affiliated with the League of N.S.W. Wheelmen. There are a number of promising riders living down that way at present who are compelled to join distant camps to keep in the game, and there is no doubt that under proper control a strong and lively body would soon be organised.

SIX DAYS' RACE.

The League council has no additional information to impart in regard to the holding of a six days' race on the Sydney Cricket Ground this season. Among the many inquiries from oversea riders received by the League during the past few days is a letter from Fred ("Jumbo") Wells, who is at present in New Zealand. Wells is anxious to team in the event with the "resident New Zealand champion," and wants to know the promoters' terms before he signs on again for the American season. Wells, it will be remembered, has had five years' experience of teams' racing in America, and the combination would be a formidable one.

QUEENSLAND VISITORS.

The League council is still awaiting a reply from the League of Queensland Wheelmen in regard to its inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the suspension of C. Crowley. On the eve of the last Eight-hour carnival, to compete in which Crowley had journeyed from Brisbane, the Queensland League notified the New South Welshmen that this rider was under suspension for the non-payment of a fine of £5. The Queenslander protested that his offence was of a trivial nature, and, by the action of a sub-committee on the ground, he was allowed to start under protest. The League council are now inclined to support the action of the sub-committee, and have emphasised the fact that the same trouble has been experienced by the majority of the Queensland professionals who have visited Sydney for some time past.

ATHLETICS.

SOUTH SYDNEY HARRIERS' CARNIVAL.

Although the South Sydney Harriers' tenth annual championship carnival, which was brought to a conclusion at the Sydney Sports Ground last Saturday, did not attract much public attention, from a sporting viewpoint it was a success. The promoting club claims a large percentage of the State's best athletes, and, naturally, this added to the interest in the meeting. The programme was a long one, and including the open handicaps, consisted of some 30 events, practically all branches of track and field athletics being on the list. There were also races for cadets, and walking and running events for members of the Ladies' Amateur Athletic Club.

The all-round championship was won by J. Smith, who recorded a splendid performance by scoring 15 points. It is remarkable that the winner did not compete in any of the running events, his successes being achieved mainly in the jumps. Smith also secured all the field games championships, and the following list will show what a capable all-round athlete he is:—First in the running high jump, at 5ft 8½in; putting the 16lb shot, 32ft 6½in; running hop, step, and jump, 41ft 9in; pole vault, 9ft 3in; running broad jump, 21ft 4in; throwing 16lb hammer, 79ft 1½in. Smith was also placed second in the running hop, step, and jump championship of New South Wales, which was won by E. R. Cox, at 43ft 2½in. He also took first prize in the 16lb shot handicap, third in the running high jump and throwing the 16lb hammer handicaps. This is, indeed, a splendid performance, and an Australasian championship is not beyond his reach.

The next best performance was put up by J. W. Frazer, who scored eight points by winning both the hurdles events, and filled third place in the running broad jump and hop, step, and jump championships. Frazer also took second prize in the running broad jump open handicap. Many other good performances were recorded during the meeting, dual victories being secured by J. F. Bradley and A. F. Thorpe. H. T. Dent, who shows marked improvement, carried off both the walks, and was placed in two walking handicaps from scratch. As J. J. Harley has announced his retirement, Dent should fill the breach with credit. Thorpe, who was the champion schoolboy athlete two years ago, won the 880 yards and one mile championships, but had very little opposition. This runner has a splendid record having been placed in almost every event in which he has competed. He holds both the 440 yards and 880 yards championships of New South Wales; and as a handicap runner, his performance on Eight-hour Day in the one mile open handicap virtually from scratch was one of his best. With the abovementioned athletes added to the already strong team, the prospects of the premier club at the next interclub contests look very promising.

An interesting event was the one mile relay championship of New South Wales for teams of five men, each to run one-fifth of a mile. Last month the East Sydney Club promoted an event on somewhat similar lines, but owing to a misunderstanding the East Sydney Club had a walk over. The East Sydney champions of a fortnight's duration were called upon to meet the South Sydney representatives last Saturday, and, although the former included E. R. Cox (100yds State champion), M. J. McCarthy, A. L. Harwood, C. R. Harwood, and R. P. Warner, all of whom are good performers, they were beaten after an exciting race by the small margin of four yards. The time for the full journey was 3m 26s. Relay races are very popular so far as the spectators are concerned, and, judging by the enthusiasm shown during Saturday's race, it is evident that a few more such contests would lend further interest to amateur athletics.

F. C. H. Madeley had no difficulty in winning the 220yds championship and E. J. Manson retained his title as three-miles running champion of the club, winning that event easily from T. Smith in the fair time of 16m 0 2-5s. H. T. Dent followed up his success by winning the three miles walk from R. L. Bonham. The winner was not extended over the first two miles of the journey, which was finished in 22m 37⅘s. The first mile was covered in 7m 29s, the second in 7m 49s, and the last in 7m 19s. In the pole vault H. L. Thompson's figures, 8ft 3in, were far below his record, which stands at 9ft 9in, and J. Smith, who won the event, could not do better than 9ft 3in.

The open events were keenly contested, especially the running broad jump, for which a large entry was received. J. H. Wicks (South Sydney Harriers), with an allowance of 1ft 3in, registered 21ft 5⅞in, and just beat J. W. Frazer, of the same club, by ¼ of an inch; and only three-quarters of an inch divided the three placed men. C. T. Ferguson (Police A.A.C.), with an allowance of 3ft, was successful in the 16lb hammer open handicap, defeating W. O'Reilly, scratch, also of the Police Club.

Some fair performances were recorded at the Tramway sports last week, and, judging by the easy manner in which W. E. Grenfell won the 100 yards handicap, he is a very promising sprinter. Grenfell won both his heat and final easily from six yards, and the time for the final was 10 1-5s. In the 100 yards championship of the Tramways, S. Cunningham won the first heat in 10 3-10s. There were four starters in the final, and Cunningham, who was first away, beat Keys by a yard in 10⅕s. The teams relay race championship brought about a surprise. The Waverley team was considered invincible, as it includes some speedy runners. Keys (Waverley) secured an advantage of about 20 yards in the first relay from the Rozelle team; this was increased in the second lap, and it appeared as though Waverley could not be beaten, but S. Cunningham, who ran the last 352 yards for Rozelle, upset all calculations. Although he was conceding about 30 yards he ran down his man 200 yards from home and won easily.

The four miles road race, which is an annual one, brought out a field of 26, and a good deal of interest was manifested in the event. The winner turned up in P. Kinskington, who was given 2m start. W. Oliver, off 1½m, finished second, and H. J. Cameron, who was conceding the winner 1m start, filled third place; he also did the fastest time, 24m 50s, and secured that prize. Although the majority of the competitors at the tramway sports were professionals, there is ample scope for an amateur athletic club amongst such a large body of men, and it appears strange that some of our leading athletes who are connected with the tramways do not move in the matter. At present it would be difficult to find a club or a team of long-distance runners that does not possess one or more members of the tramway service. Now that we are about to search for Olympia talent, it is important that this body should not be overlooked, but under the present system any man who competes in these sports forfeits his amateur status. The police have their amateur athletic club, and it is to be hoped that before long a tramway club will be amongst the entrants for the Dunn Challenge Shield.

The annual inter-collegiate championships of the Sydney University Athletic Club will take place at the University Oval to-morrow afternoon, and, judging by the manner in which the students have been training for the past few weeks many close finishes should result. The 'Varsity has no athletes at present of the calibre of Nigel Barker, Colin P. Stewart, J. C. Lamrock, R. G. Waddy, E. A. Southee, and W. F. Pattinson. R. J. A. Massie should again secure the 120 yards hurdles championship. The other events are very open, as many of the entrants are unknown on the tracks. A 440yds hurdle handicap is included on the programme, and it is unfortunate that the University Club did not make this event an open one, for, notwithstanding the fact that their members participate in open competition freely, they seldom cater for members of the Amateur Athletic Association. If W. F. Pattinson is in form he should win this race.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE STRATHFIELD TOURNAMENT.

SUCCESSFUL HANDICAPPING.

During the recent Strathfield tournament it was noticed that close contests in the handicap events were unusually numerous. It is always a source of gratification to the players and handicappers when the competitors are brought well together, though tournament managers, anxious to get the day's programme completed, regard the matter from a different view-point, and sometimes wish that 6-0, 6-0 could be recorded more frequently.

With the object of ascertaining what tournaments have been most successful from the handicapping aspect, a writer in Ayres' Almanac has analysed the results of the principal English tournaments for the past two years. The method he adopts is to add together the number of games played in all the matches and divide the total by the number of matches. In support of this method the writer in question claims that the best test of a handicap is the number of games of which that match consists, rather than the number of sets, as the number of games won by the losers really answers the question whether the handicap is good or bad. Applying these methods to the tournament just completed an opportunity is afforded of comparing the work of the handicappers of the Strathfield tournament with that of the English handicappers. An analysis of the play at Strathfield shows that the average number of games per match was 24.41. Of the 60 English tournaments to which similar tests were applied, only one—that at Chichester—can show better figures, the average at that meeting being 24.56. This comparison is highly favourable to the Strathfield meeting, especially when it is remembered that advantage sets are only played in the third set, whereas in nearly all the England tournaments advantage sets are played throughout. Had this been the case at Strathfield the average there would almost certainly have been considerably above any of the England tournaments, for a great number of sets were won at 6-5.

Handicapping in England is in the hands of experts, who have performances of players at numerous tournaments to guide them, whereas at Strathfield there are always many competitors who have never played in open tournaments, and whose ability is therefore hard to estimate. Taking all these facts into consideration, the handicapping at the Strathfield tournament is therefore worthy of much commendation.

The postponement of several of the finals in the Strathfield tournament enabled W. P. Dunlop, one of the club's vice-presidents, to be present on the last day of the meeting, as he arrived from London on Thursday. He had much of interest to tell of the events of the European lawn tennis season, of the Davis Cup matches, and the English tournaments, of Deauville and ways of Continental players. He was particularly impressed by the ability and knowledge of the game and its rules displayed by very young French boys.

A match against Tasmania will be played at Hobart on 14th and 15th inst by a team composed of E. Barton, G. Dickins, L. M. Howell, and C. E. Johnston, who arranged the contest, and have obtained permission to represent New South Wales. The match may serve a good purpose if it leads to the institution of interstate matches with Tasmania arranged in the orthodox manner by the State associations.

Victoria made an early selection of the teams to represent that State in the matches to be played against New South Wales and South Australia on November 21 and 22. The six to oppose New South Wales will probably be too strong for the visitors, for Brookes, Dunlop, Heath, Campbell, A. O'Hara Wood, and Baird constitute one of the most powerful sides ever chosen to represent the southern State.

The New South Wales team was selected yesterday, but Doust and A. B. Jones are somewhere between Colombo and Fremantle, but it is not known whether they will be in the State's team. Parker will just have time to get to Melbourne for the match if the Australasian championships at Perth are not delayed, but it is not certain that he will be available.

This element of doubt regarding three of this State's leading players is unfortunate, as there is little more than a fortnight before the match takes place.

ANGLING.

TEMPTING THE BIG FISH.

As he proceeds quietly, wading in the bed of the stream, or walking along the bank, every angler notices from time to time the swirl made by a fish as it rushes to a place of greater security after having been disturbed by the presence of man. It is often possible in the clear water to see the fish and note his fine proportions, and with the general run of anglers there the matter ends. A moment's thought suggests that the spot just vacated was the fish's feeding ground—his selected "dining saloon," where the trend of the current carries a large percentage of the food coming down the stream, almost into his mouth. He is probably the largest fish thereabouts, and claims proprietorship of that fancy spot by right of might. At certain times of the day he comes to this spot to satisfy his hunger, and when scared away by the passing of the angler he does not go far, probably to the nearest deep pool, whence he will presently return to resume his meal. The observant angler marks this spot, and the next time he passes that way he approaches with caution. Taking care to keep his shadow off the water and to make his footfall as light as possible, and when within casting distance he deftly drops his fly so that it will come down with the current to the trout's lair. If three or four casts do not bring a response it is safe to assume that the fish is not there, but the probability is, if due care has been taken, the trout will find its way to the angler's creel.

There are many places in weedy streams where the angler may not know that a fish resides, but the surroundings suggest the practical certainty that such is the case. The fly is deftly cast into a small patch of open water among the weeds, allowed to sink, then worked through it a couple of times without result. The thoughtful angler will pause a while before turning away from such a spot. He is confident that a trout, and probably a good one, is lying there, but how to tempt him is the question. It is a good plan in such circumstances to try a change. Remove the fly that has already been offered. It is only possible to use one fly on the cast in such a place, and if the day be bright, try a black palmer or a bronze-bodied coch-y-bondhu tied with a dark tackle (the writer ties some of his with black tackle). Now, gauge the distance very carefully, and cast so that the fly alights on the weeds at the far side of the patch of open water. The cast is practically invisible, and will fall right across the open space. Dwell a moment, then gently raise the point of the rod a few inches. The fly will thus be moved along, sometimes on the weeds, at others in the water. If care be used, the fibres of the tackle will seldom allow the hook to be caught in the weeds. Again pause, then repeat the process. If a trout is there he can see every movement of the fly; to his fancy it is certainly alive, and struggling from leaf to leaf, and if he does not take it among the weeds he undoubtedly will as it continues its struggles in answer to the elevated rod top across the open water.

In fishing for bass, it is a good scheme to let the fly or spinner fall into a tussock of blady grass at the water's edge, and drawing it carefully to the end of a "blade" allow it to dip in the water. The movement of the grass attracts the fish, which notices the temping fly, waits for it to move, and then pounces on it like a lion on its prey, as these voracious fish love a moving, living diet. In the clear waters of the Warragamba, one has watched a bass come right up and inspect a brother angler's fly, and stop motionless within six inches of it. In the same instant that the rod top was raised and the fly, a Peveril of the Peak by the way, showed movement, the bass had it, and he tipped the scale at 2¼lb a few minutes later. From a quarter of a mile above the junction with the Nepean, upwards, this stream affords splendid bass (or perch) fishing. They lie under every overhanging rock, and every submerged shelf, and there are many such. Thus the careful angler, moving slowly along in a well-managed boat, may be fairly sure of picking up a good fish or two before he reaches the limit of comfortable navigation, in addition to half a score of small ones, which will be seen following the bait at every cast.

THE NEW DAY NURSERY.

You come upon it suddenly, walking along the rather dull, quiet street, with its rows of grey and brown houses, a little bend in the road brings you to the unexpected sight of a newly-painted cottage with four white cots on the broad verandah, and it does not need the name over the gate to let you know that this is the new home of the Day Nursery.

If you have ever visited the old premises in Darlington, your first exclamation will be "Oh, what a difference." For there the dingy old house was hemmed in on either side, and in spite of all the efforts of the committee and of the people of Darlington themselves, who worked splendidly, nothing could convert the building into the sunny, airy place a Day Nursery should be.

The new premises, which are situated in Arundel-street, Forest Lodge, are much nearer the ideal. Separated from its neighbours on either side by a little lane, the cottage stands well back from the street, with a few sheltering trees and bushes in front, and before very long there will be green sward and flower beds beneath the trees. Solidly built in the faithful fashion of the past, the old cottage has been altered and improved with a verandah added here, a window let in there, till it is quite convenient and up to date, and the walls and woodwork have been painted in a soft, dull green, which is very pleasant and soothing to the eyes. In front there is the wide, tiled verandah, cool and restful for sleeping babes on summer days; at the back there is a big glassed-in room, which serves as dining-room and wet weather playground for the older children. In this room is to be found the pride and joy of the youngsters—the gramophone, which was presented to them by one of the visiting doctors. The children never grow tired of the music, and at the end of the day, when they are growing weary and waiting for their mothers, the gramophone keeps them interested and amused. And a quaint little company they looked, clad in the red pinafores of the nursery, and sitting on their little chairs at the low table, with their neglected toys before them, listening sleepily to the strains of a stirring march.

The children are only left at the Day Nursery during the hours when their mothers are working. The mothers bring them in the morning, when on their way to factory or laundry, and call for them on their way home. And what it means to the babies to have eight or nine hours every day in wholesome surroundings and under wise supervision, can only be known by those who visit the nursery constantly. Some of the little ones get practically no care except that which is bestowed on them at the Day Nursery, and the week during which it was closed for the moving, saw not a few of the babies fall back in an alarming degree. For the enemies of infancy, bad feeding and gastro-enteritis, stalk round the homes from which many of these children come, and it is only the care and feeding which they receive at the Day Nursery which give many of the mites any chance at all. Sometimes poverty is the cause of neglect, more often ignorance; but whatever the reason the fact remains that a great number of these babies are ill-nourished and ill-kept, and depend upon the Day Nursery for their very lives.

Every morning, when the children come, they are taken straight to the dressing-room. Here they are undressed, bathed (the only bath many of them ever have), redressed in the nursery clothes, while their own little garments are put into a special fumigating cupboard. Then there is milk and bread and butter (sometimes the child's first meal for the day); there are games in the yard and on the verandahs for those old enough to play, and comfortable cots in a sweet, airy room for the morning sleep when they are tired. Then there is a dinner of soup, vegetables, and milk puddings for the older ones; and in the afternoon, before they go, more milk and bread and butter. For the babies there are the clean white cots on the broad verandah, and there are bottles of pure milk or barley water, or whatever the infant needs. And, above all, there are the matron and two nurses to look after the little things, to keep them from harm and danger, and to give them that affection which is just as necessary to the child's development as the bread and milk.

It was a pretty sight to see the matron with a brown-skinned, black-eyed baby in her arms, clutching delightedly at her white cap, while from the next cot a blue-eyed mite gurgled with joy, and held out her hands to be taken up too. And it was delightful, when we went into the nursery, to see one fairy-like creature slip down from her little chair and run across the room towards the matron with outstretched arms and the unfeigned affection of childhood shining on her little face, quite sure of her welcome. No other proof was needed of the spirit of love which pervades the nursery, and changes it from an institution to a home.

Some of the mothers are as fond and proud of their babies as any mothers could be, and it is only the necessity of breadwinning which compels them to leave the children alone all day. And what a comfort it is to those mothers to know that their darlings are in safe-keeping, and not left to the tender mercies of a neighbour. Other mothers are fond, too, but in their ignorance neglect the children, or in their poverty have to deprive them of necessities. Such mothers the matron helps all she can with counsel, and very often with something more substantial. But whether they are wise or foolish, all the mothers are women who are forced by circumstances to become breadwinners, and who are unable to devote their days to their children. And it must be remembered that each mother pays her couple of pence a day to the nursery for each child, and that by taking the child off her hands for some hours she is not being encouraged in idleness, but is being helped to become self-supporting.

The Day Nursery rejoices in a Government subsidy, and in a capable and generous committee; but the outlay on the new premises has been a big one, and it takes a good deal to feed all those little children on pure milk and wholesome food. So all available help is welcome. Sometimes one hears the remark, "I don't believe in helping that class"; but it generally comes from people who don't believe in helping any class, or from stupid people, who do not realise that what is for the good of "that class" is for the good of us all. Sometimes—and this is harder to understand—one hears of people withdrawing their subscriptions because they are annoyed by some new legislation. As if the babies had a hand in it!

And when a pair of blue eyes smiles at you over the top of a white cot, or a little thin hand lifts a tiny skirt up before a shyly, roguish face, inviting you to play "peep-bo," you wonder what manner of hearts they are that can harden themselves against these fascinating scraps of humanity, and punish these innocent babies for the misfortunes of their parents.

A GLIMPSE OF THE EAST.

In her book, "Lotus Buds," first published some years ago, Miss Amy Wilson Carmichael introduced the world to a number of new children—children fascinating enough to stand side by side with the most adorable youthful creations of poetic inspiration. But the "Lotus Buds"—merry, laughing, irrepressible Chillabu and dreamy, imaginative Bala, and the rest of them, are no mere creations of a poet's mind, but real flesh and blood babies. They are the tiny girl babies of India, who would have been dedicated to the Temple, if they had not been rescued from this tragic fate by the noble band of women who give their lives to the work of saving these poor babes. The mission home is at Dohnavur, at the foot of the Western Ghauts, and far away from large towns and railways. If it were nearer the crowded centres some of the children would not be safe for a day; but shut off from danger by the stretch of country all round, the baby girls live happily and safely in the simple mission-house. As they grow out of babyhood, they are taught in their own little kindergarten; and the stories of the little minds searching out after knowledge, which are told with such sympathy in "Lotus Buds," would hold their own with any of the famous childish sayings of fiction. Indeed, in reading of the quaint Oriental creatures, it is a little hard to realise that they are not story-book babies.

But we have just had a positive proof of their existence. Last week we strolled into the Church Missionary Depot, in Pitt-street, and found Miss Harper busy opening a new shipment of goods from the mission fields. Amongst them was a heap of little raffia baskets of beautiful shape and shade and workmanship.

"How lovely!" Where did they come from?" "From India. They were made by the children at Dohnavur—the Lotus Buds, you know."

How near it brought them! Between us and those little girl babies stretched more than the miles of distance; we are separated from them by the immeasurable division of blood and creed and custom. "East is east, and west is west; and never the twain may meet." Yet, here, at the sight of those pretty baskets, which looked as if they might have been made in our own kindergartens, the "Lotus Buds" bloomed in our mind as living children, and we realised that, in spite of all distances, those little girl babies in far-off Dohnavur had their claim on us.

But that is the great fascination about the depot. You are always finding things there that carry you across the world in a flash, and show you glimpses of a life unknown to you. Golden dragons and strange, wingless birds, embroidered on red or dull purple, old brasses and blue vases, open the gates of China to one. A heap of beautiful lace from Travancore, in Southern India, carries you far across the Himalayas; gorgeous embroidery from Armenia has a tragic interest, and sets you asking how the missions there have fared through the war; and you hear with relief that they have been unmolested, but are overcrowded with children orphaned by the war. And as case after case is opened before you, and you see the muslins from India, the embroideries from Japan, the silver and brass from China—all with that faint, mysterious scent of the East, Pitt-street fades away, and you are out in Western China, or amongst the mountains of Hindustan. Then back you come with a start, to hear Miss Harper say,

"We are expecting another big case in a day or two, so we should have a very good display at our sale of work next Tuesday."

And you remember that these laces and brasses, baskets, and embroideries have been sent to Sydney, not to paint pictures in a dreamer's mind, but to be sold for good coin of the realm, which in turn will be sent back across the sea to support the "Lotus Buds," in India, the schools in Western China, the orphans in Armenia. And yet, perhaps, there is a solid value in those dream pictures, too. Who knows?

SOME FAMILIAR WILD FLOWERS.

Only a few years ago the majority of Australian wild flowers were practically unknown to most people; flannel flowers, waratahs, Christmas bells, Christmas bush, boronia, and epacris, were about the only flowers at all familiar to any but botanists; all the others were weeds, and people who cared about them were "cranks." But within the last few years there has been quite an awakened interest in wild flowers; people realise that there are many other blossoms in the bush just as lovely and lovable as those we have named, and there is a growing desire to know still more about these others. Several popular books have been written within recent years which have brought the strange flowers within the ken of many, but there are still hundreds of beautiful blossoms practically unknown, except to naturalists. There are others, too, whose appearance is familiar, but whose names are unknown, and it requires more imagination than the average person possesses to love a nameless flower.

There has just been published a little book of photographs, entitled "Some Familiar Wild Flowers," which will help flower-lovers to recognise by name some of the plants which grow so plentifully. The photographs, of which there are sixty-five, are taken by Mrs. A. G. Sulman, and, as the name implies, are chiefly pictures of the more conspicuous blossoms. At the foot of each picture is printed the scientific name of the plant, and the popular name, if there is one. The colour of the flower is also given, and this should prove very helpful to the student trying to identify a plant. Indeed, the photographs will be of great use to those who are anxious to become acquainted with the bush flowers. The booklet, which is attractively bound in thick grey paper, is published by Angus and Robertson.

WATTLE DAY LEAGUE.

FOUNDATION OF A BRANCH IN LONDON.

A meeting was held on October 2 at the Commonwealth Offices for the purpose of forming a branch of the Wattle Day League in London. Captain R. Muirhead Collins, who presided, explained that the object of the meeting was to afford the ladies who had been commissioned by the Federated Leagues in Australia to invite the co-operation of all Australians in England in the observance of Wattle Day an opportunity of explaining their mission. All probably were aware that the Wattle Day League, which was started four years ago, had met with great success. Its objects were to foster national feeling, and to adopt the wattle as a national emblem. No doubt we were agreed that love of our country, whether land of birth or adoption, is a good thing. Love and pride of locality is the foundation of all true patriotism.

Mrs. Kettlewell, secretary of the New South Wales branch of the league, and one of its founder members, gave an interesting account of the work of the league. She explained that, although the first suggestion of a league had been received with little or no enthusiasm, and much opposition, in four years it had succeeded in an amazing way. "It was as though we had set a match to a thick scrub, the flame leaped up sky-high, and ran from range to range till it had crossed the whole Commonwealth. Children are being taught to regard the wattle as the symbol of Australian honour, and to protect and love it. The wattle has been included in the design of the new Coat of Arms, and represented in the new Australian stamps. The league aims at the protection and cultivation of the plant, and already corporations are conserving the national plantations and laying out fresh ones."

The Hon. A. A. Kirkpatrick, Agent-General for South Australia, moved, and Sir John M'Call, M.D., seconded, the following resolution, which was carried unanimously:—"That it is desirable that a branch of the Wattle Day League be formed in London, and that the day to be observed be the foundation day, January 26, or such other day as may be observed as Australia Day, and that a committee be now formed to give effect to the resolution."

MORE MAIDS.

We have not been hearing much lately about the scarcity of domestic servants, and some people imagine because there is less talk about the subject that the supply is equal to the demand, and that the domestic problem has been solved.

Unfortunately, this is far from the truth. If women talk less about the difficulty of getting maids, it is because they have come to the conclusion that talking is useless. Their silence is the silence of despair. They have accepted the position with philosophy, and decided to do their own work, or to live in a boarding-house, and let some one else have the worry of seeing that the work is done. Hundreds of women have been positively forced into boarding-house life by the lack of domestic servants, and so the situation seems less strained than it was some time ago.

But there are hundreds and hundreds of women who will not relinquish their own homes, and struggle on with inefficient help or no help at all, till all their strength is used up, and their families suffer almost as much as they would from a boarding-house life. And because there are so many of such homes, and so great a demand for trained domestics, a fresh effort is to be made to bring out more girls from the old country. A scheme has been carefully made out which has the entire aproval of the Director of Immigration, and a meeting will be held on November 14 to discuss it in detail.

Briefly the idea is this:—That a hundred ladies should pay £8 each as a contribution towards the fares of a hundred competent domestics, the Government paying the balance of the fares. The girls will undertake to stay six months in a place, and this is where the plan differs from former ones; for under the old regulations no contract could be made between mistress and maid before the latter arrived in Australia. The girls will also undertake to repay the money advanced for their fares. Mr. Percy Hunter thinks there will be very little trouble about this, for at present 90 per cent. of the money advanced is repaid, and this from girls who are bound in no way by contract.

The Immigration Department in London will select the girls, who will be subject to approval by a committee of Australian women in London, to be nominated at the forthcoming meeting. The meeting will also appoint a committee to supervise arrangements at this end. If the experiment proves successful it is hoped to repeat it every month, so that there will be a constant stream of well-chosen maids coming into the country.

"At present," says a woman who has had first-hand knowledge of the matter both here and in England, "there are hundreds of splendid and capable women most anxious to come to Australia, but unable to do so, because they cannot save their passage money. For very often it is the best women, those with a sense of duty to their families, who are unable to save, and these are the kind of women we want."

In the past the Government has advanced passage money when an intending immigrant was unable to pay her own fare, but, as a rule, the independent, self-supporting woman does not like to be a "special case" in matters of monetary help, and so many of the most desirable women have not come. The present scheme is approved by the authorities, and in the hands of most capable organisers. It just depends now on women themselves whether they are willing to join in the arrangements and advance the necessary £8, which will entitle them to a maid. If women do not respond now there is not likely to be another opportunity, for naturally it will be considered that they do not need more domestics.

AUSTRALIANS ABROAD.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Oct. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Roydhouse have left for Sydney.

Sir John Fuller, Governor of Victoria, arrived in London on Monday, and was officially met by officials of that State.

Mr. H. Norton Russell returns to Sydney by the Themistocles next month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Fairfax have returned from Scotland, and passed through London last week on their way to the Continent.

THE MODEL VILLAGE.

"You are interested in the question of town planning and good housing, so I want you to come out to Daceyville and see what is being done there" said the Woman of Some Importance. "Never mind whether you believe in the scheme or not; come with an open mind and see for yourself what has been done, and how it affects the women and children." So to Daceyville I went with the Woman of Some Importance, and with a perfectly open mind.

We went by motor, up busy Oxford-street, with glimpses of squalid back lanes where the front buildings are being demolished; through crowded Surry Hills, along the dusty road that runs through Moore Park; past the cottages, that, beginning in an orderly group near the racecourse, straggle out in a haphazard fashion across the sandhills. Past all these we went, and turning to the right, drew up at a grass-bordered street, which stretched in front of a row of pretty and orderly cottages. This was Daceyville. Flat it certainly was, and monotonous, but in its very monotony there was the charm of neatness and order, and the trees, which at present are very small, will soon grow and alter the scene. So far only the very beginning has been made, but a plan showed us that if the scheme goes forward Daceyville will, by-and-by, stretch right across the sandhills and swamps, and over the rise almost to Maroubra Bay. At present it consists of a few compact blocks of cottages, with streets running at right angles. The cottages, which are according to three different designs, and roofed in tiles or slate to break the monotony, are built in pairs, semi-detached, and each with its own little lawn in front, and a nice plot at side and back, where already many gay flower beds and healthy vegetable gardens tell of the fertility of this apparently barren sand. There is an air of brightness and neatness about the cottages that tells of housewives who take a pride and joy in vying with their neighbours in the appearance of their little homes. And small wonder; for very few of the inmates have ever before lived in dwellings which had been planned with such knowledge of human needs, such consideration for the housewife. They are not palatial these cottages, but they have been designed so as to make use of every bit of room, and they are well lighted and well ventilated. Each cottage has its entrance hall, living room, kitchen, laundry and two, three, or four bedrooms, as the case may be; and in addition each cottage has a verandah in front, and at the back a larger one, suitable for sleeping out. Everything has been planned to save labour and preserve health. There is electric light throughout each cottage; the rooms are built with rounded corners, and there are no dust-harbouring wooden wainscotings, while the walls are of a material which can be scrubbed with sandsoap if necessary. Each cottage has its picture-rails, brown wood against the creamy walls; and each laundry has its concrete tubs, so that the housewives of Daceyville are never troubled by rust-stained clothes. Each cottage has its roomy little bathroom, with nice white bath and good shower—a new joy to some of the tenants; and each cottage has its little linen cupboard.

With all these aids to comfort in their pretty cottages, is it any wonder that the housewives of Daceyville take a special pride in their homes. Neatness is the prevailing note of the village, and newcomers are soon affected by the atmosphere.

You will notice it in the children as well as in the homes. When we arrived at the village we found that the mothers had arranged a little welcome ceremony for the Woman of Some Importance, and there were about seventy children drawn up to greet the visitors; they were children of varying ages, from tiny toddlers to boys and girls of nine or ten, and the thing that was most noticeable about the children was their healthy and well-cared-for look. Chubby little things they were, with faces rosy or brown from the sea-winds that blow sweet and fresh across the sand-scrub. If they had lived in crowded areas or squalid slums, they would have been pale and wan, and probably dirty and ragged.

As friends of the Woman of Some Importance, we were treated as honoured guests, and entertained at luncheon in one of the pretty cottages. We know that it is not generally considered polite to comment on one's food, but one would have been ascetic indeed not to have noticed the delicious flavour of the green peas, which were served with the tender chicken; and when the hostess, with justified pride, told us that they had been grown in her own garden, and she only thirteen weeks in that cottage—well, we foresaw fresh fame for Daceyville in its green peas.

PUCK'S GIRDLE.

"I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes."—"Midsummer Night's Dream."

A general meeting of the National Council of Women will be held in the King's Hall, Phillip-street, to-morrow afternoon. The meeting, which will be open to all members of affiliated societies, will consider the reports of the standing committees to be read at the quinquennial conference at Rome next year.

The president and board of directors of the Benevolent Society of New South Wales have issued invitations to the official opening of the Septic Block of the Royal Hospital for Women, Paddington. The ceremony will be performed by the Lady Mayoress (Mrs. Cocks) next Wednesday afternoon at 3.30.

There is a deep and widespread sympathy amongst women for Mrs. Charles Walker in the tragically sudden death of her husband, which occurred on Monday. The circumstances have an added painfulness in the fact that Mrs. Walker herself is at present very ill in a private hospital, having recently undergone an operation, and the shock of her sad loss will be the greater on this account. Mrs. Walker is well-known, not only as the mayoress of North Sydney, but in her capacity as an active member of the Women's Liberal League, and one of the league's foremost speakers.

Invitations have been issued by the president and committee of the Society of Arts and Crafts to an exhibition and sale of work to be held to-day and to-morrow. The exhibition will include a number of articles suitable for sending to friends across the sea for Christmas gifts.

The "Midsummer Week's Dream," which was to have been held in December, in aid of the Shakespeare Memorial Fund, has been postponed till April, as many of those interested will be too busy with the coming elections to give the time they would wish to the fete. As April is autumn, the original name, "Midsummer Week's Dream," will not be applicable, but there will be no difficulty in finding another from the plays. "As You Like It," or "All's Well that Ends Well" might serve the purpose.

The second term of the Training School for Secretaries in connection with the Young Women's Christian Association begins this week, and the opening session will take place at the association's rooms at Lyon's Terrace, Liverpool-street, this afternoon. By the training of secretaries, the Y.W.C.A. has opened yet another avenue for women, and the opportunity is being eagerly seized.

"If a ballot were taken as to who was the most popular man in Sydney, it would be Mr. Southwell," said a woman some time ago. And she was probably right; for Mr. Southwell is known by all the concert-going public—which is a very big public—and wherever he is known he is liked. Charity never asked his help in vain, and the courtesy with which he has always treated everyone springs from something much deeper than mere business policy; it comes from a nature that is really kind and sympathetic. And no one knows this better than the girls whose concerts Mr. Southwell has managed during the past years, the budding artists whose successful appearance depended so largely on his kindly interest and helpful experience. Concert-goers have missed his cheerful presence very much this past season, and the sympathy for him in his illness is as genuine as it is widespread, and everyone who has had the pleasure of his acquaintance will be glad of the opportunity to show their appreciation of and liking for him.

Mrs. R. L. Royce writes:—"Last Saturday morning I noticed the display of flowers in front of the General Post Office. There seemed to be so many white ones. I asked one man what they were called. He replied 'flannel daisy.' I think that a poor name for so pretty a wild flower. If it was called a 'white velvet daisy' that would be more appropriate. This is only a suggestion from one who loves flowers. Never in all my travels have I seen so dainty a wild flower."

FASHION AS SHE IS.

One of the most difficult questions to solve where dress is concerned is the choice of colour. It is really only the very young girl who can afford to wear any colour she likes. She has the freshness of youth, and this itself is a charm. But for a women to wear indiscriminate colours is fatal; she must consider every point before attempting to choose a tone or shade.

Among the very many colours seen to-day yellows and reds are most noticeable. The former is more suitable to a fair person, but care must be taken to choose a dark tone of yellow. A brunette always looks well in these shades. Red in different tones is another somewhat trying shade, but it is in so many tones, such as cherry, raspberry, etc., that the difficulty of choosing the right colour is lessened a great deal.

When it is used in such filmy materials as ninon or mousseline-de-soie, and mounted over pure white, the effect is modified to a great extent, and is becoming to most women. But when the material is more intense in tone, and thicker in texture, it must be used very sparingly as a means of trimming. As regards coloured gowns compared to white gowns, for the summer months white certainly always leads the way. White is becoming to women of all ages; but cream or ivory tones are not as trying as pure white, especially where the complexion has suffered.

The little frock of white crepon is seen a great deal this summer, a garment which is very charming and becoming. The skirt is generally slightly gathered into the waist, but otherwise very clinging. In other instances the skirt may be seen cut quite plain to a certain point, but where the back and front breadths meet under the button and buttonholes flat pleats are introduced. They occur at the knees. This group of flat pleats prevents the crepe from stretching.

Cotton voile is also very popular. One delightful little gown of this material was in white and blue check, made over a white lawn skirt, which was hemmed with blue. The corsage was decorated with a fichu of soft white lawn; a little frill with a blue picot edge bordered it. The swathing of soft silk round the waist was in a tone of blue, to match the picot edge. This gown would look equally well carried out in pink and white check, a cherry silk swathing giving the necessary touch of colour.

Then, again, we see the well-cut skirt of bengaline or satin, worn with a coat of a different colour and fabric from the skirt. The satin coatees are also seen, worn over dainty muslin, lace, or cotton voile frocks, and are most becoming. They reach to the hip-line and are cut to show the front of the dress, a narrow belt catching it in at the waist. The sleeves are in most instances elbow length. The coatees form a smart addition to a summer frock. They may also be carried out in softer materials, such as ninon or voile or eponge. A delightful combination was seen in an afternoon frock designed of a pretty printed foulard in black and white check, with very minute currant-red roses sprinkled over it. A coat, in the shape of a man's morning coat, cut away in front and graduating at the back, was carried out in a currant-red coloured ninon. The girdle was in the same shade of red satin, while a deep frill of lace of the "Toby" type outlined the neck. The sleeves were long and plain. A dainty black tulle hat was worn with this fascinating frock. Another example, but not so uncommon, was a white pique skirt, trimmed with white pearl buttons, and worn with a coat of canary and white broche-eponge. The long lapels and turned-back cuffs were of white pique. A black moire or satin folded belt decorated the coat at the waist line, two flat ends finished with a fringe hanging loosely at the side. A dainty white hat of stretched aerophane, with the underbrim lined with navy blue straw, gave the necessary finishing touch to this frock.

Many of the lingerie frocks seen are delightfully flimsy and becoming. They are mostly fashioned of fine muslin, lace, net, etc. In many instances they are decorated with fine lace, edged net frills, which border the hem of the skirt, while at the same time the kilted frills are seen on the lace panel down the front of the skirt and the edges of the sleeves. The sash worn with this type of frock is in a becoming shade, such as a soft rose-coloured satin, with a reversible side of a rich purple. This sash is brought well down over the left hip on one side, and then brought up to the waist on the other side, and finished with short ends at the back.

Quite a new idea was a snow-white lawn frock, decorated with a sort of geranium pink Russian tunic of a soft lawn. This tunic was scalloped with white lawn. The sleeves were rather wide at the base, and were also finished with the white lawn scallops. A somewhat unique feature was noticeable in the waist band; it was carried out in a Scotch plaid in blue and dark green silk broad ribbon, and tied in a bow at the back. The neck of the tunic was finished with a tiny flouncing of soft white net, the whole effect being most uncommon.

The accordeon-pleated gown has not been seen as much as was anticipated, but nevertheless one does see it occasionally. The gown in many instances is of a plain material, and the tunic worn with it is of the accordion-pleated silk or ninon. It is made much shorter than the foundation, and is cut away in front to show the plain material of the underskirt. A charming idea is to have the foundation a deeper shade than the accordeon-pleated fabric. The large Toby hemstitched net or tulle frills are generally seen trimming the V-shaped open neck. This style of dress is most becoming to a young girl.

Some of the summer gowns are seen with double flounces graduated and Vandyked. The neck frills in the softest white silk muslin or lawn give a finishing touch to the corsage. The swathed belt may be in any colour most becoming to the wearer, either in soft silk satin or tulle, with falling ends.

* * * * *

Although we find these little gowns most becoming, the lightweight summer coat and skirt is always in the foremost ranks. An example worth mentioning was fashioned of a soft material, namely, whipcord, but in reality looking like a fine cashmere. A dove-grey was chosen for the colour; the back of the skirt showed the wide box-pleat effect, while pleats were seen on either side of the front, where the skirt wrapped over with a lap seam. The coat opened in front, with long lapels, turned back with finely gauffered frills of net. The basque graduated towards the back, where it buttoned with grey pebble buttons at the side. A sash of the softest black satin was seen under the coat; it was tied in loops, and ended in a very wide end at the side. The sleeves were three-quarter length, and rather wide at the base. The cuffs were folded back, and were of the same material as the coat. A most becoming hat was worn with this toilette, fashioned of soft black Tagal, and trimmed with tiny gauffered frills of tulle, and finished with a large La France pale pink rose at the side; the stem, with its accompanying leaves, lay flat on the brim, giving the hat a touch of originality.

HELEN KELLER AT A MEETING.

The following interesting news came from Mrs. Griffith Thomas, of Mass., America, re the wonderful Helen Keller, of America:—

At a sociological conference held at Sagamore Beach, Mass., Miss Helen Keller attended two of the meetings, and spoke at one of them. Happening to go in late, I dropped into one of the very few vacant seats, and found myself sitting next to Helen Keller, with Mrs. Macey (Miss Sullivan) on her other side. Miss Keller's right hand was held in Mrs. Macey's right hand. Any interesting sentences were thus communicated by fingers and palms by Mrs. Macey, while an occasional query or reply was returned by Miss Keller. Towards the end of the meeting both went to the platform, for Miss Keller's address. The tones of the voice were somewhat strange, and the pronunciation of a few words either over or under articulated. But it was nevertheless very very wonderful to hear one speak who knows nothing of sound and who dwells in perpetual darkness. The happy, smiling, intelligent face must have preached a sermon to many. Apparently she was aware of applause, expressed by the feet, and which caused vibration, for she as once paused and waited, while at hand-clapping she took no notice.

G.

THE GLORY OF WOMANKIND.

In considering the literature most in demand at the present time amongst the more thoughtful and serious readers, we cannot overlook the significance of the desire for those works whose tendencies may best be described by the term "mystical." This reaction from the castiron materialism of recent times—this refusal to consider literature as a cinematograph representation of superficial life—is no doubt responsible for the success of the series of little volumes known collectively as "The Wisdom of the East." Whatever our opinions may be as to the desirability of saturating our western minds with the juice of the Oriental grape—the wine that quickens the dead heart, and produces the intoxication of the soul with the Divine—the wine borne by the Saki to Omar, to Jami, and to the Persian mystics—we nevertheless must concede that this ideal stimulant is responsible for the production of work of an exquisite beauty—for clear-cut cameos of verse, for lyrical outbursts of melody, which we welcome gladly, as does the Caravan the Oasis.

It is asserted by the mystics that the attainment of the absolute reality is productive of a soul's peace. This is certainly not true of the pursuit which seems attended with much unquietness—with many rebellions of the intellect, and of the senses. The senses, too, which should be subdued by the practices of asceticism, seem to derive therefrom an added keenness, and the passion for experience appears to belong rather to the realm of the body than of the spirit. This state of unrest, of dissatisfaction, of baffled longing for experience, has lately been made visible to us in the translation of the poems of a Mogul princess of India, who, early in the 17th century, poured out her burning heart in verse, which endures.

Zeb-un-Nissa is a learned lady, the Oriental Jane Grey, who, at the age of 7, knew the Koran by heart. She had a lady professor who taught her Arabic, and she was proficient in the sciences of astronomy and mathematics. She appears to have been allowed to cultivate the receptive side of her nature, but her creative genius was promptly repressed by a stern parent who, however, made an exception in her favour to one of his edicts; he permitted her to study the works of Hafiz, whom he had censored in the boys' schools and the women's palaces. He suppressed her commentary on the Koran, but she wrote verse in Arabic, and later in Persian. Her love affairs did not prosper, and to this fact we are no doubt indebted for many beautiful poems. The women of India are indebted to her for their present-day garments, which she adapted from a Turkestan model. She spent many years in prison as a result of participation in court intrigues, and on her release lived quietly at Delhi. After her death her writings were collected and published under the name of the Divan-i-Makhfi—or, the Book of the Hidden One.

Herein are contained the records of a singularly unhappy life—a life wherein the natural instincts seem at war with the spiritual, and the ultimate victory does not appear to have been entirely with the latter. Zeb-un-Nissa had one distinct quality of the mystics; she was a heretic, and no narrow orthodoxy, no religion of dogma, could hold her. She gathered honey from many gardens, Sufi and Hindu alike, and it would be difficult for either Hindu or Musulman to claim her genius. But she was a living proof of the fact that no man-made laws or conventions, even those of Mahomet himself, could ever completely stifle the intellectual and spiritual life of a woman of genius. Zeb-un-Nissa is, as her name implies, one of the "glories of womankind." Her poems have mostly for their subject matter the usual mystical yearning for communion with the first reality—under the title of the Beloved. Francis Thompson might have been inspired by her lines:—

I have no peace, the quarry I, a Hunter chases me,
  It is Thy decree.
I turn to flee, but lo! for ever me he casts his snare,
  Thy perfumed hair.
Who can escape Thy prison? No mortal heart is free
  From dreams of Thee.

She has experienced also the "dark night of the soul," and she complains:—

Impatient were my hands, and in their haste,
  Never could they untie the knot of fate;
So vain it is to wail my life laid waste,
  My hours unfortunate.
And strange it is that even in my heart,
  The sweet tormenting flame of my desire
Is quenched. Repentantly I pulled apart
  The brands, and killed the fire.
And never did the blossoms of success
  Within my hope's enchanted garden bloom,
And my fair beacon light of happiness
  Is sunk in gloom.

And, again:—

My heart a bird doth seem,
  That never joyfully can soar and sing,
  For shut within its cage of sorrowing
It sees the garden only in a dream.
Shall I not then complain,
  When every atom of my body cries
  Against your tyranny. Oh, cruel skies,
That yield me days so dark and full of pain,
Grant me, O Fate, this boon,
Give me a little day of joy, of spring,
  When even in its cage my heart might sing,
Glad as a bird—Death comes, thou knowest, soon.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

The delegates attending the Young Women's Christian Association convention were invited by Lady Denman to Government House to meet a number of representative women. Miss Helen Barnes, M.A., had a busy time introducing New Zealand delegates, and Miss Snelson was also active in introducing interstate visitors to congenial companions. Mrs. T. S. Gladding, of New York City, was present, also Miss Mary Hill, who recently arrived from America to take up secretarial work in Sydney. Miss Booth, so long and intimately connected with the Y.W.C.A. activities, was present, looking much improved in health since the burden of office has been removed from her shoulders.

At the final session of the national convention of the Y.W.C.A., held on October 28, a hope was expressed that the membership would be increased so as to embrace at least 5 per cent. of the total female population of all the States. Out-of-door sports, recreation grounds, and gymnasia for the use of girls were recommended, also health talks and lectures on womanhood and social purity.

The statue of the late Sir Thomas Bent at Brighton, which was recently unveiled, is the first work on such a colossal scale that has been carried out by a woman sculptor in Australia. It was modelled by Miss Margaret Baskerville, is nine feet high, and stands on a granite pedestal 12 feet in height. Mrs. Blessby (Sir Thomas Bent's daughter) presented the town of Brighton with a marble drinking fountain in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Bent.

Lady Denman will perform the opening ceremony of the Children's Welfare Exhibition at the Masonic Hall on November 18. Very great interest is being evinced in this movement, which is to be carried out on novel lines.

Miss Alice Crawford, the Bendigo (Victoria) girl who first won recognition as an elocutionist at various competitions, and now holds an assured position on the London stage, is likely to visit her native land in the near future. Bendigo is also the native town of Miss Amy Castles, and her talented sister and brother. Miss Erna Muller is another artiste who hails from the mining city in the north.

Miss Madge Titheradge was entertained by the committee and members of the Warriwee Club at an "at home" in the club rooms. Vocal and musical items were rendered by local artists of repute. Mrs. S. T. Staughton presided.

Miss Betha Campbell is the first woman organist in Victoria to become a licentiate of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music. She began to study for a musical career at the early age of nine years. For the last few years she has devoted most of her time to organ playing. Miss Campbell coached herself for the examination (with the exception of about half a dozen lessons from Mr. W. F. G. Steele) in which she gained the L.A.B. distinction.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

ACCIDENT THROUGH A LIVE WIRE.

A.A. Company v. Newcastle Municipal Council.

Jones v. Same.

Mr. Windeyer and Mr. H. Manning, instructed by Messrs. H. J. Brown and Mitchell, of Newcastle (by their agents, Messrs. Andrews, Moseley, and Manning), appeared for the plaintiff in each case in support of the appeal; and Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Chubb, instructed by Mr. W. H. Barker, of Newcastle (by his agents, Messrs. Baxter Bruce and Ebsworth), for the defendant. Mr. Windeyer, in explaining the facts to the Court, said that the cases, which were tried together at Newcastle before Judge Fitzhardinge in August last, in the Southern and Western District Court, involved a question of great importance to the community. The Australian Agricultural Company owned two horses, one of which, attached to a cart, was being driven along Dawson-street, Newcastle, by James Jones on March 8 last. The other horse was following the cart. A south-easterly gale was blowing, and it was raining at the time, and when near the Oil and Shale Works both horses were killed by the electric current from a live wire which had been broken. Jones was also injured. The wires were erected by the defendant council for the electric lighting of Newcastle, and plaintiff charged negligence. On August 27 Judge Fitzhardinge ruled that the onus rested upon plaintiffs of giving positive evidence of negligence, and as they had not furnished that evidence they could not recover. He therefore found for the defendant council; and plaintiffs now appealed and asked that the verdict should be set aside and entered for them, or in the alternative that a new trial should be ordered on the following grounds:—(1) That his Honor was in error in finding that there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the defendant council; (2) that he was in error in his ruling as to what evidence of negligence should be given by the plaintiffs, and as to where the onus of proof lay on the facts found by him; (3) that the finding was against evidence and the weight of evidence; (4) that his Honor should have held that the defendant council was responsible for the escape of electricity, whereby the horses were killed and Jones injured.

The case stands part heard.

NO. 3 JURY COURT.

RESUMPTION CLAIM.

BIRT AND CO. v CHIEF COMMISSIONER FOR RAILWAYS.

The case was continued in which Messrs. Birt and Co., Limited, sued the Chief Commissioner for Railways and Tramways for compensation for the resumption of the land, buildings, machinery, and plant used in the operations of the business known as the Railway Meat Markets, at Darling Harbour.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

A BRICKMAKING PATENT.

The hearing was continued of the suit of Delph Singh, an Indian herbalist, against Victor Karbowski and James Alexander Smith, in respect to an agreement concerning a patent brickmaking machine invented by Karbowski, in which the plaintiff had a financial interest. Smith was alleged to have made certain arrangements with Karbowski as to the foreign rights of the patent, but he filed a disclaimer, denying any interest in the suit.

Mr. J. A. Browne and Mr. F. R. Jordan (instructed by Mr. A. H. Jones) appeared for the plaintiff, and Karbowski was represented by Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. A. Ferguson (instructed by Messrs. Lawrence and Lawrence).

The plaintiff was further cross-examined, and the case is part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

THE WILL OF P. R. LARKIN.

PERPETUAL TRUSTEE COMPANY, LTD., v LARKIN.

Mr. R. K. Manning appeared for the plaintiff company; Mr. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. McKean, for George Alfred Larkin; Mr. Bethune, for Septimus William Larkin and Stephen Francis Larkin; Mr. Maughan, for other sons of the testator; Mr. H. G. Edwards, for John Larkin, testator's nephew; and Mr. J. J. Watkins, for the infant Patrick Ryan Larkin. All the counsel named were instructed by Messrs. Makinson and Plunkett. The testator, Patrick Ryan Larkin, died on April 2 1910, at Randwick, and by his will he appointed his widow and his son, George Alfred Larkin, his executrix and executor respectively. During the lifetime of the widow certain questions arising out of the terms of this will were submitted to and answered by the Court. After the death of the widow, the plaintiff company became the trustees, and upon an originating summons, it now asked the Court to determine a number of other questions in connection with the will. The estate of the testator, who was well known in sporting circles, was valued at under £135,500.

The suit is part heard.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

ARCHITECT'S CLAIM.

James W. Hill, architect, of Parramatta and Elizabeth-street Sydney, sued P. J. Mannix and Mrs. Mannix, of 40 Parkham-street, Moore Park, for £30 3s for work done in connection with the proposed erection of a residence at Randwick, for which the lowest tender on the plans was £982. The defendants denied indebtedness.

Mr. Young (instructed by Mr. H. C. G Moss) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Meillon (instructed by Mr. T. G. M'Donald) for the defendants.

A WEATHERBOARD COTTAGE.

Edward James Mahoney, contractor, of Randwick, claimed £36 16s from Pearl Kingston, of Denning-street, Coogee, this being the balance alleged to be owing for the construction of a weatherboard cottage. The defendant claimed that the work had not been done according to contract, and disputed the amount.

Mr. Flannery (instructed by Mr. F. A Davenport) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. E. H. Gardner for the defendant.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Murray and Juries.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

A TRIPLE CHARGE.

Arthur Thomas Bolton, a young man, was charged with breaking and entering the dwelling-house of Henry Ryman, at Folly Point, Middle Harbour, on October 3, with intent to steal; and also with stealing in the dwelling house one ring, one razor, one shaving set, and one purse containing 8s 6d, Ryman's property.

Bolton, who conducted his own case, pleaded not guilty.

Henry Ryman, overseer at the Folly Point Sewerage Works, said that he went to bed about 10.30 p.m., the doors and the windows being shut but not locked, and early next morning he missed his purse, which was on a table near the head of his bed, and his ring, which was in a leather pouch; also a shaving outfit, which was in a drawer in the room. The larder had also been rifled. A few days later he identified the goods.

Senior-Constable Gates said the accused told him that he intended to plead guilty. He said that he did not break into Ryman's house, as the doors were open.

The accused, from the dock, said that he acknowledged having had the ring in his possession, but denied that he had committed burglary.

The jury found the accused not guilty of burglary, but guilty of stealing.

Bolton was also charged with breaking and entering the counting-house of Mashman Bros., Ltd., at Chatswood, and stealing a coat and vest, a cap, a looking-glass, a hair brush and comb, a clothes brush, and 9d, the property of Henry Mashman, on September 30; also, with breaking and entering the dwelling-house of Elizabeth Stephenson, at Willoughby, on the same date, and stealing therein a vest, a handkerchief, three shirts, and 5s, the property of George Morell; one basket, the property of Robert Gavenstock; and 15s, the property of George Cantwell.

Bolton pleaded guilty to stealing, and was remanded for sentence.

AN ALIBI.

Mr. M'Mahon appeared for the defence.

The case for the prosecution was that at about 3 p.m. on the day in question Miss Davis was walking along Macleay-street when she met three men, one of whom snatched a silver handbag which she was carrying. They ran away, but one of them was followed by a young man named Lamb for some distance, who eventually lost sight of him. The man was afterwards seen to run into and through an hotel near Rushcutter Bay. A boy who was in the vicinity at the time of the robbery said that accused was very much like one of the men who ran away from Miss Davis.

The accused, in his evidence, denied being near Macleay-street at the time that the offence was said to have been committed. He met a friend named Armitage about 6 o'clock, and was in his company till after 10 o'clock.

Fus's evidence was corroborated by two young men who were with him for some time on the evening in question.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

CONVICTED.

James Eaton, a young man, was found guilty of having committed a serious offence at Sydney, on October 4. The jury added a rider recommending Eaton to mercy on the ground that when the offence was committed he was intoxicated. The prisoner was remanded for sentence.

COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEAL.

(Before the Chief Justice Mr. Justice Gordon, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

A CONSTABLE'S CONVICTION.

REX v J. A. MURPHY.

Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. J. J. Carroll, appeared for prisoner, in support of the appeal. Mr. Bevan appeared for the Crown to oppose. The prisoner, Joseph Alexander Murphy, was tried before Judge Murray and a jury at Darlinghurst Quarter Sessions, and on the 22nd August was convicted on a charge of larceny on the 14th July, and was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment. He now appealed mainly on the ground that in various particulars the summing up of the Judge amounted to a misdirection.

After argument,

The Chief Justice (Mr. Justice Gordon and Mr. Justice Ferguson concurring) said it was contended by counsel for appellant that there had been a miscarriage of justice, because the Judge at the trial, in his summing-up to the jury, used expressions which conveyed a strong suggestion that prisoner had been guilty on previous occasions of conduct similar to that with which he was charged. He was clearly of opinion that in the course of the summing-up several things were stated by the presiding Judge which were calculated to deprive appellant of the benefit which section 412 of the Crimes Act afforded him. The superior officers of the appellant (who at the time was a constable) gave their testimony as to his good character before the charge was brought against him, and there was not the smallest fact disclosed in evidence from which an inference could be drawn that his character had not been unexceptionable prior to the charge on which he was tried. By certain expressions used by the Judge in his summing-up, however, the appellant was deprived of the benefit which he was entitled to receive from the evidence as to his previous good character, and, that being so, the case was one which might properly be described as a miscarriage of justice. He was of opinion that the mis-trial complained of could be adequately remedied by ordering a new trial.

Appeal upheld, conviction quashed, and a new trial ordered. Appellant was allowed bail, himself in £100 and two sureties of £50 each, or one in £100, with liberty to apply, if necessary, for a reduction in the amount of [illegible]

ALLEGED ASSAULT ON A CONSTABLE.

DRUNKENNESS ALLEGED.

Allegations of drunkenness on the part of an arresting constable were made at the Central Police Court during the hearing of a case which extended over three days, in which Alfred Ward, 25, was charged with using indecent language in a tramcar while travelling in Broad-road, Randwick, on October 24. Ward was also charged with unlawfully assaulting Constable John Henry Wilson whilst in the execution of his duty.

Mr. P. K. White appeared for Ward, who pleaded not guilty.

Constable Wilson said that when he was travelling in the tram Ward became offensive, and when he left the car he arrested him for using indecent language; but Ward assaulted him with an umbrella. Witness said that he was perfectly sober, but was suffering from the effects of an attack of appendicitis.

Two medical men who were called for the prosecution deposed that when they examined Wilson, about three hours after the committal of the alleged assault, he bore evidence of having been attacked. He showed no signs of drink when they saw him.

Horace Frederick Dyne, a tram conductor, said that he saw Constable Wilson on the tram, which he boarded at Cleveland-street. He noticed that the constable was intoxicated. He was very red in the face, and was staggering when he got on to the car. After Wilson boarded the tram he went to sleep. Subsequently he left the car that he was in, and went into the other one, and leaned over the seat and called the accused a very offensive name. He also threatened to punch the accused's head. The accused said, "I shall certainly report you," and the constable hit the accused with his elbow on the jaw. At Maroubra section the constable followed the accused off the car, and jostled him with his shoulder. "As soon as I started the car," said witness, "the constable grabbed the accused by the face, got him by the arm, and dragged him to the back of the tram. Accused did not make use of bad language, and had done nothing to warrant Wilson arresting him. I had sent in a report to the authorities of the occurrence. I saw Constable Wilson at the court, and he asked me not to use the bad language against him, and he said that it would be money in my pocket if I could twist my evidence."

This evidence was corroborated by Conductor Smith, who was also on duty on the tram.

Ward denied that he used the language complained of, and said that Wilson was intoxicated. He stated that he did not give Wilson any provocation for arresting him, and he certainly did not assault him.

After a number of witnesses had corroborated Ward's evidence the charges against Ward were dismissed, and he was discharged.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT.

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which, by chemical action in the stomach, develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh, and nerve-building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated, and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well-fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet, or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards half a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralise any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fulness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It is not a medicine, and has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralising the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your chemist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."—Advt.

COST OF LIVING.

TIME PAYMENT.

NEW HOUSES AND MARRIAGE RATE.

Mr. Rolin, K.C., instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., Messrs. Sly and Russell, and Messrs. Read and Read, appeared for the Employers' Federation; Mr. M. Connington for the Union Secretaries' Association and a number of the unions; and Mr. Bevan for the Crown, in the interests of the general public.

Mr. Connington read from the advertising columns of the daily press quoting the prices charged for the rental of houses to let. He said that houses were advertised to let at 15s to 18s, the occupier to pay so much for the furniture. Then there was the house to let on the bonus system. In some cases as much as £40 and £50 was charged for the furniture. In these cases the furniture people generally got in ahead with the furniture, and the tenant was compelled to buy it.

One of the witnesses stated she did not save out of her husband's wages; what she put by was out of tips and overtime he received. She was in debt on her time payments.

His Honor said it was more expensive to pay one's way and be in debt than to pay one's way and have a little in hand.

Mr. Connington said he had known of men to stint themselves, even to taking only a crust of dry bread for dinner.

His Honor: You know, Mr. Connington, if you are to succeed you must stint yourself. I know in my young days I had to stint myself of things.

The witness said if she only had her husband's wages to depend on she could not provide any little extras for Christmas. She had only been to Manly once in eight years, and had been to the theatre twice in the year. The week she went to the theatre no money was paid off the furniture.

In reply to Mr. Connington, the witness said the reason she dealt with the one small shop constantly was that if a crisis came, and she could not pay her way, the small shopkeeper would give her a month's credit, whereas the big firm would not hand over the goods except for cash.

In reply to his Honor, the witness said her husband handed her on an average £3 a week. She had an average debt of £8, and was paying it off at the rate of 8s a week.

His Honor: She has to pay for the collector's services in coming for the money. It shows really what an expensive way it is of purchasing. She is always paying off.

To Mr. Rolin the witness said she had four orders out just now, and was paying 9s 6d a week back.

In reply to Mr. Bevan, the witness said there were certain firms in the city that advanced money to enable cash purchases to be made. As a rule these money-lenders usually suggested that so-and-so was a good firm to go to. Before she could get the £5 she would have to pay 5s interest and 5s off the amount, and would then have £4 15s to pay off. The system most in vogue was that of going to the money-lending firms and obtaining a cash payment order. The money lender obtained no security, but made inquiries as to the respectability of the party.

Mr. Bevan submitted a return prepared by Mr. Trivett. It showed that the population in the metropolis from 1907 to 1912 increased by 119,100 for the five years. At the census in 1911 the average persons per house were 5.05. Therefore the number of new habitations required to house 110,000 persons was approximately 22,000. The actual number of new buildings erected in the metropolis from 1908 to 1912 inclusive was 27,160. The number of buildings erected in Ku-ring-gai Shire was not available for 1908-9-10, and 250 had been added to each year as the estimated numbers. The habitations were approximately 90 per cent. of the buildings. Therefore the number of new habitations erected during 1907 to 1912 was, say, 24,500, equal to 90 per cent. of 27,160, which compared with 22,000, the number indicated as being required. From 1908 to 1912 inclusive the number of marriages was 35,828.

His Honor said it seemed strange to him that, with the general prosperity existing in New South Wales, there should be such a large number of married couples occupying lodgings.

Mr. Bevan referred to the abnormal increase in the number of marriages. In 1908-10 the increase was only 1000, yet in 1910-12 the increase was 2000. All these married couples wanted houses, and then there was the increase in population.

The inquiry adjourned till to-day.

RIDER KILLED BY HORSE.

ANIMAL EXCITED BY MOTOR.

At an inquest yesterday regarding the death of Donald Duffy, 19, a fruitgrower, of Thornleigh, which occurred on October 31 from injuries inflicted by the hoof of a horse the same day, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

In evidence, Thomas Hill, an ironfounder, said that at about 6 p.m. on October 31 he was driving his motor car along Balmain-road, Leichhardt, when a man riding a chestnut horse appeared in the road. As witness's car approached, the animal began to rear and plunge, and kicked the mudguard of the car. Deceased was gradually falling from the saddle, and he dropped below his horse after it had run some distance. While lying on the ground the animal jumped on its rider, and one kick caused a fracture of deceased's skull.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments have been approved by the Governor-in-Council:—Dr. L. H. Rogers and Dr. F. P. Quirk, as junior assistant medical officers, Lunacy Department; Mr. R. N. Anderson, as Assistant Superintendent of Drawing in Schools, under the Department of Public Instruction; Mr. A. Waugh, to act as inspector under the provisions of the Industrial Arbitration Act for a further period of three months from September 13, 1913; Mr. J. Lingard, as engineer, dredge service; Mr. W. M. C. Moore, as Relieving Assistant Engineer, Department of Public Works; Mr. R. J. Cohen, as Registrar, Wollongbar Experiment Farm.

POLICE COURTS.

HUMPY IN A MAIN STREET.

"How does a council allow that sort of thing to continue in a main street?" was a remark made by Mr. Payten, S.M., at the Glebe Court yesterday during the hearing of a case in which Thomas Dorrington was proceeded against for keeping dirty premises in Marion-street, Leichhardt.

After describing the filthy condition of things inside and outside the premises, the sanitary inspector said the dwelling was a "humpy, constructed of tin, bags, and wood, about 8 feet x 10 feet."

In imposing a fine of 50s, or 21 days' imprisonment, the magistrate said he was surprised that such premises should be allowed to exist in one of the main streets of a municipality.

ALLEGED STEALING.

John Gunther, 23, was committed for trial by Mr. Payten, S.M., at the Glebe Court, yesterday, on a charge of having, on October 8, stolen a silver watch, two gold rings, and £2 5s, of a total value of £8, the property of Henry Scott. The case for the prosecution was that the accused called at Scott's place in St. John's-road, Glebe, on the date mentioned, and after he left the money and jewellery, which had been kept in the front bedroom, were missed.

WATERED MILK.

For selling milk which when analysed was found to be deficient in fat to the extent of 37 per cent., and to contain 36 per cent. of added water, Peter Malanos, trading as the New York Candy Co., was fined £20, with the alternative of four months' imprisonment, in the Summons Division of the Central Police Court. Malanos had been previously convicted of a similar offence.

Alexander Firos, who carries on a refreshment room in Oxford-street, was also proceeded against in the same Court for selling milk that was 32.8 per cent. deficient in fat, and contained 19.7 per cent. of added water. He was fined £10, in default three months' goal.

NOT PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH.

Why is it that to-day there lie in the Navy Yards of the world thousands of pounds' worth of rusting ironclad vessels? Why was the cable car system of New York City suddenly abolished with a loss of millions of dollars in favour of the Electric? Why was the machinery of the largest shoe factory in the world at Boston taken out and thrown on the dump pile only after a few weeks' use? Because something better was discovered. Weis's Muco Tonic has been used for over 100 years. During all this time it has constantly been improved upon by newly-discovered herbs. Should something be discovered to-morrow that would improve its therapeutic virtues that something would be added, regardless of cost. The Weis Medicine Co. have offices and agents in all parts of the world with the cash ready and willing to purchase any new discovery of merit for the relief of disease. The vast number of Sydney people already relieved of catarrh, rheumatism, gall bladder, stomach, kidney, and liver trouble, speaks volumes for this famous medicine. Mr. G. Lee, of 14 Kent-street, Newtown, called again to-day to further testify as to the efficacy of this remedy. Mr. McGabock, of Wylie's-avenue, Lakemba, after being near unto death's door for months, is looking around for another job, and new testimonials are pouring in every day. Two prominent women were saved from an operation this week for troubles peculiar to their sex. Come now and try this medicine. It may change the destiny of your life. THE TERMS OF SURRENDER.

BY LOUIS TRACY.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

He was still kneeling in anguish of spirit when an awe-stricken page entered the room with a telegram. If aught were needed to crush him into the dust it was forthcoming in Dacre's guarded words:

"Have accidentally secured brief talk on telephone with friend indicated, who arrived this morning Fall River steamer. No secret made of intentions, which I am bidden to warn you are final. Going with father to Europe at once, but would not discuss reasons, for which, obviously, I could not press. I am puzzled and shocked. Command me in any way. Have you received urgent summons to Bison? Your mother is ill."

Then, and not until then, did some heaven-sent clarity of vision reveal to Power that Nancy had not been acting a part when she wrote the letter he found in the hut. It was only too true that, as he told Peter Granite in the first mad words which burst from his lips, she had left him for ever. He did not pretend to understand her motives—he was sure he never would understand them—but her action at least was finite. He knew now she was gone beyond recall. By some malign trick of fate she was probably stating her unalterable resolve over the telephone to his friend at the very moment he was reeling under the shock of MacGonigal's frantic messages with reference to his mother.

Well, be it so. His dream of a life's happiness had been shattered by a thunderbolt from a summer sky, and, crowning misery, here was his mother at death's door, in a state of mind surely aggravated by distress because of uncertainty as to his whereabouts. Sheer despair was again calming if benumbing him when, by ill-chance, his haggard eyes dwelt on Nancy's letter. The concluding words seemed to grip him by the throat.

"I can write no more. My poor heart is breaking."

God of mercy, what did it all mean? He gave way utterly. A strong man weeping is a pitiable sight, and Nancy's high resolve might have weakened had she seen him in that bitter hour.

Perhaps she knew. She must have known. Her forlorn soul must have gauged his distress by the measure of her own sorrowful longing. She had deceived Power so thoroughly that not for many a year did he even guess that her flight was undertaken solely on his account. And it was better so, for the story of their love might have been stained by a sordid tragedy, and Power, instead of going west that night, would have taken a special train to Newport with fixed intent to choke Willard's wretched life out of him. As it was, he crossed two-thirds of the great land which had given him vast wealth, and much tribulation, and little joy. At New York, and elsewhere en route, he received telegrams from his trusty friend at Bison. They were not reassuring, but they did, at least, contain one grain of comfort in the tidings that his mother still lived.

But therein MacGonical allowed his heart to control his pen, for Mrs. Power breathed her last before her son had quitted New York, and it was to a town in mourning that Power returned. His mother had endeared herself to every soul in the place. The people looked on her as their guardian angel. They almost scowled on John Darien Power when the flying feet of his horse clattered along the main street in his haste to soothe the fretfulness of a woman who was already three days dead. Why did he leave her, they asked? Where had he bidden that the country should be scoured for him during the past week, and none could find him? He used to be a decent out-spoken sort of fellow, "Derry" Power, but wealth had spoiled him, as it seemed to spoil every man who secured it. Queer thing. Deponent thought that he, or she, would risk the experiment at the price.

Thus, light-hearted gossip, which talks in headlines, and recks little of the subtler issues of life.

CHAPTER XII.

AFTER DARKNESS, LIGHT.

Death brings peace. Having accomplished its dread mission, it atones to the body from which the soul is snatched by smoothing away the lines of agony from the face; it seems even to relent for a while, and restore to worn and aged features the semblance of long-vanished youth.

When Power looked at his dead mother, he saw her as she might have looked in placid sleep when he was a child. But a discovery that is often soothing to those who are bereft of their nearest and dearest brought him no consolation. His stupor of grief and misery was denied the relief of tears. Rather did his brooding thought run to the other extreme. The mother he loved was at rest—why should he not join her? He believed like many another man who has passed through the furnace of a soul-destroying passion that he had drunk the flame-wreathed cup of life to the dregs. The fiery potion had swept through his veins and reduced him to ashes. He was no longer even the recluse of the Dolores ranche, finding in books solace for a lost love, but the burnt-out husk of his former self. What was there left that he should wish to live? Why should he not end it all, and seek the kindly oblivion of the grave?

Ever stronger and more insistently did this idea take root in his mind, and some evil monitor seemed to bellow it at him when he stood next day in the cemetery, and saw the coffin lowered into the earth. The beautiful words of the burial service give sorely-needed help to stricken hearts, but this man's ears were closed to their solemn promise.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life, saith the Lord; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. . . ."

The minister's voice, hitherto broken and tremulous, for he held the dead woman in much esteem, and her loss was grievous to him, rang out with a new confidence when it declaimed that splendid passage, yet Power was conscious only of a desire to cry aloud in frenzied protest. Then that phase passed; the tumult died down; he shrank into a lethargy which was infinitely more dangerous than a state of wild revolt.

In that black mood he was watched unceasingly by faithful friends. MacGonigal and Jake were never far from his side. Though he did not know of, and would have angrily resented, their quiet guardianship, he could not have taken his own life just then, and the time was yet far distant when he would ask himself in wonder and thankfulness how he had escaped death by his own hand during the first dreary hours following his return to Bison.

But there were other influences at work, and one of these made its presence felt speedily. After the funeral he was sitting alone in the room which he had converted into a library. His unseeing eyes were fixed on the smiling landscape into which irrigation had converted the once arid ranche. A troop of brood mares, with foals at heel, were emulating mankind by neglecting the lush pastures at their feet and craning their graceful necks over a palisade to nibble the thorn hedge it protected. This double barrier shut off the lawn and garden from the meadow lands. Here and there the green of apple orchards, planted with artistic regard to open vistas, was already flecked with golden fruit. Soon the reapers would be busy on the sections where maize and oats and wheat were ripening. The lowing of cattle announced that milking-time was near, for, among her other activities, Mrs. Power had established a model dairy, and it was her gentle boast that she made it pay, thus bringing out in the mother the money-coining instincts which the son had developed so unexpectedly.

Such a scene might well lull the beholder to rest, but Power was blind to its charms. He was reviewing, in an aimless way, the associations which that very apartment held for him. Changed though it was out of all semblance to the poverty-stricken living-room of the ranche, Nancy's spirit had never been wholly exorcised. He pictured her slim and lissom figure as she stood with him at the window many an evening, and watched the purple shadows stealing over the hills. In that room she had married Marten. From a bamboo stand near one of the windows she had taken the spray of white heather which formed her wedding bouquet. Why had she never mentioned it to him? Or were the past five weeks nothing but some disordered vision of the imagination, a delusion akin to those glimpses of palm-laden oases and flashing waters which come to thirst-maddened wanderers in deserts?

But another shadow intervened. His mother, in turn, had loved the gorgeous sunsets of Colorado; she, too, was wont to gaze at the far-flung panorama which once delighted Nancy's eyes. And she, alas, had become a dream which would never again wake into reality. At that moment the relief of tears was imminent—and tears are intolerant to a strong man. He sprang upright in a spasm of pain, and bitter words escaped him openly.

The movement, no less than the disconnected sentences, seemed to arouse Jake, who happened to be lounging against one of the pillars of the verandah—out of sight, perhaps, but certainly not out of hearing.

THE CUP.

POSINATUS WINS.

A SLOW RACE.

DOWNFALL OF THE FAVOURITES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Melbourne Cup which was run to-day cannot be marked down as a decided success. The Victoria Racing Club, who control the Flemington racecourse, may consider it one, for it was estimated that a record crowd paid for admission. The bookmakers without a doubt will look back with joy on it, but the general public will easily remember much better days. To begin with, the weather was unsettled and showery; while, what was more annoying than all, the favourites in four out of seven races failed to justify the faith placed in them. In the big event of the day the horses most spoken of came in behind three that got just passing mention, and were regarded by the majority of the sporting public simply as good things to use in the drawing of sweeps.

The Government Meteorologist was the first man to put a damper on the spirits of those who were looking forward to a good day's amusement. He said it would be showery, and he was the only tipster that got anywhere near the mark. The morning broke with every promise of a delightful day, but about the time the ladies were shaking out their new dresses a sharp shower, accompanied by hail, warned them that tailor-made costumes and furs would be more serviceable than the dainty creations with which they dazzled the sterner sex on Derby Day. With the rain, which only lasted five or ten minutes, came a cold wind that can be depended on to rise at a moment's notice in Melbourne. This settled the question of lace and silks versus tailor-mades with the majority, and the result was a sombre-toned lawn and grandstand. Taking it all round the weather did not behave as badly as the favourites. It kept fine till a few minutes before the first race, and then a slight shower fell, which sent the ladies scampering for cover, like a lot of chickens on the approach of a hawk. Every place with a roof was invaded by them; there was no denying them when they made for shelter. Many a pompous official guarding the entrance to reserves sacred to holders of members and press tickets was forced to give way before the appeals of beautiful women, who pleadingly asked them to help them save their feathers or flowers. This worked during the first shower, but after that no favours were shown, and the ladies found their way blocked to the special stands. Strangely enough, light rain fell before the start of each race, the heaviest fall being while the Cup candidates were doing their preliminary gallop.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather, the attendance was the biggest ever seen on the course. In the grandstands there was not a vacant point of vantage while any race was being run, and judging by the number of ladies who were crowded into the gangways and passages there must have been thousands who never saw the Cup race. As there has been a new huge stand added to the accommodation this will indicate how much larger the crowd was than last year. On the hill, the St. Leger reserve of Flemington, the people were packed like sardines, and it seemed wonderful how they ever managed to move about. The recent imposition of a charge of a shilling for admission to the flat seemed to have little or no effect on the attendance there, for the crowd appeared thicker than ever.

As usual, the public began to make their way to the course at an early hour. Every form of conveyance was pressed into service for transport duty. The railways carried the bulk of the people, and incidentally charged two shillings for the trip that could be done for four-pence on ordinary, and a shilling on agricultural show days. Even at these enhanced prices one could not be certain of a seat; in fact, thousands had to wait for over an hour at the close of the day for a chance to stand up in the train bringing them home. Motor cars were greatly availed of, while motor 'buses and cabs did a roaring business. There was a large number of people who went to the course early with well-stocked hampers, got a good seat in the grandstand, and stayed there till the Cup was run. They then gathered up their belongings and rode back to town in comfort.

The huge concourse in the paddock included representative men from all over Australia. Everywhere could be seen prominent citizens from the other capitals. Bankers, lawyers, politicians, and professional men alike seemed imbued with the one idea to pick a winner, and many who visit a race meeting only once a year were as ready to argue about the chances of a certain horse as the most confirmed follower of the sport. Even in such a huge gathering it could be plainly noticed that there was a falling-off in the attendance from Sydney, due no doubt to the reluctance of many of the citizens of the city to undergo vaccination, without which operation they could not enter Victoria. However, there were still sufficient Sydney people to give the city ample representation.

The Federal Government House party consisted of the Governor-General, Lord Denman, and Lady Denman, Sir Day Bosanquet, Governor of South Australia, attended by Captain C. P. Walker, the Governor of Tasmania and Lady Ellison Macartney, Rear-Admiral Sir George Patey, the Hon. Alicia Knatchbull Hugessen, Lady Barttelot, the Hon. Harold Pearson, Lord Richard Neville, Captain Kerr-Pearce, Flag-Lieutenant Poe, Sir Walter Barttelot, Captain G. Le-R. Burnham, and Captain A. B. Pollok.

Nobody could grumble at the racing programme, there being no less than seven races, which included the Cup, Hurdle Race, and a Steeplechase. The first event, appropriately called the Encourage Stakes, saw the favourite, Bay Malt, run third to the second favourite, Mount Mostyn. It was a bad start for backers, but they saw an exciting race. Conditions were not improved in the second race, in which all three places were filled by outsiders. In the Hurdle Race, however, the public got some of their money back by the success of Bullawarra, who won easily at a short price. No sooner had the hurdle race been run than the crowd made a move to the betting ring to place their bets on the big event of the day. The accommodation afforded the bookmakers has been considerably extended this year, yet it was next to impossible to make one's way through the crowd, and the bagmen who worked on the edge of the ring did a roaring business with those who had not the strength or inclination to fight their way to the centre of the masses, in search of better odds. Wagering was proceeding at a lively pace when down came a brisk shower, which caused many a man to take the first odds given him, and rush for the shelter of the stands to see the race.

As the twenty horses for the Cup came out of the mounting yards on to the course the rain was falling heavily, and there was a rattle of hail on the iron roofs. The flat and the hill, with a sea of umbrellas, looked like a huge swaying field of black mushrooms. Luckily for the spectators, the shower passed before the horses lined up at the barrier. There was the usual silence as the starter got his charges into position, and before the people were aware of it the coloured line moved forward. Down they came towards the straight in what to the unpractised eye looked like a straight line. They tore across the patch of dust which marked the road on to the flat, and when they left the haze behind them it was seen that Posinatus was leading the way. Very few people thought he would last long in that position, and the supporters of other horses fixed their glasses on their fancies to see them make their run and wrest the lead from the lilac jacket. One after another the competitors appeared to be about to complete the work, but never once did anything come past the flank of the Newcastle horse, until the winning post was left behind. The race proved that public opinion was all astray, as the only favourite to run anywhere was Sea Prince, who filled fourth place. Beragoon, who won the A.J.C. and V.R.C. Derbies and went out a firm favourite at 3 to 1, got no nearer than fifth.

The remaining races on the programme—the Steeplechase, the November Nursery, and the Yan Yean Stakes—proved more profitable to the backers than the first events, and some good finishes were provided.

The most pleasing feature of the day was that the people reached home dry, which was little expected by the majority when they set out in the morning in the face of the banking clouds and piercing cold wind.

A BRILLIANT GATHERING.

RAIN AND SUNSHINE.

FASHIONS AT FLEMINGTON.

Once again there is a Cup Day to talk about. The morning broke with a cloudy sky and a cold wintry wind; but as at intervals the sun shone out in fitful gleams there was hope that it would merge into a fine day. This, added to the fact that, though comparatively few visitors have come from Sydney, Melbourne hotels and boarding-houses are all overcrowded, argued well for a record attendance. As each successive year passes and brings the great event of the southern hemisphere, the habitues of Flemington for Cup Day realise the necessity of making an early start for the racecourse, in order to avoid the unpleasantness of having to stand the whole day. It was hoped that the additional new stand, recently erected to the right of the main stand and terrace, would minimise the trouble of securing seating accommodation; but, probably owing to the record attendance, little advantage seemed to have been gained.

Long before 10 a.m. the crowd had commenced to make for Flemington, and these early travellers soon secured their vantage spots. Sitting in the main stand and watching the steady stream of all sorts and conditions of people, the morning passed with astonishing rapidity; and the panoramic view was one of unending attractiveness. The first race was not run until 12.30 p.m., but long before then the seating space on the stand was taxed to its utmost, and the terrace and lawns thickly covered with hundreds of visitors.

Watching the moving throng it was easy to detect that there is a marked change from the slim, tube-like silhouette of last season; for draperies which were then only making a shy bid for favour are now in evidence on almost every gown; and not only are the skirts to be seen hanging in these loose folds, but the cloaks and coatees, as they more often are, have been fashioned so as to simulate a draped effect, and make the wearer look limp and lackadaisical. If this idea evolves much further we can expect to see the aesthetic style of dress which was so cleverly caricatured in the early 'Eighties in the comic opera "Patience." The general looseness of effect when seen in a moderate form is very becoming, and for young girls there is a tendency for their coatees to be cut on the quaint lines of the "Kate Greenaway" pictures. With the spring has come a very determined revival of the waistcoat which is not only smart, but can be ideal with a suit intended for warm weather when made of white pique or drill. Some of these waistcoats are made in one with the coat, while others are separate in the form of a sleeveless blouse, the vest part being particularly effective when fashioned of brocaded silk in an old-world pattern of bright tones, and the coatee cut so as to allow the vest also to appear in two points below the waistline. A simple costume gains quite a coquettish air when, in addition, it is completed by a charming Robespierre or Medici lace collar. Embroidered and brocaded coatees of a contrasting colour to the fourreau, or to match the striped material of which it is fashioned, are frequently seen; and some of these are so shapeless that one wonders if the designer has not made a mistake, and to try and rectify it has then concocted the coat from a pleated bolero or a draped fichu. The coatees fashioned en panier, and made of floral crepe de chine or ninon, are most picturesque, and prove reminiscent of the dressing in the reign of Louis XV. Another style just creeping in, and exploited by some of the visitors from America, is in the shape of a loose-fitting Magyar, the sleeves being enormous, with the angle which usually fits under the armpit appearing about the elbow. A basque, graduated from the waist in front to a deep point at the back, is finished by a broad golden belt and sash end, similar to the military sash worn by a brigadier-general. Yet another type of coatee is that with the folded crossover effect, and curiously-fashioned bell-like sleeves, which reveal the fact that the designer has borrowed ideas from Japan. Tabs of Japanese embroidery are also seen as trimming for vests and sash ends. A modified revival of the dressing in the days of Louis XV. is also discernible in the elaborate embroidered clocks which are seen peeping between the slits of the skirts. And, with the majority, silk woven stockings are indispensable, the colouring always being to match the shoes.

The footwear of 1750 is now being reproduced, and shoes are seen of satin, kid, and brocade, the colourings being to match with the costume, and frequently adorned with large buckles of brilliants or cut steel, whilst in some instances bright red heels make a striking contrast. Others are made of gold or silver tissue, and perhaps the smartest are of bronze kid with metal buckles. Even hats are fashioned to resemble the becoming mob caps of the same period. Many are seen in the form of a full mob crown of ninon crepe de chine, satin, or tulle, and a becoming frame to the face is the full pleated brim of tulle or lace. Speaking of lace, the general opinion is that no costume is complete without a neck ruffle or jabot; and on the more ethereal creations it takes a prominent place with ninon and mousseline de soie. Parasols are an absolute necessity this year. The small, and often transparent, hats afford no shade either to the face or decollete corsage, and consequently parasols are more elaborate than ever, and are not only mounted on expensive sticks, but the materials are rich and the designs often unique. They are more often chosen to match the sash than the dress. As regards shapes, these are most cosmopolitan, as there are Pagodas, domes, mushrooms, and the flat Japanese ones; and occasionally could be seen the uncommon oval shape, which somewhat resembles a large dish cover. A new ornament is a gold ring to finish the ton. This also serves to carry it by. Amid all the contrasting styles in the cut of the gowns there is one striking characteristic note, and this is the ethereal appearance of the upper part of the corsage. Among visitors from England the decollete bodice is much in evidence, and one gown seen on a former Sydney woman, who has recently returned to Australia, was cut with a deep open V from the shoulders to the waistline, the lower part only being filled in with ninon, so that the upper part of the corsage appeared as decollete as a ball gown. Another fanciful vagary is one which appears most incongruous for summer wear in Australia, for it shows a blending of fur with the lingerie dress. On the lawn was noticed a draped dress of eyelet embroidery, trimmed with dark brown Russian sable and one of white ninon de soie showed bands of tailless ermine; whilst quite a number of crepe de chines and crepe ninons were embellished with skunk and marabout. The veiled sash is one of the latest features. This fancy is particularly noticeable on black frocks of diaphanous texture over charmeuse. The vogue for belts and sashes is no doubt due to the fact that the waist-line of to-day is placed in almost its normal position. The present style is to have a loose belt, and the newest innovations are of knitted and finely woven silk with long fringed ends or else of satin embroidered with heraldic designs.

The hats seen on Cup Day were of all shapes, and mostly of the small, close-fitting or basin type, some being brimless, whilst many had a narrow brim of lace or tulle. The smaller the hat the smarter it seems to become. It is amusing to notice how ubiquitous the black tulle hat has become, for everyone knows that tulle only has to get in one shower of rain to spoil its crisp effect. However, tulle is now the fashionable craze, and so hats must be worn composed of it entirely, many being quite transparent. At the back appear butterflies of the same perishable gauze, their wired wings studded with jet or velvet, and so poised as to appear to have just alighted on the hat.

ON THE LAWN.

Throughout the day furs and warm coats were worn by the less venturesome women, and they certainly were enabled to enjoy the races without the discomfort of being chilled by the weather's disconcerting changes; for just previous to the first race a shower of rain fell, and the former bright scene was changed, as late arrivals all were enveloped in burberrys and mackintoshes. As the afternoon passed the atmosphere became colder, and had a deterrent effect on promenading on the terrace and lawns. The crowds were quite content to remain crushed together on the stands. After the luncheon interval the rain held off until just prior to the great race, and enabled summer gowns to be seen for an hour or so. Then a shower heavier than its predecessors fell, accompanied by hail, and the stands became more congested than ever. There was a great deal of violent pushing on the stairways, as men rushed up, eager to see the start and finish o the Cup.

The Vice-Regal enclosure again held a large company, and special luncheons were given in both the Governor-General's and the State Governor's dining-rooms, where the respective tables were most artistically ornamented with silver and crystal epergnes and vases filled in the one room with lily of the valley and glorious gentian and in the other with La France roses. The event of the forenoon was the arrival of their Excellencies Lord and Lady Denman, with an escort of the Royal Australian Field Artillery, under the command of Captain H. Lloyd. The outriders and postillions were in their bright livery of maroon and silver. In the Vice-Regal enclosure were also Sir Day Bosanquet (Governor of South Australia), Sir W. THE RACING.

SYDNEY HORSES SUCCESSFUL.

With seven events on the card, visitors to Flemington had all that could be expected for the money, and a trifle more, and ere the programme was run through they were pretty well tired of it. It was a varied bill of fare, which, in addition to the Melbourne Cup, included a couple of races for two-year-olds, a couple of races over obstacles, and two handicaps on the flat for horses of all ages. Taken all round, the fields were of fair proportions, the sport was up to the customary standard, and some close finishes were witnessed. Though light rain fell at different times during the afternoon, the moisture was not sufficient to affect the track, which was excellent going, but no fast times were registered. The only mishaps were in the races over obstacles, Common King falling in the Cup Hurdle Race, and Statistician in the Cup Steeplechase, but neither riders nor horses were much the worse for their misadventures. The racing was clean, and the stipendiary stewards had very little to engage their attention. Again the superiority of horses hailing from New South Wales was evidenced in the contest for the Cup, the three prizes being captured by visitors from across the Murray, and the trio were bred in studs located in the parent State. Besides the Melbourne Cup, both races for two-year-olds were secured by Sydney youngsters. Consequently the lion's share of the day's spoils enriched New South Wales sportsmen. Speculation was very brisk, and though three absolute favourites and two well-backed second favourites got home, the victory of North Woodleigh in the Railway High Weight Handicap, and Posinatus in the Cup, left a good margin of profit for the ring men.

The sport opened with the Encourage Stakes, for which sixteen of the thirty-five coloured in the book were stripped, and there was most money for Bay Malt, a son of Maltster and Lilymea, hailing from J. Scobie's stable; while Mount Mostyn was the only other backed with any degree of confidence. The favourite was one of the first to get going, but in the first furlong Don Solvo took charge and with Mount Mostyn, Hayston, and Bay Malt as his nearest attendants, showed the way on to the course. Mount Mostyn put in his claim ere the distance was reached and scored by a narrow margin, after an interesting encounter with Hayston, a half-brother to Kuringal, who beat the favourite by half a length. The winner, who hails from Kelso's stable, is a Mungie Bundie-bred son of Mountain King and Alice Mostyn, by Neckersgat imp.) from Miss Mostyn (imp.), by Uncas, and cost his owner 96 guineas as a yearling.

In a field of seventeen for the Railway Highweight Handicap Kwasind was entrusted with most money; while Field General, Carnell, Noogilla, and MacDuff also met with stanch support. The favourite was, however, just beaten out of a place, and after St. Bees and Field General had each had a turn in front, North Woodleigh came through at the distance and scored rather easily from the imported colt Poetical, by Melton, who came with a fast run from the distance. The winner was bred at Wambo Stud, Ardin, by imported Rice from Nitouche, by Eridspord, and formerly raced under the colours of the Sydney sportsmen whose nom de course is W. T. Nowlan, but is now the property of the Flemington trainer, J. Fielder. It was a good performance to carry 11st 7lb, and North Woodleigh has improved greatly since he left Sydney.

Only six were saddled up for the Cup Hurdle Race, for which the top-weight, Bullawarra, was sent out a very warm favourite, Hypo and The Majestic Nut being the next fancied. King's Ransom was responsible for the early running, but gave way to the New Zealander Marton as they opened up the river stretch, where Common King came to grief. Marton opened up a gap of five or six lengths along the back, where Bullawarra moved up next to the leader, who came back to his field after passing the sheds, and melted out of it at the turn, leaving King's Ransom and Bullawarra in front, and almost on terms. Bullawarra took charge at the final obstacle, and won by a neck after an exciting battle with King's Ransom.

Golden Goblet was the only racecourse withdrawal for the Melbourne Cup, and his defection left 20 contestants, the smallest field since Apologue defeated his 18 opponents in 1907. The field was an average one as regards quality, and included a Metropolitan winner, two Caulfield Cup winners, and a dual Derby winner, as well as several other good performers. Four imported horses were included in the field, one of whom ruled favourite in the betting for some time past until deposed by the Derby winner Beragoon. It was a well-conditioned field, and the candidates were subjected to keen inspection before leaving the bird cage for the track. Among those who held large levees were Beragoon, Sea Prince, Cagou, Uncle Sam, Radnor, Harpist, and Ulva's Isle, and their condition bore ample evidence of the thorough manner in which their preparation had been carried out. Wagering was very brisk, but the section where the pencillers congregate was very congested, and there was little chance of moving about in search of better prices than those offering in the immediate vicinity. In various parts of the ring the odds fluctuated, but the overnight favourite Beragoon held his place in the market right up to the rise of the barrier, while Sea Prince, who had been stanchly backed by his party, also carried a lot of public money, and was only a point behind Beragoon, the Derby winner. Cagou, Uncle Sam, Ulva's Isle, and Harpist also found solid support, and at more expansive prices Posinatus and Wassail had a number of admirers. Slight showers had fallen intermittently from the time racing commenced, but just as the Cup candidates began to leave the paddock a heavier downpour set in, accompanied by hailstones, and the prospect of having the Cup race under such discouraging conditions seemed imminent. However, before the horses had assembled at the barrier the wintry and wet conditions ceased, and the contest took place under a clear sky. The equine procession on to the track was led by Embracer, while Beragoon was the last out. When they assembled at the barrier Crosska had the inner berth next the rails, and in extended order were Posinatus, Limelight, and Cagou. Gladwyn, Mountain Princess, and Beragoon were prominent in the centre; while Harpist, Golden Shore, and Effervescence were on the outer wing. Very little time was cut to waste ere Mr. Inglis despatched the field on its important mission, and on very good terms. When they had settled down into their strides Mountain Princess, Crosska, and Embracer were showing slightly in front, but at the end of the first furlong Posinatus was in command, and he carried his field down the running and past the judge's box, his nearest attendants being Sea Prince, Belove, Gladwyn, Embracer, Ulva's Isle, Cagou, and Beragoon. The pace was a middling one, and nothing seemed inclined to go out and make it more solid. The order was practically the same as they turned out of the straight and raced along the river side, where the son of Positano had a couple of lengths advantage, but when they reached the mile post the pace began to improve, and it became more solid as they entered on the last half-mile, where Posinatus was still in command from Belove, Sea Prince, Embracer, Beragoon, and Ulva's Isle. As Sea Prince followed Posinatus into the home stretch his army of supporters loudly anticipated his success, but their ardour was damped when Belove and Ulva's Isle ran past him inside the half-distance, and filled the situations behind Posinatus, who practically won from end to end. None of the much-fancied horses got a situation, save Ulva's Isle, and there was very little change in the position of the leading division all the way. Since Newhaven won in 1896, no other horse has set his own pace from the jump to the judge's box until yesterday, and the time recorded for the race shows that it was not truly run. The first half-mile occupied 54½s, the second 55½s, the third 50⅔s, and the final four furlongs 50½s; the last six furlongs 1m 16½s, and the last mile in 1m 41½s.

Neither Uncle Sam nor Cagou was ever dangerous, and though Beragoon and Sea Prince were within striking distance of the leader for the greater part of the journey, they could make no impression on him at the business end of the trip, and they had to be content with positions behind the placed horses, with Radnor next; while Harpist never had a look in. Posinatus is a Widden-bred gelding, by Fortunatus (imp.) from Whakatika, by Positano (imp.) from Valence, by Autonomy, and was bred at Widden Stud by Messrs. Thompson Bros. He was purchased as a yearling by Mr. R. W. Clancy, of Sydney, for 160 guineas, and was leased to the Morpeth trainer, J. Chambers, for a term, which expires in a few months. Posinatus has been mostly raced in the metropolitan and Newcastle districts. He ran unplaced in a few races as a two-year-old, and he has no record for the following season; but when three years old he opened his winning account at the A.J.C. December meeting in the Highweight Handicap, after which he won the Final Handicap at Wallsend, the Rosehill Handicap at the May meeting, and the Birthday Handicap at Newcastle, under the steadying weight of 9st 5lb. *During the current season he ran second in the Wallsend Town Plate, 1¼m, with 9st 12lb in the saddle, and won the Maitland Handicap, 1¼m, under a similar burden; while at Randwick last month he ran second to Duke Foote in the Craven Plate (w.f.a.), 1¼m, and won City Tattersall's Handicap, 1¼m, with 8st 12lb in the saddle. Belove, who filled second place, was bred at the Wilton Park stud by the late Mr. S. Hordern, and is by Haut Brion (imp.) from Adoration, by Nordenfeldt from Idolatry (imp.), by Isonomy. She is the property of Mr. B. Allen, a member of the ring, and is trained by T. Neiriker at Randwick. She did not gain the winning list until she was three years old, her first success being in the Trial Handicap at Bendigo, after which she secured a Welter Purse at Moonee Valley, the Aspendale Park Handicap, and Hobart Cup. Ulva's Isle, who filled third place, is by Positano (imp.) from Lord Ullin's Daughter (who won the Australian Cup, 1905, for Mr. F. Foy), by Lochiel from Farthingale (imp.) by Minting. Ulva's Isle has not yet gained the winning list; but he has proved himself a stayer, and may yet achieve high distinction on the turf.

The Cup Steeplechase brought out half a score of cross-country performers, the most fancied of whom was Dunloe, while the best backed of the others were The Miser and the New Zealander Glenmore. Statistician was out in front at an early stage, but he came a cropper over the stone wall in front of the stand, leaving Myall Jack in the lead, which he maintained along the river side and the back to the sheds, where Glenmore joined issue, and the pair raced locked together until fairly in line for home. Then Dunloe came with a well-timed run on the inside, and, passing his opponents in good style, justified his position in the market, but only by a margin from Myall Jack, with the New Zealander in the other situation. The fencing throughout was exceptionally good. His Excellency the Governor-General was represented in the field by Topmast, who, however, was conspicuous in the rear for the greater part of the trip.

Half a score of youngsters faced the music in the November Nursery, the Positano colt Maharajah being the popular selection, and he was closely run in the market quotations by Carlita; while Marissa was the only other supported with any degree of confidence. After Crucis and Sanctity had each had a turn in front Carlita assumed command and swept into the straight just in front of Maharajah, Linass, and Sanctity. The favourite ran into second place at the distance, but could make no impression on the filly, who scored easily. The winner is a New Zealand bred filly by Charlemagne II (imp.) from Couranne, by Gipsy Grand, and she cost her owners 125 gns. at the Randwick yearling sales. Carlita had already demonstrated her ability to gallop by running second to Woorah in the A.J.C. Gimcrack Stakes and escorting Traquette home in the Maribyrnong Plate.

The Yan Yean Stakes attracted 15 runners, and the South Australian representative, Tadanga, who just got beaten in the Coburg Stakes on Saturday, was sent out a pronounced favourite, while Mousme, Avance, and Two Ales were the best backed of the others. The early running was made by Peck o' Maut, who gave place to Kurrakai at the abattoirs, and the son of Bobadil carried his field along to the turn, where Captain White and Tadanga joined the leading division. From the distance the issue lay between the favourite and King Mostyn, the former of whom scored at the end of an exciting battle fought out clear from their followers. Tadanga is a South Australian-bred mare, by imported Pistol (son of Carbine) from Cardinal and Black, by Meta (imp.), and is owned by that good sportsman Mr. R. M. Hawker.

Bay Malt, N.G.E., and Gay Duke moved off in front of Trusty Servant, while Affinitis was well up on the outside. Nearing the half-mile post, Don Solvo came through and ran past that point, closely followed by Mount Mostyn, Orilla, and Trusty Servant, and Don Solvo came on to the course proper, with Mount Mostyn and Hayston in attendance, and succeeded by Bay Malt, Trusty Servant, Gay Duke, N.G.E., and Clanyard. A little further on Mount Mostyn took charge from Hayston and Bay Malt, and, coming on, won by half a neck from Hayston, who had Bay Malt at his girths. Trusty Servant was close up fourth, followed by Don Solvo, Prudent Action, N.G.E., and Gay Duke, with Mild Steel bringing up the rear. Time, 1m 4s.

Betting: 6 to 1 v Kwasind, 7 to 1 each v Field General and Carnell, 8 to 1 each v Noogilla and Macduff, 12 to 1 each v North Woodleigh, Lord Walla, Broadsword.

Maltravers, St. Bees, Larelle, and Field General broke the line, followed by Broadsword and Mala, but at the end of the first furlong, Field General was in command from St. Bees, North Woodleigh, Lord Walla, Larelle, and Maltravers. Ere they reached the course proper, St. Bees ran to the front, from Macduff, Field General, North Woodleigh, Carnell, Maltravers, and Abbcite, and so they ran to the distance, where North Woodleigh took charge, from Field General, St. Bees, and Larelle, with Poetical coming fast. North Woodleigh held his own in the run home, and won by a length from Poetical, who was three lengths in advance of Mala. Kwasind was fourth, Field General fifth, and they were succeeded by Larelle, Abbcite, Pearl King, Noogilla, Lord Walla, and Maltravers, with Broadsword and Macduff bringing up the rear. Time, 1m 17⅓s.

Betting: 6 to 4 v Bullawarra, 4 to 1 v Hypo, 9 to 2 v The Majestic Nut, 6 to 1 v Common King, 7 to 1 v Marton, 10 to 1 v King's Ransom.

Hypo and The Majestic Nut made play, but King's Ransom flew the first hurdle, closely followed by Hypo, Common King, and The Majestic Nut, with the favourite last. Save that Hypo dropped back last, there was no change as they crossed the second obstacle, and King's Ransom showed the way past the judge's box, attended by Marton, Common King, The Majestic Nut, Hypo, and Bullawarra. Marton went to the front as they swept out of the straight, his nearest attendant being King's Ransom, Common King, The Majestic Nut, and Hypo, with Bullawarra last. Common King came to grief over the obstacle at the river side, and Marton passed the bridge five lengths from King's Ransom, after whom came Bullawarra, The Majestic Nut, and Hypo. Without change they raced past the abattoirs, but Marton began to come back to his field at the sheds. King's Ransom and Bullawarra ran past Marton as they rounded the turn, where the leading pair were just in advance of The Majestic Nut and Marton, with Hypo last. King's Ransom and Bullawarra turned into the home stretch with The Majestic Nut, Marton, and Hypo at their heels. Bullawarra flew the final obstacle just in front of King's Ransom, whom he beat in the run home by a neck. The Majestic Nut was four lengths away third, followed by Marton and Hypo. Time, 3m 28¼s.

Gladwyn, 6st 7lb (B. Cain) 0
Effervescence, 6st 7lb (Jos. Higgins) 0

Betting: 3 to 1 v Beragoon, 4 to 1 v Sea Prince, 9 to 2 v Cagou, 8 to 1 v Uncle Sam, 12 to 1 each v Harpist and Ulva's Isle, 15 to 1 v Posinatus, 16 to 1 v Wassail, 25 to 1 each v Effervescence and Limelight, 33 to 1 each v Belove and Radnor, 40 to 1 v Embracer, 50 to 1 v Gladwyn, 100 to 1 each v Aurifer, Mountain Princess, Sanskrit, Crosska, and Sir Vive, 500 to 1 v Golden Shore.

The preliminaries were done in the rain, but by the time the horses lined up at the barrier, the rain had cleared away. When the barrier was lowered Crosska took up a position on the rails, and Gladwyn near light. Cagou, Sanskrit, Belove, and Gladwyn near him; in the centre of the field Beragoon and Mountain Princess were conspicuous; and on the outside the berths were taken by Harpist, Golden Shore, and Effervescence. They were a very orderl lot, and after a very brief delay Mr. Inglis gave the signal, and the field moved away in a perfect line. Mountain Princess, Posinatus, Crosska, Aurifer, and Embracer were soon into their stride, and by the time a furlong had been traversed Posinatus had taken up the running, and he came along the straight with Aurifer, Gladwyn, Ulva's Isle, Sea Prince, and Embracer at his heels. Coming to the course proper, Posinatus was bowling along in front of Embracer, Belove, Sea Prince, Cagou, and Ulva's Isle, and as the field swept past the two furlongs post Posinatus was showing in advance of Belove, and then in close order came Sea Prince, Embracer, Sir Vive, Gladwyn, Cagou, Ulva's Isle, Harpist, Mountain Princess, and Radnor, the last three being Limelight, Wassail, and Effervescence. Passing the judge's box, Posinatus was still making the pace from Sea Prince, and then came Gladwyn, Embracer, Ulva's Isle, Cagou, Beragoon, Sir Vive, Aurifer, and Harpist in that order, and the last pair were Limelight and Sanskrit. Posinatus turned out of the straight clear of Sea Prince, Belove, Gladwyn, Embracer, Ulva's Isle, Cagou, Aurifer, Sir Vive, Beragoon, Wassail, Mountain Princess, and Uncle Sam. Racing along the riverside Posinatus was out two lengths from Sea Prince, Belove, Gladwyn, Embracer, Ulva's Isle, Cagou, Aurifer, Sir Vive, and Beragoon. As they ran past the bridge the order of the leaders was much the same, Posinatus still having charge from Sea Prince, Gladwyn, Belove, Beragoon, Embracer, Ulva's Isle, Cagou, Aurifer, and Harpist, with Limelight still last. Posinatus ran past the seven furlongs post with a lead of two lengths from Sea Prince, and then followed Belove, Beragoon, Embracer, Cagou, and Ulva's Isle. At the abattoirs Sea Prince was within a length of Posinatus, and they were being closely followed by Belove, Beragoon, Gladwyn, Ulva's Isle, Embracer, Mountain Princess, and Cagou. There were no signs of Posinatus being headed as they ran past the sheds, as he was still going comfortably in advance of Sea Prince, Beragoon, Belove, Radnor, and Sir Vive. Rounding the turn, Posinatus still held command from Sea Prince, the most forward of the others being Belove, Embracer, Beragoon, and Ulva's Isle. Posinatus came into the straight still going strongly, with Sea Prince, Belove, Sir Vive, Ulva's Isle, Beragoon, Embracer, Gladwyn, and Aurifer in hot pursuit; whilst Limelight was making a very fast forward move. On all sides the victory of Sea Prince was being proclaimed, but Posinatus showed no signs of weakening, and coming to the two furlongs post he was out a length and a half from Sea Prince, with Belove, Ulva's Isle, Sir Vive, Beragoon, and Radnor all in handy positions. Before they reached the distance Sea Prince was hanging out signals of distress, and Belove soon ran into second place in pursuit of Posinatus, and Ulva's Isle was also drawing nearer the leader. Posinatus, however, held them at bay to the end, and stalling off Belove he beat her home by threequarters of a length. Ulva's Isle kept going to the end, and just beat Sea Prince for third place. Beragoon was fifth, Radnor sixth, Limelight seventh, Wassail eighth, Gladwyn ninth, Mountain Princess tenth, Sanskrit eleventh, Uncle Sam twelfth, and the last two were Embracer and Golden Shore. Time, 3m 31s.

CUP STEEPLECHASE.—A handicap sweepstakes of 3 sovs each, with 500 added. Second horse to receive 100 and the third 50 sovs out of the stake; about 2m.

Mr. L. Hawthorne's Dunloe, by Security—Kate Kearney, 11st (A. Hawkins) 1
Mr. C. Leonard's Myall Jack, 9st 6lb (T. Woods).. 2
Mr. H. P. Cameron's Glenmore, 12st 2lb (W. Adams) 3

Other starters: Guncap, 11st 8lb (Mr. N. Highett); The Miser, 10st 6lb (M'Gregor); Pinpress, 10st 4lb (Edwards); Reldas, 9st 4lb (L. Hegarty); Fosterton, 9st 4lb (G. Yorke); Topmast, 9st 4lb (O'Connell); Statistician, 9st 4lb (Leahy).

Betting: 3 to 1 v Dunloe, 4 to 1 v The Miser, 9 to 2 v Glenmore, 8 to 1 v Guncap, 10 to 1 v Myall Jack, 15 to 1 each v others.

Reldas, Statistician, and Myall Jack made play, and Statistician crossed the first fence, closely followed by Reldas and Myall Jack, after whom came Guncap, The Miser, and Dunloe, with Topmast last. Myall Jack led over the first of the treble from Reldas, Statistician, Dunloe, Fosterton, and Glenmore; while the second of the set brought down Statistician. Myall Jack showed the way round the turn and along the river side, a couple of lengths from Reldas, who was three lengths in front of Glenmore, Pinpress, Fosterton, Dunloe, and The Miser, with Topmast still in the rear. That order was preserved past the bridge, along the back, and past the abattoirs, but as they neared the sheds Glenmore ranged up alongside Myall Jack, the pair being six lengths clear from Reldas, Pinpress, Fosterton, The Miser, and Guncap. Passing the half-mile post, Pinpress, Reldas, and Dunloe were four lengths behind the leading pair, and with a very slight lead from Myall Jack Glenmore flew the last fence, and the pair turned into the course proper with Dunloe, Pinpress, and Reldas in pursuit. At the distance, Myall Jack headed Glenmore, while Dunloe was coming fast on the rails, and taking charge at the half-distance won by half a length from Myall Jack, who was a length and a half in advance of Glenmore. The Miser had closed up fourth, followed at all kinds of intervals by Reldas, Pinpress, Fosterton, Topmast, and Guncap. Time, 4m 10⅓s.

NOVEMBER NURSERY.—A handicap sweepstakes of 6 sovs, each, with 500 sovs. added; second horse to receive 100 and the third 50 sovs. out of the stake. For two years old.—5½f.

Messrs. P. Rogers and J. Rivers Carlita, by Charlemagne II.—Couronne, 8st 13lb (C. Emerson) 1
Mr. J. M'Neall's Maharajah, 8st 5lb (J. Killorn) 2
Mr. S. A. Rawdon's Sanctity, 6st 11lb (B. Cain) 3

Betting: 2 to 1 v Maharajah, 5 to 2 v Carlita, 5 to 1 v Marissa, 10 to 1 v Prince Bardolph, 12 to 1 each v Sanctity and Linass, 15 to 1 each v Lucia and Crucis.

Carlita and Linass moved off in front of Maharajah and Marissa, but rounding the turn Sanctity, Crucis, and Carlita were disputing the lead just clear from Linass, Maharajah, Lady Cantala, and Marissa. Carlita took charge as they turned into the straight, with Linass and Sanctity at her heels, and succeeded by Maharajah, Crucis, and Lady Cantala. Carlita was well clear from Sanctity, Maharajah, and Linass two furlongs from home, and coming on, Carlita won easily by two lengths from Maharajah, who was four lengths in front of Sanctity. Prince Bardolph was six lengths off fourth, and was followed by Lady Cantala, Marissa, King Lybia, Linas, and Crucis in order, with Attilus at the tail of the hunt. Time, 1m 9⅓s.

YAN YEAN STAKES, a handicap sweepstakes of 6 sovs each, with 500 added; second horse to receive 100 and the third 50 sovs out of the stake. 1m.

Mr. R. M. Hawker's Tadanga, by Pistol—Cardinal and Black, 4yrs, 8st 7lb (W. H. M'Lachlan) .. 1
Mr. T. Nowlan's King Mostyn, by Mountain King—Alice Mostyn, 4yrs, 6st 11lb (W. Callinan) 2
Mr. J. G. Robertson's Avonwort, by Maltster—Marie Corelli, 4yrs, 7st 5lb, inc. 3lb over (C. Emerson) 3

Other starters: Captain White, 8st 8lb (Manning); Two Ales, 8st 3lb (Baird); Lock Amos, 8st 1lb (W. H. Smith); Peck o' Maut, 7st 11lb (Turner); Avance, 7st 11lb (Townsend); Bective, 7st 5lb (Bissett); Mousme, 7st 5lb (Bracken); Nyan, 7st 7lb, inc. 3lb over (Killorn); Rameses, 6st 13lb (Leonard); Singlestick, 6st 13lb (M'Leod); Necktie, 6st 11lb (Reynolds); Kurrakai, 6st 7lb (Jos. Higgins).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Tadanga, 5 to 1 v Mousme, 7 to 1 v Avance, 8 to 1 v Two Ales, 10 to 1 each v King Mostyn and Captain White, 12 to 1 v Bective, 15 to 1 each v Loch Amos and Singlestick.

Peck o' Maut jumped off in front from Necktie, Loch Amos, and Kurrakai, and so they ran until nearing the abattoirs, where Kurrakai took charge, and passed that point a couple of lengths from Peck o' Maut, who was succeeded by Avonwort, Necktie, Tadanga, Bective, and King Mostyn. Kurrakai rattled past the sheds with Peck o' Maut, Tadanga, King Mostyn, Captain White, Mousme, and Avonwort following. Captain White, Peck o' Maut, and Tadanga passed Kurrakai as they rounded the turn, and Captain White, Tadanga, Avonwort, and King Mostyn came into the straight, succeeded by Peck o' Maut, Kurrakai, and Mousme. Tadanga, King Mostyn, and Captain White were in line at the distance, whence Tadanga and King Mostyn fought out an exciting battle, the former winning by a head. Avonwort was four lengths off third, followed by Captain White, Mousme, Avanche, Rameses, Necktie, Two Ales, Nyan, and Loch Amos, with Singlestick and Peck o' Maut in the rear. Time, 1m 41s.

HOW THE FAVOURITE WAS BEATEN.

"It is the fortune of war and of horse racing," said W. H. McLachlan, the rider of the favourite, Beragoon, when seen just after the Cup was run. "Before the race began I thought I had a good chance, but soon after we got going a bit I knew the pace was too slow to suit Beragoon. There was a bit of bumping all round the course, but nothing to speak of. No; I don't feel a bit downhearted about my defeat, but if the race hadn't been run so slow I think Beragoon would have given a better account of himself."

"THE BEST HORSE WON."

It seldom happens that the owner of the Melbourne Cup winner is not present to see his colours carried to victory. The exception to this rule occurred to-day, the owner of Posinatus, Mr. J. Chambers, being at his home at Morpeth. The exception is even more remarkable as Mr. Chambers is also the trainer of his horse. Posinatus was to-day in charge of Mr. J. F. Cobcroft who, while a cinematograph operator was busy recording the somewhat restive movements of the victor, and several photographers were patiently waiting the animal's pleasure in assuming an easy pose before a large crowd of admirers, said his charge's achievement had not come as any surprise to him. "I have been actively associated with his training during the last 18 months, and, needless to say, I believe that the best horse won."

WINNING JOCKEY'S STORY.

The jockey who rode Posinatus to victory was Albert Shanahan. He rode last year's winner, Piastre. Shanahan would seem, therefore, to have the recipe for winning Melbourne Cups. As he stripped off his jacket a crowd of envious jockeys surged around him, shook his hand, his coat, and his shirt in frantic congratulation. The language of these congratulations, while not refined, was at least hearty.

J. Townsend who rode Belove, was amongst the first to shake hands. "Did you run second?" said Shanahan. "Good boy."

Another jockey discussed the technique of Shanahan's riding. "You didn't pull him about?"

Shanahan: "I'd have settled him. It took me all my time to hold him. He nearly pulled my arms out, he did."

To the interviewer he said: "I was ahead the whole time. I got away well; in fact, I was one of the first to move."

Shanahan consequently did not know what horse had challenged him in his final run to the post. All he knew was that the horse came to the front early, and stayed late.

"Posinatus is a good galloper, and a stayer," said Shanahan, "but this is the first time that he has won a two-mile race, though once he ran fourth. But he has won a lot of races about Newcastle."

"Did he get tired?" he was asked.

"He was getting pretty tired towards the end," said Shanahan. "When he starts to roll he does roll, and changes his legs."

By this time Shanahan had changed his clothes and went away surrounded by a circle of admiring friends.

RADNOR SOLD.

Before the race for the Melbourne Cup Radnor was purchased from the Sydney trainer, I. Earnshaw, by S. P. Mackay. The price paid has not transpired, but it was a high one. Radnor is engaged in the Western Australian Derby, to be run on Boxing Day, and it is understood that Mr. Mackay intends to send him over to compete in the race.

A BIG WIN.

£40,000 DOUBLE.

It does not fall to the lot of many persons to win £40,000 on a double at odds of 1000 to 1½. Such, however, has been the experience of Albert Coppell, a well-known city business man, who resides at South Yarra. Some little time ago Coppell took the odds mentioned for a wager on Aurifer and Posinatus for the double on the Caulfield and Melbourne cups. Even when Aurifer won, his chances of pulling off the double did not seem particularly bright, but to-day Posinatus won, to the great satisfaction of Coppell. The wager was taken with several of the leading bookmakers in Melbourne and Sydney. One of the most remarkable features of this bet was the fact that this was Coppell's first wager on a double. He has often had small bets before, but, as he expressed it to-night, the bets were taken more for the sport of the thing than from any idea of winning money. "It was the odds that induced me to take the wager," he said, "and I was as surprised as any one when I won it. The total amount of my winnings will be between £30,000 and £40,000, but nearer the latter figures."

TRADES AND LABOUR.

MARITIME WORK.

COAL LUMPERS AND WHARF LABOURERS.

EXPIRING AGREEMENTS.

The agreement between the Sydney Wharf Labourers' Union and the Australasian Steamship Owners' Federation (New South Wales branch) will expire on Monday next. The agreement between the Steam Collier Owners' Association and the Sydney Coal-lumpers' Union will expire on 27th inst.

The wharfmen have not yet done anything, nor is anything just at the moment proposed, but the coal-lumpers are about to consider their position, a stop-work meeting being called for this morning. At present the lumpers are paid 1s 7½d per hour day work, and 2s 3d night work. The larger payment does not, however, begin until the completion of ten hours' work. The union is now anxious (as already explained in the "Herald") that the day work should be confined to eight hours. It is understood that this will be one of the propositions to be submitted to the conference which the owners are to be asked to grant.

The wharf-labourers are not in a position akin to that of three years ago. They are now linked up with the Waterside Workers' Federation, which has only recently concluded its annual conference in Sydney. The new agreement for the Sydney wharfs will—if the federation has its way—be in conformity with the rates and conditions to apply generally (except for climatic allowances in Northern Queensland) throughout the water front of the Commonwealth.

One significant resolution of the federation which will be given effect to in the new agreement is that members will refuse to work side by side with seamen at wharf-labouring work, or with any labour other than recognised union labour—providing, of course, that this union labour should be available. All agreements in future are to be made terminable by 30 days' notice on either side, and before being signed they will have to be submitted to the various State branches for approval.

The conference with the steamship owners will take place some time this month, quite a catalogue of suggestions being in readiness for submission to the employers.

THE ADULT DEAF.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The strained state of affairs now existing between the directors of the New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the newly-formed society for the Adult Deaf of New South Wales, interests me deeply, and I trust that you will grant me space to lay before the public and the said directors a point of view which ought to have some value as coming from one of the deaf of Australia, who has been granted some powers of expression, and is trying to help those in the same boat less fortunately endowed. The case for the adult deaf of New South Wales is that they have not altogether escaped the knowledge that is in all of us; an intuitive sense of better and higher things ahead, and their mass of small, tangible, and obvious grievances are but the crudely expressed outcome of that intuitive knowledge.

The adult deaf are not unreasonable nor unreasoning, on the whole, and when one reads of the fine building, rent free, etc., with other advantages, as set forth by Messrs. Goodlet and Rigg, one naturally asks, What have the board of directors done to the adult deaf that they can so lightly throw away so many solid advantages? There are, of course, weighty reasons, and some of them have already been set forth in your columns; to them, if space allowed, I could add a list of petty tyrannies, not much taken singly, but galling in the mass; one of them that appeals to me, and should appeal to you, is that the little "Deaf Journal," supposed to be the organ of the adult deaf, was always more or less severely "press censored" by the superintendent on behalf of the board. I heard of the letter of 1909 at the time requesting the appointment of a full-time missionary. I also know that the late Mr. S. Watson was in favour of some such arrangement, but was powerless to go against the decision of the board.

The provision made for the adult deaf in 1874 and 1902 is painfully inadequate to-day, yet Mr. Earlam says it is capable of doing all that is necessary. All I know is that it has been singularly inoperative since the death of Mr. S. Watson removed the only capable "leader" the adult deaf of New South Wales possessed; that gentleman, to my certain knowledge, gave effect to and enlarged the scope of whatever organisation the directors planned for the adult deaf, and since his death the trouble has rapidly come to a head.

I myself, when visiting Sydney, have often been struck by the neglected state of the adult deaf since Mr. Watson's death, and also by the condition of their hall. I do not want to blame anyone, but I never before saw deaf mutes in more dismal surroundings, a dirty hall, ill-lighted at night, and very crowded with unbelonging things and school litter.

The deaf, as I know them, depend greatly on external things, and more than others, require cheerful and bright surroundings and plenty of light. I could not see that any effort was being made to make the Sunday services attractive, and the week-night meetings anything but a bore to the deaf; and the light was so bad that I could not see what was being done on the platform. On some Sunday nights (there has been no morning service for years) I am told the attendance numbered sometimes only five, out of 150 adult deaf.

The case for the authorities is that they are most anxious to do justice to the adult deaf, but are handicapped in their efforts by an inability, not unnatural, to understand the real needs of those they wish to help. The school superintendent, with all due respect, is unable to gauge those needs correctly. His time is, or ought to be, fully given to the needs of the rising generation under his care—and the adults themselves are unable to express what they think those needs are in language that the directors would understand. Hence an appearance of ingratitude on the part of the adult deaf that does not really exist.

Why did the adult deaf refuse to listen to any proposal re going back to the institute? They knew that to give in and go back, under existing conditions, was to be bound again hand and foot to the school board, to be given a few extra crusts of concessions to pacify them and keep them quiet in the old leading strings. But the day of such things is past, and the sooner the school board recognises the fact that the adult deaf mute of to-day is grown up in mind as well as in body, the better for all concerned. That is the point of the whole matter, the adult deaf mute is grown-up in mind, and the only way in which a capable and intelligent body of citizens such as constitutes the board of directors can help him is to face that point squarely as a fact, and make over to the new society as a free gift from parent to child, the institute, vested in trustees or incorporated, and let them, with the help of their new committee, manage their own affairs, collect their own expenses from the public of New South Wales, and advance, unimpeded in line with the adult deaf of Queensland, Victoria, and South Australia.

The question will the new society's collecting in any way interfere with the revenue of Alma Mater? need not be raised. It's a ghost, any way. It was raised in Queensland; but eleven years' experience has proved that the school gets every shilling it needs, and the society has collected enough in that time to do much good, pay its way, and buy a bit of land for its building. If the scattered and scanty population of Queensland can support two institutions, surely the public of New South Wales will not be less generous.

PARENTS AND SCHOOLS AND THE LEAVING CERTIFICATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Though often accused of not showing much interest in the education of their children, fathers and mothers will soon, I fear, be taking more than enough interest in schoolwork when they begin to blame the schools for accepting the new regulations about arithmetic. They will want a lot of explanation from schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, and from the Examiners' Board, to make them accept the new regulation for the Intermediate, which joins arithmetic with algebra and geometry and a small amount of trigonometry as equal to two subjects only. Parents will expect that the arithmetic of everyday life should continue to be taught as a separate subject, though perhaps accidentally helped by algebraic methods. And I know that teachers will continue to so teach the subject, apart altogether from the theoretic identity between the general science of numbers and the particular application of that science to pounds, shillings, and pence. The Examiners' Board dissemble any recognition of this fact by counting arithmetic as if it were to be taught as a part of algebra. This regulation will need amending if we wish to retain the parents' confidence in our new system. A small amount of useful elementary algebra or trigonometry might be included with arithmetic as part of the "subject."

Allow me to draw your attention to the danger of cram in two points of the new regulations. It is hardly credible that a boy or girl taking a good senior course in languages and mathematics for the Leaving Certificate, with nine or 10, or even 11 papers, including honours in English and the languages, must be disqualified for the Leaving Certificate although winning perhaps a brilliant matriculation success. Yet this is the astonishing fact. The headmasters, in their straightforward fashion, have suggested one way out of this difficulty, namely, by allowing ancient history to count as a pass subject. To make this point brutally plain, several other representations were made to members of the two boards, explaining the nature of this anomaly, but no relief has been granted as yet. Some of us are glad to learn that several, if not all of the University professors and lecturers in classics and literature, are in favour of giving this relief. And they are naturally so, as they are responsible for the excellent senior matriculation rules approved by the Senate. My second point is with respect to the seven-subjects regulation for the Intermediate. This means that the Intermediate pupil of about 15 years of age must take eight subjects—for arithmetic, though not called a subject, is just as real a subject, a separate subject for the most part, as it has ever been. A rose by any other name will smell as sweet; it remains a rose, I presume, unless the Board of Examiners have very fearful powers indeed, some Prospero among them to work weird transformations. Arithmetic has a sufficient claim to be treated as a separate subpect with some useful amount of elementary trigonometry or algebra. But if this regulation stands, a boy or girl of 15 in a school that takes mathematics and languages, while doing some work at science and other subjects of a good school course, without reference to the public Intermediate examination, will be forced to take for public examination two more subjects than have been required in the Junior Matriculation A. course hitherto! These are points in which the Teachers' Guild and other such associations of all descriptions and denominations should, I think, insist on amendment of the new system for the sake of liberty in true education in New South Wales.—I am, etc.,

ON THE MARKET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Scarcely a day passes that I do not read on perusing the "Herald" Father O'Reilly's threats.

It seems to me a very dreadful state of affairs that to-day, in the twentieth century, such bitter sectarianism should be introduced into politics. I am a peace-loving, upright citizen, and have never been at loggerheads with any person with regard to religion. However, now I feel that one should urge all Protestants to make a united effort at the coming elections to vote for truth, fairplay, and justice, and to supplant those politicians who are not absolutely impartial to sect, and return men who will not stoop to favour for the sake of catching votes.

I feel earnestly thankful that Protestant clergy of all the various sects keep themselves above dictating to their congregations regarding the political question of the day. Nevertheless, I think I am doing my duty in writing on this subject. I hope that all Protestants in this fair land of New South Wales will be loyal to their State, their country, their Church, and their King by voting as their conscience dictates. What more do Roman Catholics want? Our fine State schools are open to children of all denominations, and in many of them the majority of the teachers are Roman Catholics, while daily scholars of that denomination are being prepared by Roman Catholic head mistresses (in many cases) for the Public Service.

This is proof that many Roman Catholics are ever ready to avail themselves of the privileges given long since to the community in general. I am, etc.,

Nov. 3. FIRST VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am rather far from Sydney, and Wednesday's issue is only before me to-day (Saturday). Your excellent leading article "On the Market" will be approved by every Catholic layman. The great mass of Protestants are under the impression that when Father O'Reilly, or some other hot-headed prelate, fulminates about what "Catholics" will do, they speak for Catholics as a body. Father O'Reilly can speak for himself, and himself only. He may be able to drag with him a few of the "Molly M'Guires," who regard it as sacrilege to say, think, or do anything, whether politically or otherwise, of which a priest would disapprove. But Catholics as a body are too enlightened, and too self-respecting to take their politics from Father O'Reilly or Father Anybody-else. Moreover, the demand for subsidy to R.C. schools is a priest-fostered one. The majority of Catholics do not regard it as a just demand; in fact, many Catholics are cursing the denominational system. They are compelled, much against their wish, to send their children to Catholic schools—they are denounced if they dare to follow the dictates of their own consciences, and allow their children to be educated in an atmosphere, which allows of freedom of intellect. If any party were only firm enough to decree that our children shall be taught in State schools only, no one would be more grateful than Catholic parents, many of whom are now, against their will, compelled to cheer when Father O'Reilly or some bigot of like nature, extols the beauties of Catholic education. I am, etc.,

J. O'DOWD.

Toowoomba (Q.), Nov. 1.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Father M. J. O'Reilly has too much mental ability to believe he is writing fairly and logically when he says the New South Wales system of education is not "national." The padre knows that "national" means "the will of a majority expressed through Parliament." And Parliament crystallised the wishes of a majority when it stamped out the old inefficient priest and parson managed schools, and set up educational machinery, whereby our Public schools were made open to all classes of citizens, and left the school door wide open for the ingress of all those who wished to extol their particular brand of what they call "religion," which generally means as much moral teaching as can be packed between the covers of a catechism. Of course, the good padre is saturated with the dogma of his Church; and declines to understand that any good can come out of any organisation that is not Roman. "The Creator appointed His Church to be paramount on earth; the clergy are the exponents of Church doctrine, and, in fact, are the Church. Therefore, he who will not listen to the clergy, let him be as a heathen and a publican." Well, various European peoples have listened to the voice of the Church; the clergy baptised their infants, gave the children instruction, married them when ripe of years, gave them absolution, buried them. Thus, piety increased, and the nations grew and prospered, until, at last, such is the ingratitude of human nature, these paragons of Church taught beings, turned and bit the hand that stroked them, hanged their instructors from lamp-posts, swept more of them from the territory, and set up a general state of revolutionary revolt.

The padre says we are making "pariahs" of him and his fellow-sectarians. I would not like to say that the padre was a pariah; if he is one, he is a self-made one; and if he is one, then, what shall be declared of our King's representative in New South Wales? I am, etc.,

A RURAL LAYMAN.

Apropos of the extensive repairs to be carried out at the Louvre, the Pantheon, and the Palace of Versailles, a Paris journal quotes some statistics from a valuation made by the Ministry of Fine Arts of the historic buildings of France. The quantity surveyors were instructed to value the buildings on the basis of the cost of construction at the present time, making no allowance for the site or the historic interest attached to them. They estimated that Versailles and the Trianon could not be constructed under an expenditure of £23,300,000, while the Louvre would cost £11,360,000.

MACHINERY.

GRIP LEATHER BELTING
REDUCES THE FRICTION LOAD.

"Why?" you ask.
Simply because it possesses unusual pliability, and gives a grand grip to the pulley.
"What makes it so pliable?"
The fact that "Grip" Belting is made from strictly short lap, specially selected centre butts, and PROPERLY tanned. It is not only pliable, but very tough, thereby giving a solid service that makes its use a practical economy.

"GRIP" WOOD-SPLIT PULLEYS
COST LESS AND DO MORE.

That's a fact. Grip Wood-split Pulleys cost about 30 per cent. less than metal pulleys to instal. And they will actually transmit more power. They're very easily put up and taken down—no need to disturb bearings, couplings, or other equipment. If you ask us about them, or "Grip" products we'll give you some more interesting facts that will be an inducement for you to order "Grip" Beltings and Pulleys.

LUBRIKO IS A SOLID
GREASE LUBRICANT.

Combined with the Lubriko system of line shafting it makes lubrication effective and economical. It costs 50 per cent. less than oil, and saves 25 per cent. in power. You can use it in any climate, any time of the year, and one application will last from six to twenty months. Wouldn't you like to look into this matter? Other dependable accessories we stock include:—

Ideal Cutting Compound.
Janes Sheet Packing.
Cotton Wastes (9 grades).
Hoyt's Antifriction Metals.
And all sundries.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

VITICULTURE IN THE SOUTH.

For a long time past the progress of viticulture in the south has been anything but satisfactory. As a matter of fact, for many years the area under vines in the Albury district has been decreasing instead of advancing. A stimulus has, however, recently been given to the industry by the high prices ruling for grapes. Owing to the terrible damage wrought by phylloxera in the great vine-growing district of Rutherglen, winemakers handling the produce of that area, and some on the New South Wales side of the river, have experienced difficulty in keeping up their stocks of wine, and there has arisen an altogether unprecedented demand for grapes. Instead of the old rate, ranging in the neighbourhood of, say, £3 per ton, £5, £6, and even £7 has been paid, and for a while longer will probably continue to be paid. This is one inducement to prospective growers, but there is another.

Some local landholders, experimenting with the cultivation of the Corinth grape, have turned out an excellent sample of currants, which met with ready sale at fairly satisfactory prices. This result has been a distinct encouragement to vine-growing, and it is understood that a good many persons are only waiting an adequate supply of resistant stocks to largely increase the area under this crop. Some doubt has been expressed as to the wisdom of this new departure, and there are on this question two factors which may not be entirely ignored. In the first place, it is pointed out that, whilst there is at the moment undoubtedly a good market for currants at a price yielding a fair return to the grower, the maintenance of the demand at the same figure is not so certain as could be desired. The Australian crop of currants is fast overtaking, if it has not already overtaken, the Australian consumption of the article, and it may be that in a few years prices, as the result of competition, will fall to a point very much below that now ruling. But there is the same possibility in regard to grapes.

The Rutherglen vignerons have been for some years engaged in the task of reconstituting the phylloxera-stricken vineyards, and in another year or two—certainly before any vines planted now come into bearing—the supply of grapes will be heavier than ever, with every probability of a reversion to the old standard of prices. The only set-off against this contingency is the possibility of a large advance in the export wine trade. Will there be such an advance? A member of the well-known firm of P. Burgoyne and Co., wine merchants, of London, who is just now on a visit to Australia, and is largely interested in the subject, is strongly of opinion that there will. He is, in fact, quite optimistic concerning the future of Australian wines in the English market. If he is right, the Riverina farmer can hardly go wrong in devoting at least a portion of his land to vine-growing.

THE OLIVE INDUSTRY.

With the exception of a few more progressive landholders very little attention has been given in this State to the growing of the common olive, or manufacture of oil, pickles, and preserves, for which there is an ever-increasing demand in all countries. Many years ago Mr. Lawson, of Veteran Hall, at Prospect, went to the heavy expense then of planting olive trees at Prospect, and to-day there are hundreds of trees there of all ages, growing luxuriantly, and laden every year with abundance of fruit. Yet for half a century they received no cultivation whatever, and are now left at the mercy of cattle and birds. The latter come in flocks each season and devour the fruit, which, being on Crown lands, is left to be thus destroyed. Apart from the commercial value of the fruit, olive trees make ideal break-winds, and at different vineyards there may be seen miles of young olive trees planted to protect the grape vines. A notable example of this is found at Minchinbury vineyard.

To demonstrate the value of cultivating the olive it should be well worth the Department of Agriculture protecting the trees on Prospect Hill, gathering the fruit, and turning some into preserves or oil, or even to manufacture the wood (from both stem and root) into articles for which it is so highly prized by all cabinetmakers. At little expense here is certainly room for interesting and useful experiments, which might serve to open up a profitable industry, and give fruitgrowers in the county of Cumberland (at least) an opportunity of planting their deserted orchard lands with olive trees, which, it is claimed, with one-tenth the labour and expense expended in the citrus fruit culture, will return 20 per cent. greater profits, and, further, would establish olive groves lasting for several centuries, irrespective whether they were cultivated or not. Of course the cultivated olive trees, like those of other varieties, produce larger fruits than the non-cultivated ones, but even without cultivation the olive should amply repay the time and space allotted them.

The common olive tree is a native of Syria and other Asiatic countries, and has extended to the southern part of Europe. Several varieties are found in America, China, and Japan, thus showing the Australian climate is suitable for the growth of the olive. Should a doubt exist, a visit to Prospect would prove convincing. Our warm climate and virgin soils would greatly enhance the growth of trees and production of fruits, and consequently give a greater percentage of oil per tree as well as a higher grade of fruit. Inhabitants of other countries consume the fruit, and depend on the oil to preserve articles of food. Australians do not, as a rule, include the olive as an item of diet, but, notwithstanding this, the imports of olives total up a handsome sum annually. The olive tree is hardy, but at present is seldom found planted except on a headland, or some uncultivated corner of the farm or orchard, and then the novelty of having an olive tree growing seems to be the chief inducement for an orchardist to give this space. The olive will grow from cuttings, without any special care being taken in propagation. It is almost free from disease, an evergreen, and is readily eaten by stock in dry weather without any apparent injury to them. There are several varieties of the olive.

FARMERS AND SETTLERS' ASSOCIATION.

Mr. P. Heffernan, Millbank, Junee, writes:—I notice in your issue of October 23 last that Mr. Campbell, secretary of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, makes a number of sweeping statements which I, as a member of that organisation, take exception to. Mr. Campbell says that the association was never more compact and solid, and that he expects almost the complete rout of the Labour candidates in the country constituencies. He adds that there is much dissension amongst labourites. I am very much surprised to hear Mr. Campbell make these assertions on behalf of our association, in view of the fact that the reason of our existence as an organisation is to secure a straight-out Country party. The idea all along has been to secure a party of our own, however small at first, and in my opinion a good chance offers now to do this at the coming elections. If we could get five or six men even in the House it would be the nucleus of a party, and I have been under the impression that all our efforts were to be devoted towards the formation of this special party to watch over country interests.

I notice, too, that all the candidates Mr. Campbell refers to are claimed by him, not as representatives of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, but as members of the Liberal party. If Mr. Campbell wants to identify himself with the Liberal party by all means let him do so, but I, as a member of the Farmers and Settlers' Association from its inception, strongly object to it being made a tool of for this purpose. Why should Mr. Campbell, as the official mouthpiece of the association, take sides? Why did he not carry out the policy laid down at the last conference by a large majority to form a party of our own? In the past farmers have been divided over the question of Freetrade and Protection, and now by the action of their secretary they are being riven asunder on the question of Liberalism or Labour.

There are hundreds of farmers besides myself who, to my own personal knowledge, would vote Labour in preference to Liberal, and, in view of the situation which has arisen, I decline to be a party to the official support proposed to be accorded the Liberal party. Recently a fund of £800 was promised for the purchase of a printing plant for propaganda work and so forth, and, as one who promised £50, I am withdrawing my proffered support to this extent, as I feel quite disgusted at the pronouncement made by Mr. Campbell, and I am also resigning as a member of the Farmers and Settlers' Association.

I do not want to belong to an organisation that is only to be a joint in the tail of the Liberal party.

ROYAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The council of the society assembled at the Showground for its monthly meeting last week and inspected two propositions in reference to the road to the Showground from Paddington. The Defence Department had offered to allow the Cricket Ground and Show Ground authorities to fence the present track to the grounds from Park-road, while the secretary of the society suggested the consideration of a new road from another point in Park-road into the Show Ground. After considerable debate the council decided to join with the Cricket Ground in fencing the old track, and carrying that on as a means of access from Paddington to both grounds.

The secretary reported that he had visited Albury and Melbourne shows in September. Attention was directed to several features in the Melbourne Show which had been noted for the information of the council. On the recommendation of the executive committee, it was resolved to put in an improved hot-water service at the Show Ground for washing horses and cattle, and also for the convenience of the public. A new heater was selected, and it was decided to give this a trial, the first one to be installed before New Year's Day.

YANCO FARM SCHOOL.

The Minister of Agriculture (Hon. J. L. Trefle, M.L.A.) has decided to raise the status of the educational establishment at the Yanco Experiment Farm, hitherto known as the "Yanco Farm Apprentice School," by converting it into a farm school on the same lines as the well-known farm schools at Bathurst and Wagga experiment farms. Incidentally, of course, the standard of instruction imparted will be improved, and the lads attending the school will be classed as students instead of "apprentices."

The change is to take effect from the 1st January next, and the fee to be charged is £15 per annum. The full course of instruction will cover a period of two years but students may attend for one year, with the option of remaining a second. If a satisfactory report be gained at the end of the first year, the second year's course will be granted free of fees. There is accommodation at the farm for 10 students, and the syllabus covers the following subjects:—Principles of agriculture and horticulture, field operations, use of farm implements and machinery, management of horses, sheep, cattle, pigs, poultry, and ostriches, viticulture, fruit-drying, raisin-making, fruit packing, and various branches of gardening and orchard work. The minimum age for admission of students is 16 years, and the maximum 20 years. Applicants of 21 and over may, however, be admitted on special terms, obtainable from the Department of Agriculture. A copy of the prospectus may also be had on application to the department. The farm is situated on the Murrumbidgee irrigation area, and special attention is paid to experiments in, and methods of, irrigation. The area of the farm is about 2000 acres, of which 500 are irrigated, and used for cropping as a "mixed farm," 70 for fruit-growing, and the remainder for grazing and ostrich farming. The fee for lads from outside New South Wales will be £25 per annum.

SHORTAGE OF TRUCKS.

CONGESTION FEARED AT HARVEST TIME.

QUIRINDI.—People here are complaining bitterly of the shortage of trucks, and it is expected there will be great congestion throughout the harvest. Orders for trucks have been delayed for weeks.

GOOD FARMING.

300 ACRES PROMISES 2000 BAGS OF WHEAT.

QUIRINDI.—The recent splendid rains have assured good wheat crops, many of which will now exceed 30 bushels. As an example of what small holders can do, Mr. Craig, of Hammond Springs, with a holding of 1300 acres, carried 2000 sheep through the year, which netted him 7/4½ each for wool. He also bought and fattened 1400 lambs, and put 320 acres under wheat, and has 40 acres fallowed. Federation was the principal wheat crop which he sowed in April and fed off liberally. Rymer was sowed in May and not fed off, but the Federation is a foot higher, and a much better crop. He starts harvesting in about a week, and is cutting 20 acres for hay. He expects not less than 2000 bags of wheat from the balance of 300 acres.

A BRIDGE WANTED.

WINGHAM.—Messrs. T. A. Irvine and James Latimore have recently purchased 3555 acres of country from the Gloucester syndicate. The great bulk of it is heavily timbered, and it is safe to say that it constitutes one of the very best timber belts on the coast. The varieties comprised are ironbark, tallow-wood, brush box, cedar, beech, pine, gums, etc. Mr. W. N. Palley, of Kimbriki, over 30 years ago, drew some cedar out of this country, and he asserts that he knows where to find cedar trees there now worth £100 apiece.

This timber belt will be tapped in earnest as soon as a bridge is built over the Manning River at what is known as "Maryville Crossing," opposite the Charity Creek railway station. It might be pointed out that when the third section of the North Coast railway was being constructed, the authorities expended fully £1000 in making a macadimised road from the Charity Creek railway yards to the "Maryville Crossing." It was recognised that such a road would carry traffic from Kimbriki and the outlying centres, and prove a feeder to the railway. However, the money was absolutely wasted, for the road is overgrown with grass and thistles, and will remain so until a bridge is built. The crossing is dangerous, and people who do cross have to ford the river higher up than the public crossing, and trespass on private property. The Government, it is understood, contended that the shire council should build the bridge, while the council thinks the Government ought to assist.

CROPS

LITHGOW.—The fruit crops, especially apples, have suffered much from the ravages of thripp. Messrs. Lockhart (Billesden Grange) and M'Killop (Bonnie Blink), orchardists on a large scale, report that the crops will be a failure this year. The pest has extended to vegetables, which are being destroyed. Broad beans proved especially attractive.

WOLUMLA.—Weather conditions are exceptionally favourable. Grass is in abundance, and crops are making rapid growth. Apiarists report a slow honey flow, consequent on the wet weather prevailing.

YOUNG.—The recent rains have done an immense amount of good to all vegetation in the district. In some cases the crops were past recovery, but there are not a great many cases in which they will not at least yield hay. In many paddocks the present indication is for a splendid yield. Grass is also in splendid order. The heavy crop of cherries was damaged by a hailstorm, one grower estimating his loss at £500. The heavy setting was only on high lands. On low-lying blocks it is poor. This also applies to other fruit. During the flowering period the weather conditions were most favourable—gentle dews, no high winds, excessive heat or dust. Stock are in splendid condition, mostly, and water fairly plentiful.

GRAFTING.

BATHURST.—In a concluding address on grafting before the members of the Bathurst Fruitgrowers' Association Mr. L. J. Keogh stated that strap grafting had found great favour in this district in the last few seasons, and was, perhaps, the most to be recommended. The preparation of the scion required far more practice than any of the others previously mentioned. The scion used comprised from two to three buds, and was cut the usual length on one side, and dressed similar to that used in ordinary bark grafting; but on the other side a strap was left which consisted of the "cambium layer" and bark attached. This strap was carried right across the limb or tree which was being grafted and inserted under the bark. The whole was then tied firmly, care being taken to bring the tie right across the strap of the scion so as to hold it down firmly. The advantage this graft had over the others was that on account of the strap it was far less likely to drop out, and also the cut made upon the stock healed more rapidly.

With regard to the treatment of trees after they had been grafted, Mr. Keogh urged that care be taken to remove all ligatures directly it was seen that the scion had taken and got a firm hold, and if the shoots of the grafts were growing too quickly it was necessary to pinch them back, which not only saved them from the wind, but also tended to produce a stouter growth and a wider spread. Young suckers which so often grew from the stock must be pulled off as soon as they appeared, or else the flow of sap, instead of running into the scion, would be greatly diminished. To make grafting a success the following points should be observed: Clean, sharp tools, well preserved scions, and decent stocks upon which to work. If tree in which grafts had previously failed were to be reworked it was far better to cut them off a foot above the ground and try to graft on the stump rather than place the scion on the small portion of the remaining limbs, which would only be left after the stocks had again been prepared.

THE WHEAT CROP.

DUBBO.—In the course of his report on the condition of the district, Mr. A. G. Dulhunty states:—The crops in parts have had to be cut for hay, owing to the very dry spell we have experienced on top of the very heavy frosts. But the last fall of rain, though not enough, will save a good many that seemed doomed. There are a good many about Eumungerie and Gilgandra that will now strip fairly well and the best crop I saw anywhere is Mr. Albert Jones's, of Back Merrigal, near Armatree. A portion has been cut for hay, and it is estimated to go over two tons per acre, and about 100 acres should go at least seven bags of grain per acre.

WYALONG.—The present season's wheat and oat crops have proved that by adopting proper methods of cultivation a payable crop may be assured in a very bad season. Even where land was only imperfectly fallowed, the subsoil retained the moisture to an extraordinary degree. Prior to the commencement of the recent very beneficial rains, there were many instances in this district of crops having reached a three or four bag development with less than two inches of rain from time of seed sowing. In one case a forty acre patch of Bunyip wheat sown on July 14 was a foot high and with a healthy appearance at the end of September on 39 points of rain. With a recorded rainfall between May 1 and the present date there are crops in this district in areas of 500 to 1200 acres which will average over 20 bushels per acre, and others from which two tons per acre of hay have been cut. Despite the fact that the period from July 1 to September 30 was the worst for 33 years in this district in respect of rainfall, some of these crops did not show any signs of distress, and the subsoil remained in a moist condition, yet it is doubtful whether any of it had been worked for conservation of moisture on the most approved methods. The recent rains have effected so much good that the estimates of yield made by capable men who have travelled through the district now reaches 15 bushels per acre.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

DUBBO.—Mr. R. G. Dulhunty, stock inspector, Dubbo, reports:—I have visited a good many parts of the district this month, including Narromine, Trangie, Dandaloo, Nevertire, Warren, Gilgandra, Curban, Balladoran, and Eumungerie, and in all parts grass and water are plentiful, and all stock fat. There have been a couple of outbreaks of anthrax, which, in one case, reached serious proportions. As this disease is always with us, and is liable to recur any or every year, all sheepowners should protect themselves by inoculating their young sheep every spring. If this was done the disease would shortly become extinct or the sheep immune. Rabbits are swarming all over the district and owners have been neglecting to destroy them owing to shearing and harvesting. They are trusting to trappers, which is a suicidal policy. Given some good rains, the present should be one of the fattest seasons for the man on the land we have experienced for a long time, as the prices of wool, stock, and wheat are abnormal. But the green-tailed blowfly pest is becoming very acute and means incalculable worry, expense, and loss to sheepowners. Bush fires are also a serious menace at present, and there have been some bad ones already. But with a little more rain they will soon cease to be a trouble, as there will soon be a green shoot among the long dry grass.

GULARGAMBONE.—Mr. H. Block, of Armatree, is the first to commence wheat stripping in this district. The yield is averaging eight bags to the acre. There will be some 10,000 acres in this district to be harvested. In the course of a few days stripping will be in full swing, and yield will be beyond earlier anticipations.

COOLAH.—Haymaking has commenced here with excellent indications. Two to 2½ tons will be reached in cases. The wheat crops also look well.

HOWLONG.—At the annual meeting of the Howlong Branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association Mr. J. T. Dornan was elected president, Messrs. P. Conway and R. Waller vice-presidents, and Mr. John Conway secretary.

PORTLAND.—Very heavy rain fell here on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. In all 180 points were registered. The district has not looked so well for many years as it does just now. There is abundance of feed, and the gardens and crops are looking splendid.

QUIRINDI.—Shearing is nearly complete, the clip being good and considerably in excess of last year. No trouble has been experienced since August 1, 9567 bales have been despatched from the local station, against 9047 last wool year. There is still more wool to come, besides which a large number of sheep were sold in wool.

CHAMBER OF MANUFACTURES.

At the monthly meeting of the council of the New South Wales Chamber of Manufactures. It was decided to hold the next "All-Australia Manufactures Week" in May.

For some time the council has been preparing to start a manufacturer's accident indemnity association, and it was decided to proceed with the project at once.

THE DRINK QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I need scarcely add to the letter of Mr. O. A. Piggott, who is thoroughly reliable, in replying to Mr. F. W. J. Donovan, president of the United Liberty League. Inquiries made in Mr. Piggott's street confirm his statement. There is no doubt that the two women called at his house on a recent Thursday. It was late in the afternoon, and they renewed canvassing in the street next morning. They misrepresented the No-License people as wanting to put down picture shows, Sunday trams, etc. They said themselves that they were sent from a liberty league. The Alliance only wants the truth, and it is quite ready to submit the matter for inquiry and report to two gentlemen, one to be selected on either side.

It is very extraordinary that the Liberty League should seize on this matter, when it must know of other efforts to hurt and prejudice the friends of no-license in similar lines. In the last local option campaign a handbill was printed, with a list of amusements and sports, it was said that we were against, and most of them were of the most harmless kind. Neither the Liberty League nor other body representing liquor disavowed it. Did not Mr. Donovan himself say in the press at the time that deputations had waited on the Government to put down horseracing and dancing? When challenged for some proof, he did not reply. Why raise these other issues, and why fear to face the drink question fairly and squarely?

I would again emphasise that the friends of No-License agree to differ upon many social questions, but heartily unite in the war against the liquor body. Rising above sect and party, they regard the drink evil in its many-sided forms as a national peril, and will vote accordingly. I am, etc.,
F. B. BOYCE,
President N.S.W. Alliance.

An Officer Who Served with His Contingent in South Africa Writes.

Clements Tonic is admitted a splendid restorative medicine after severe attacks of fever, influenza, operations, or slow-fevers. It is rapid in its effect upon run-down or emaciated systems. This testimony is given by Corporal John Turner, 102 Regent-street, Newtown, who served with his contingent in the Boer War. He writes, 14/8/'13:
"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.
"Having contracted enteric fever during the South African campaign, serving with 2nd Australian Light Horse Contingent, and after returning home completely run down in health from the after-effects that ensued, I was prevailed on by a friend to try a bottle of Clements Tonic. Finding it did good I kept using it, and was restored to full health. I have never regretted acting upon my friend's advice, and still take a dose occasionally if I feel anyway out of sorts. You may publish this if you wish.
"(Signed) CPL. JOHN TURNER."
For the cure of lassitude, physical breakdown, anaemia, or bloodlessness in women, hysteria or melancholia, debility in men or lack of vital force, indigestion, flatulence, biliousness, sick headache, palpitation, constipation, or irregular kidney action, no medicine equals Clements Tonic, because it keeps the bowels regular, the stomach healthy, and the nerve strong. ALL CHEMISTS AND STORES SELL IT. Send for it. It lengthens life and keeps disease distant.—Advt.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry keeping, diseases, etc., should be address to "Aucona," "Herald" Office.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Bulli.—Discontinue the use of sulphur and lime. The information will be supplied by post as requested.

A.P.—Do not trouble about ants' eggs for chickens. For the first two or three weeks breadcrumbs, coarse or flaked oatmeal, broken biscuits, and a little meat are all suitable, or you can procure at the produce shops chicken mixture, which contains all the essentials for rearing. Later they may be fed the same as the adult fowls. Place the drinking water where it will be shaded.

Exeter.—The legs of the White Orpington chickens will assume proper colour. The legs of white chickens of any breed when hatched are slightly yellow, with the exception of White Silkies, which have black legs.

G. (Enmore).—Cases are known of a cure being effected, but it is always advisable to put such subjects out of pain, as they are rarely worth the trouble involved.

The past week has been responsible for a further reduction in the prices of poultry food cereals and their meals. With the now increasing price for eggs, and table poultry at almost famine value, poultry breeding is yet a long way from being overdone.

Local incubator manufacturers and the agents for the different English and American sorts, report the best season on record. One agent reports that a first consignment of several hundreds was exhausted in a couple of weeks, and a similar demand is being experienced by other agents. Late arrivals are also being rapidly cleared.

Mr. Hadlington, the recently-appointed Government poultry expert, who has been a resident of the Rooty Hill district for over a quarter of a century, was entertained by the residents in the School of Arts, Blacktown, on Saturday evening last. The chairman, Mr. Best, referred to Mr. Hadlington's ability as a breeder. He began with less than 100 fowls, and had been instrumental in building up a great poultry farm, and was always ready to impart his knowledge to others. Mr. Hadlington, in acknowledging the many appreciative references, said he had been a good while climbing to the present position, and, having got there, more opportunities offered of helping others. During the evening Mr. Hadlington was presented with a gold watch.

The exports of frozen poultry within the past few days have been fairly extensive. The St. Albans took 16 cases of capons and some geese to Manila. The Montoro's consignment consisted of 17 cases of fowls, 15 of ducklings, and 63 of turkeys to Singapore, and the Taiyuan had on board two cases of turkeys for Zamboagua. Altogether the respective shipments weighed almost six tons. This quantity taken off the market within a week tended to further harden prices for all classes of killing poultry.

Breeders have been often warned in this column against the present craze for stocking Leghorn fowls exclusively. While they have won the majority of recent egg-laying competitions, the margin has been so small that the poor return received for the Leghorn cockerels, as against the heavier breeds, proved them to be less profitable. To get the Leghorn pullets for future layers, as many cockerels have to be hatched, and these are disposed of at all ages. The curent rates for birds of from nine to ten weeks old are from 1s to 1s 6d per couple, prices which cannot cover the cost of food and rearing. A peculiar feature of the present poultry market is that day-old chickens of both sexes are purchased at higher rates than obtain for eight-weeks' old cockerels. Birds of the heavy varieties, from 16 to 20 weeks of age, are selling at from 8s to over half a sovereign a pair.

Mr. D. S. Thompson, poultry expert, Hawkesbury College, has issued comparative figures for the first seven months of the previous eleven and the current egg-laying competitions. At the second competition, held over ten years ago, the greatest number of eggs laid by any pen of six fowls in the seven months was 830, or 138⅓ per hen. In the current test the highest total was 778, or 129⅔ per hen, this being a reduction of almost nine eggs per hen. One pen of fowls, however, is not any criterion for a flock, and the poultry expert, to avoid any misunderstanding on this matter, also supplies the average of the whole competing flock for the period mentioned. At the second competition 70 pens averaged 582 eggs, or 97 per hen. At the current competition 60 pens are competing, the average for the seven months being 597 per pen, an increase of 2½ eggs per hen. This is certainly a trifling increase, but the remainder of the competition may witness a further increase.

The comparative table in relation to breeds is interesting. One pen of six White Leghorns has laid 1999 eggs in 19 months, and another pen, in the same period, 1500. A greater difference is, however, evident in Black Orpingtons. One lot has produced 1732 eggs, and another six of the same breed but 994. In the first-year hens, a pen of Black Orpingtons occupy second place among 60 lots. Wyandottes, which won some of the earlier competitions, are not prominent in the current test.

THE KENNEL.

(BY W. C. J.)

Mrs. R. Tovey, of Leichhardt, has recently disposed of several of her pugs. Mrs. Bowen, of Drummoyne, secured the brood bitch Lady Molly. Mr. Blackshaw, of Petersham, got the young dog General Grant of Drayton, and Mrs. Morron, of Forbes, a black pup puppy by Othello ex Patricia of Drayton.

The Scottish Terrier Club at its meeting to-morrow will make arrangements for its coming show.

The pair of Australian terriers, Lynnwood Lincoln and Lynnwood Leonora, purchased by Mr. H. R. Gelston from Mr. A. F. W. Maier, of Sydney, arrived in Adelaide last week.

Mr. Sperring, a Victorian bulldog fancier, was among the visitors to the recent Bulldog Club's show in Sydney.

Mr. F. W. Taylor has secured the Sydney silky terrier Union Tiger, by ch. Kinvara Standard ex Union Belle, from Mr. L. Smith, of Darlington. Tiger has not been shown yet, but will be exhibited at this club's forthcoming parade.

The Sydney Silky Yorkshire and Australian Club (writes Mr. Taylor, hon. secretary), supplied two-thirds of the entries in the club's breeds at the L.K.C. show.

There was a large attendance of members at a meeting of the Australian Scotch Collie Club held at the Railway Hotel on Monday. Mr. Geddes occupied the chair. Messrs. Barden, Miller, and Maddems were elected new members of the club. The balance-sheet of the recent show was laid on the table, and general satisfaction was expressed at the result. The financial state of the club was also gratifying. The hon. secretary announces that at a special meeting on the 17th inst important matters will be discussed in the interests of the club.

A meeting of the Hound Club was held at the Ladies' Kennel Club rooms on the 29th ult. The president, Mr. T. A. Griffin, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members. The hon. secretary was absent through illness, and Mr. Neill Brown was elected assistant hon. secretary. In consequence of several requests by prominent breeders and fanciers at the recent L.K.C. show, it was decided to alter the name of the club so that breeders and owners of all the gun-dog breeds might become members of the club. A letter containing the policy of the new K.C. of N.S.W. was received from the secretary of that club. It was read and ordered to be laid on the table. A general discussion of the quality and numbers of the breeds connected with the club and exhibited at the late L.K.C. show proved that the members were gratified at the display made.

Mr. M. E. Tilbury's young fox terrier bitch Duncraggen Dalara died recently. She was runner-up in the rich sires' produce stakes and another class at the Fox Terrier Club's June show.

Mr. Griffin, hon. secretary of the Ladies' Kennel Club, reports that the cash prizes won at the recent show will be paid this week. It is proposed to hold a social evening, to present the trophies to the winners.

Mrs. Brooke, of Croydon, last week transferred two young black pugs to suburban residents.

Major Richardson, the famous trainer of police dogs, has supplied three of them for sentry duty with a British regiment in India. The dogs are intended to prevent ambuscades and rifle stealing.

Mr. A. Cosgrove, of Redfern, has had the ill-luck to have several of his wirehair fox terriers poisoned. One of them was Rockley Glory, by Glenfern Gloucester—Surry Queen, which won a challenge certificate at the last fox terrier show, and was runner-up at the Ladies' K.C. show.

The greyhound Full of Tricks (Grand Slam—Bride's Veil), recently sold by Mr. F. Gahnon, jun., of Sydney, to a Brisbane owner, has been successful in coursing and also as a show dog.

LABOUR IN POLITICS.

Mr. Cann, speaking at Newcastle on Tuesday night, unconsciously let a substantial cat out of the bag. We have known for some time that the industrial and political elements in the Labour party have been at loggerheads, and that the contempt of the Trades Hall for the politicians in Parliament has been great indeed. As soon as a Labour organiser, or official, or orator, becomes a member of Parliament, he finds innumerable hands stretched out to drag him down. He is a mark to be hit, his position is one to be scrambled for when the time comes; and now that members have voted themselves £500 per annum the prize has grown enormously attractive to the multitude of ambitious unionists outside who believe in handing the plums round. This means, however, that as the members of Parliament are few, and the would-be members many, the latter consider themselves masters of the situation. They are not politicians when outside of the legislative chambers, but representatives of industrialism, and the industrialist is to be the great deciding factor every time. As Mr. Cann explained, there is division in the camp. "They were told that the old system of things was going to be changed. They were going to have a new system altogether. The industrial was going to dominate the political, and once the industrial was able to dominate the political it was going to tell the members inside the House what it was to have. In fact, Moses coming down from Mount Sinai was not in it." The State Treasurer, as a sober, reasonable man, had to challenge this absurdity. He insisted, rightly enough, that the political and industrial must work together, and that the political could not be made subservient to the industrial. But of what value is such an exordium when the great majority of the Labour party is determined that trades unionists shall dominate Parliament and make it register their decrees? Did not this phase of the Labour movement drive Mr. Beeby out, and is it not certain that Mr. Cann himself and others of like mind will have to follow sooner or later? Even the Premier is suspect. Mr. Holman is believed to be a rebel against Trades Hall rule, and a cynic with respect to caucus and conference methods.

In dealing with the Labour platform and policy yesterday we pointed out that the true inwardness of the present effort to maintain a hold upon office is not to be found in the speeches of the Premier and his supporters. They are suppressing the platform and preaching a policy which may be mistaken for Liberalism in many respects. This is Mr. Holman's clever way of trying to hoodwink the electors, because he can see clearly enough that the State has grown weary of Labour in office. The electors must be persuaded that he, as Premier, will be as good as Mr. Wade, and that there is really nothing to fear in another term for the Ministry whose extravagance and recklessness have brought our finances to the verge of chaos. But neither Mr. Cann's disclaimer nor the Premier's suppressions can alter the fact that the Labour politician is not going to be top dog either inside or outside of Parliament. It was convenient, when the party's majority was one or non-existent, to allow members to carry on as best they could; and we know only too well what their manoeuvres have brought the country to; but Labour, with a working majority in Parliament will be another proposition altogether. Neither Mr. Holman's cleverness and masterfulness nor Mr. Cann's sweet reasonableness will move the industrialists outside from their objective. The platform will have to be realised; and the whips of Labour, in the persons of the present Ministry, upon the backs of the taxpayers will become scorpions under the direction of the unions. It may be argued that this must end in disruption. The Labour party will go to pieces. Moderate men will not submit to the dictation of the extremists; and ultimately there will be a marshalling of the forces of Radicalism and Liberalism against those of Socialism. This may be true enough; but it cannot be pleaded that the electors to-day should think of to-morrow in this fashion. They are concerned with the battlefield as it lies before them, and they know that if the Labour party succeeds next month there will be three years of cruel bondage to endure. Are they prepared for that? We leave the answer to the Liberal party; and if it votes as it should, Labour will be able to solve its own problems in the shades of Opposition.

SMOOTHING DIFFICULTIES.

Great Britain and Germany have for more than a year been endeavouring to profit by the frank and cordial relations established after Lord Haldane's visit to Berlin by eliminating the possible causes of trouble between them. It has been known for some time past that negotiations have been going forward to arrive at an understanding in reference to certain of the Portuguese possessions in Africa. Portugal still possesses two enormous tracts of Africa, which she is perfectly unable to develop by her own enterprise—Angola, a country almost exactly the size of the Northern Territory, or not far short of twice as large as New South Wales; and Portuguese East Africa, comprising Lorenzo Marques and Mozambique, which is rather smaller than Angola. These two huge colonies lie opposite each other, Angola on the Atlantic coast and Mozambique on the coast of the Indian Ocean, with the British colony of Rhodesia between them, and a German colony alongside of each of them. The British colony and the two German ones are each of them larger than New South Wales. They are in the hands of vigorous and progressive races; and the temptation of the Portuguese colonies next door, which bar the road of their railway enterprise and their connection with some of the finest ports on the coast, has long been too obvious to be left out of the calculation of any prudent foreign Minister. Accordingly, whilst the sun shone, England and Germany have been endeavouring to come to an agreement on some of the more obvious points of possible friction.

Those negotiations have been approaching a final stage. Civil servants and others in the capitals have seen that something was going on behind closed doors. And, as usually happens, before the day of actual agreement arrives, rumours have leaked out in the way in which they do leak out, even from the closest of European foreign offices, as to the nature of the agreement which is imminent. A few days ago it was stated that Britain was giving up Zanzibar as part of the arrangement. This was contradicted, and it was then alleged that the arrangement chiefly concerned Angola, which is a great field for German enterprise; and that what Great Britain and Germany were doing was not disturbing the sovereignty of Portugal—which is Britain's ally—but arranging for their respective economic rights in Portuguese Africa. A report from Berlin of Monday's date goes to confirm this version. It is said that an agreement has now "almost been concluded," by which Germany has a free hand to push her commercial schemes in Angola, whilst she disclaims all rights in Mozambique. That is to say, Germany will be a leading shareholder, for example, in the great railway which is being pushed for 1242 miles across Angola from the Atlantic to join the Cape to Cairo railway, and which will eventually be the quickest route from German South-West Africa to Europe. On the other hand, Portuguese East Africa, which separates Rhodesia and the Transvaal from the Indian Ocean, would presumably be left as a field for British enterprise. Whatever the lines of the agreement, it will be a great achievement to have put this long-standing bone of contention out of the way. If this wise plan of clearing aside one by one the points of possible friction is only pursued for a few years longer, we may yet live to see the fear of war with Germany, which has undoubtedly been very real and well justified on one or two occasions in recent years, vanish as completely as did the fear of war with Russia.

AUSTRALIAN WINE.

One of the features of the Brewers' Exhibition in London has been the extraordinary success of the Australian wines. In another column we publish the awards which show that in the colonial wines section Australia in general has carried off the majority of the prizes, while this State in particular has a remarkable record. Of course, before now our wines have won high praise from experts, and have been credited with their share of victories in various competitions, but never have they swept the board in this fashion. It is a feather in the cap of Australian vignerons, and it may give a fillip to the consumption of our wines in Britain. Their success is the more commendable because South Africa, our principal rival, has advantages which we do not possess. Her vineyards are considerably older than ours, which has a very important bearing on the quality of the wine produced, and the fact that she is so much nearer British markets enables her to dispense with that fortification of the wine which is necessary for us, but which makes it less attractive to British palates. In Britain Australian wine has always been recognised to be excellent of its kind; unfortunately there have been various circumstances which seem to stand in the way of its larger consumption. Everyone admits that it is pure, and in that respect compares very favourably with Continental vintages. But British connoisseurs condemn it as being crude and too strong for those who are accustomed to drink lighter varieties. This is a fault which time alone can rectify. It is due to a great extent to the newness of the vines and the richness of the soil in which they grow. In the course of time it will disappear, though probably to the end of the chapter it will be impossible to send "light" wines to England without fortifying them to some extent. A more serious objection is the nomenclature of our wines. We persist in calling them burgundies, and ports, and sherries, and so forth, although their resemblance to these varieties is rather remote, and the result is a confusion which has done us harm in the past, and will do us harm in the future, as long as the custom perseveres.

These names were originally geographical. The vineyards of Burgundy produced one kind of wine, those of La Champagne another, until gradually the name became associated rather with the wine than with the district. The Hawkesbury or the Hunter or the Murray produces wine quite different, but simply because it approximates to one or other of the world-famous types we have given it a name which does not suit it, and which in the long run deceives no one. It is not a question of relative superiority or inferiority, but of difference, and the connoisseur who drinks a sweet Australian wine called "port" is outraged at what he considers to be an attempt at an imposition upon the Portuguese wines which come from the valley of the Douro. In South Africa they have emancipated themselves from this barren convention, and do not give old-world names to new-world wines. They call them after the vineyard which produced them, and endeavour to establish a tradition of their own. In Australia a few vignerons do this, and more might follow their example. A third thing which has prevented the more general consumption of Australian wine in England is the absence of uniformity of quality. A "brand" differs from year to year, and though this is to a certain extent inevitable, Australian vignerons should see that the character of the wine is the same, even if its degree of merit is altered. But, despite all these disabilities, Australian wine has made enormous progress in the British markets. A sound variety can be sold at a far cheaper rate than a Continental wine, and the British, though they are not a wine-drinking people, are gradually beginning to take advantage of this fact. It may be long before the Briton is weaned from his allegiance to whisky and beer, but we may lay the flattering unction to our souls that if he drinks "colonial" wine at all it is Australian wine. And, after all, Britain should not be our only market. Across the Tasman Sea there is New Zealand, where Australian and European wines stand on an equality in Customs duties. Surely this is a case for a preferential tariff. She can send us commodities which we cannot produce for ourselves, and vice versa. Wine is a case in point, and could the two Governments arrange some sort of reciprocity there is little doubt that our vignerons would find an enlarged market. The same applies to Canada. Nowadays any prejudice against Australian wines that ever existed has disappeared. The only thing that stands in their way is the barrier of tariffs.

THE SPLIT VOTE.

The case of the Willoughby seat deserves rather strong comment, and Mr. Wade is fully justified in the protest he has made. Unless party organisation can be maintained so far as to prevent triangular contests, it is obviously worse than useless. There is no doubt that this has always been a weak point with Liberalism. The trouble, of course, is that it is impossible to get electors to be interested until just the moment when an election is upon us. The inevitable result is that selections are made by a mere handful of electors who very likely only partially represent the Liberalism of the constituency. As a consequence of this lack of organisation it may easily happen, and does happen over and over again, that the candidate most likely to secure votes if he went to the poll is outvoted at the league meeting, and has either to stand aside or to run the risk that is always involved in vote-splitting. It is a thousand pities that electorates will not make up their minds beforehand what it is that they want. The responsibility of choice rests entirely with them, and if they deliberately throw away a safe seat, the blame rests entirely upon themselves. They ought to know that the preliminary selection is nearly always the vital point in the whole matter. The party organisation, in spite of its defects, is quite competent to ensure the choice of the man who appeals most strongly to the Liberal side of the electorate, and usually there is no serious difference of opinion as to the choice. The trouble is to get that opinion definitely expressed; and if this is not done, we get the wretched state of affairs that now exists at Willoughby. The seat is a safe one for Liberalism, and it never ought to have been brought in jeopardy. Sir William M'Millan is a man of whom no one can speak without the utmost respect. But in standing out against the selection he is risking what ought to be an absolutely safe seat just at a time when we can afford to run no risks at all. The career of the Labour Government has certainly been so disastrous that there should be no doubt as to the decision of the country upon its work. It has put up a record for extravagance and stupidity. But it is useless to pretend that it has not many followers, and in the finely-divided state of parties we certainly cannot afford to throw a single seat away. Unluckily, the action of Sir William M'Millan is only too likely to mean that if he determines to go to the poll. If we are to win through there is no alternative but to abide by the Liberal selection, whatever it may be.

We are, therefore, obliged to endorse every word of Mr. Wade's protest. Either there must be party solidarity or we must be content to retire into the background for all time; however we may fare, we may be sure that our opponents will not follow our example or lay themselves open to the same charge of defective organisation. As Mr. Wade said, it is perfectly fatal to divide Liberalism into two camps. What has been done in the matter of selection is quite right, and it ought to be sufficient to ensure Liberal solidarity. The only thing that is wanted is effective expression beforehand of the opinion of the electorate. Unless this is forthcoming no system in the world can be a success; and the blame must fall neither upon the organisation nor upon the candidates; but solely upon the apathy of electors, who will not use the chance open to them to make a selection absolutely definitive. It is a thousand pities that such troubles should occur, but when they do only one course is open to us. Once the selection has been made it must be adhered to at all costs, and the Liberal leader must have the whole-souled support of his party. It is the inevitable and only thing that can be done if Liberalism is to be saved from wreckage.

THE REAL ISSUE.

Australians are watching the progress of the strike in New Zealand with more than ordinary interest, because the issue which is at stake is one which will sooner or later have to be faced in the Commonwealth. Is the principle of the peaceful settlement of industrial disputes by arbitration or mutual agreement to endure, or are the workers to revert with impunity to the clumsy, anti-social, aimless weapon of the strike? Are agreements between employers and employed to be considered as binding all parties to them during the term for which they are made, or are the workers to be permitted unchecked to dishonour them at will? Above, all, are men to be allowed to paralyse the very life of the community; to hold up its shipping, which alone enables it to trade and communicate with the outside world; to restrict the supply of the necessaries of life; to subject the cities to a state of siege; to deprive the country districts of the only outlets for their produce; in other words, to transform orderly government into anarchy? We are glad to think that these suggestions of sabotage, these syndicalist agitations, this dishonourable breach of agreements are by no means approved by the main body of the workers. In New Zealand (as the Waihi and slaughtermen's strikes showed), as well as in Australia, the proportion of the workers who believe that they have most to gain from loyal co-operation in the administration of the judicial and semi-judicial machinery which has been established to deal with the conditions of labour and with disputes regarding them, is by no means insignificant. But, unfortunately, the extremist, the loud-voiced, and ubiquitous agitator, is often able to dominate his more moderate but less articulate colleagues.

The failure of the conference, which resumed its sittings for only a few minutes yesterday, will be genuinely regretted. The serious riot which occurred in Wellington on Monday night indicates the grave incidents which may be expected whilst a settlement is not reached. The hooligan element in the city may be very largely responsible for the disorder, but the official reports, which point to the fact that the shots which were fired were deliberately aimed from houses, and could not have been provoked by any action on the part of the police, are certainly significant. It will soon be necessary for the authorities to take advantage of the available free labour in order that the city may be supplied with the food and other articles lying on the wharfs, in the ships, or in the country ready for transference to the city. The Government must then be prepared for a fresh exhibition of the ugly temper which has already manifested itself. The employers are insisting on the registration of the unions under the Arbitration Act, in order that they shall be subject to the penal clauses of the Act in the event of any further breaches of the agreements. Perhaps on the whole it is desirable that this firm stand should be taken once and for all, whatever the consequences. For in this matter there can be no compromise between the rights of the community and the demands of industrial anarchists.

The "Sydney Mail."—The sporting public will find this week's issue of the Mail unusually attractive. The week has been a notable one on the racecourse, and the important events are done full justice to both pictorially and descriptively. Besides a number of very fine photographs taken on the course at Flemington, the social side of the carnival is illustrated by a series of live snaps and a full page drawing entitled "Race Emotions." There are pictures of all the "favourites" for the Cup, whilst Beragoon, the champion colt of the year, has a page to himself, and "Milroy" contributes a reminiscent article on "Men who have won the Cup." Notwithstanding this big budget of racing matter, none of the usual features of the "Mail" has been sacrificed. The sculling championship rowed on the Parramatta last Saturday is dealt with, and there are pictures of the champion and his trainer, and the finish of the race. Among other illustrations of special interest are the two pictures recently purchased by the National Art Gallery—"Motherhood," by E. Phillips Fox, and "Le Livre De Paix," by E. Maxence—one of the huge triumphal arches being erected on the Panama Exposition grounds, and a series of Murray and Darling River scenes. In the "land" section "Moira" deals with the Babcock milk tester and its inventor, and there is a tropical article on thripe and their extermination by the "Mail's" fruit expert.

Children's Playground.—On Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Mr. Carmichael, Minister for Education, will open the first departmental children's playground, which has been established through the joint action of the Education Department and the City Council at Victoria Park, near the University. An area of nearly two acres has been set apart, well grassed, furnished with shade trees, and equipped with swings, see-saws, sand pits, and other juvenile delights. The department has erected a neat, substantial pavilion, with retiring rooms, and a trained kindergartner has been appointed to supervise the children's play. Mr. Carmichael's idea is that children under school age may be left at the children's playground by their brothers and sisters on the way to school. They will be carefully looked after, and while revelling in sunshine and engaged in play will at the same time be under systematic training. The authorities of the City Council have taken a great deal of interest in establishing the children's playground, and within a very short time it ought to be the show place of Victoria Park. One of the striking features of this first children's playground, said Mr. Carmichael yesterday, is the fact that it is right under the shadow of the Sydney University, thus typifying the coordination of our educational system right from the kindergarten to the University.

A Friend on the Jury.—Speaking at Darlinghurst on the administration of justice under the present Government, Mr. Levy, M.L.A., told of an incident which occurred in the Sydney District Court a few months ago. A lady was conducting her own case before a Judge and jury. When the case opened the Judge, observing the lady collect her papers at the table, asked her very kindly, "Madam, have you no legal assistance?" "No, your Honor," she replied, "but I have a friend on the jury!"

Zealandic Armed.—Advices were received in Sydney yesterday of a smart piece of work carried out on the steamer Zealandic shortly before she left Liverpool for Australia on her present voyage. It was decided to fit the vessel with two 4.7-inch guns, under the Admiralty's scheme for arming merchantmen. In the short period of eight days the firm of Messrs. Barclay, Curle, and Co. had strengthened the Zealandic, built and fitted the gun platforms, and docked and overhauled her. The vessel left at her appointed time.

Picture Shows and Stadiums.—The Associate Chief Secretary, Mr. F. Flowers, states that he views with a great deal of alarm the tendency to turn all our picture shows into boxing entertainments. It would mean that they would not secure high-class material, and their entertainments would degenerate into debasing and degrading exhibitions. They wanted to prevent that by seeing that they were officially controlled and limited in number.

Out-back Hospital.—The statements made concerning a labourer's treatment at an outback hospital, and published in the "Herald," were brought under the Associate Chief Secretary's notice yesterday. Mr. Flowers said that as soon as the facts were placed before him he would cause a searching inquiry to be made into them.

Rookwood now Lidcombe.—The name Rookwood, as applying to the municipality, has now been dispensed with. The new name chosen and gazetted for the borough is Lidcombe, and it is to be known as the Municipality of Lidcombe for the future.

The Fifth of November.—To-day is Guy Fawkes Day, which, although no longer celebrated as it used to be, is welcomed by juveniles as an occasion for letting off crackers and lighting bonfires.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. S. Christie, sergeant-at-arms in the Legislative Assembly, who had for some considerable time been ill, was able to resume his duties on the 1st inst.

The degree of Bachelor of Medicine was yesterday conferred by the senate of the University of Sydney upon Mr. J. H. V. Scott, in absentia.

Mr. S. E. Townshend has resigned the position of clerk of examinations at the Sydney University, having accepted the position of registrar of the University of Western Australia.

Mr. C. Shellshear, M.B., Ch.M., has been appointed junior demonstrator of physiology at the Sydney University.

Mr. F. Wallin, manager of the Island Department of Messrs. Burns, Philp and Co., Ltd., is leaving by the company's new steamer Morinda to-day for Papua, on a visit of inspection. He will be absent for about six weeks and will proceed in the Morinda as far as Woodlark Island, where he will transfer to the company's steamer Dorrigo, visit all the smaller outports from the German border round to Thursday Island, and return by the steamer Montoro.

There is a marked improvement in the condition of the Rev. W. Woolls Rutledge, organising secretary of the Methodist Centenary Celebration Fund, telegraphed our West Maitland correspondent last night. The change for the better was noticed on Monday, and continued throughout the night and to-day, though the doctor in attendance considers the case still serious.

Pending the appointment of a permanent successor to the late Mr. E. H. Montgomery, the New Zealand Government agent in Sydney, Mr. A. G. Millington, of the clerical staff in the head office of the New Zealand Tourist Department, is to take up the duties. Since Mr. Montgomery's death Mr. J. W. Clarke, of the Melbourne Agency of the New Zealand Government has been acting as the official representative of the Dominion in Sydney.

A meeting of Sydney butter shippers was held at the Royal Hotel on Monday afternoon for the purpose of tendering hearty good wishes to Mr. George Twohill, accountant and secretary to the Butter Shippers' Association, on his approaching marriage. Mr. J. Mackey, of J. J. Lonsdale and Co., Ltd., chairman of the association, on behalf of the members presented Mr. Twohill with a case of cutlery.

MEXICO.

A TANGLED SITUATION.

BRITISH INTERESTS.

The fact that General Felix Diaz—nephew of the famous President who ruled the destinies of Mexico for more than a generation—has been obliged to leave Vera Cruz and journey to Havana is perhaps the most disquieting feature in the whole Mexican situation. For, according to shrewd and impartial observers, Felix Diaz was the one man in the whole of Mexico who might knit together its many discordant elements.

The glamour surrounding the name of Porfirio Diaz has not yet departed. He was an autocrat, but not even his worst enemies have denied that he governed his country wisely and well; that, although the constitution might be ignored and the democratic spirit absent in his rule, he brought prosperity and peace to the people. The appointment of his successors has synchronised with disorder and unrest, which have inevitably brought in their train unemployment and poverty. They might have promised constitutional government and pledged themselves to land subdivision and electoral reform; but they have not brought the country nearer to any of these desiderata. There were no threats of intervention by the United States under the regime of President Diaz. Only those who have lived in Mexico can realise the intense and bitter hatred with which the average "gringo" (as the American is called) is regarded by the Mexican. The rebellion which led to the overthrow of Diaz was, no doubt, very largely stimulated by a genuine revolt against his autocratic and (to some extent) reactionary rule. But the Mexican would prefer the government of the most autocratic despot to domination by his powerful neighbour. It can therefore be readily understood that there has been a movement in Mexico for the return of the venerable Porfirio Diaz. It is a futile movement, for the old man is no longer fit for the management of the tangled situation in which his country is at present placed. In his nephew, however, the people are able to personify the family traditions, and as they have in Felix Diaz a progressive statesman of wide outlook and a general full of vigour and capable of restoring order by firm yet tactful administration, it is not surprising that large sections of the population have turned to him as the solvent of the present impasse.

POWER BEHIND THE THRONE.

Felix Diaz was responsible for the raising of the revolt against President Madero's administration in October last year. He took the view that its anti-foreign attitude, personal favouritism, and corruption were inimical to the best interests of the country, and that its overthrow was essential unless the new order of things was not to be worse than the first. Felix Diaz secured the appointment as President of General Huerta (who had been commander-in-chief of the army under Madero), and though he himself stood outside the Cabinet, he stipulated for the inclusion of his own supporters or "Felixistias," as they are termed in Mexico. He thus became clearly the most influential man in the country, the power behind, if not actually seated on, the throne. Now it would appear (though the news is very confused and scanty) that the ladder by which Huerta climbed to the Presidential chair has been overthrown, and that Felix Diaz has been obliged to escape from the fate which befell Madero.

A PERSONAL SKETCH.

It only needs a strong man of the same type as Porfirio Diaz at the head of affairs, remarked a recent visitor to Mexico, to restore peace and order again in the Republic. "Nearly the entire body of foreign residents and a large majority of the Mexicans themselves," he added, "believe that such a man will be found in General Felix Diaz, a nephew of General Porfirio Diaz. I recently spent an afternoon with the General, and I came away strongly impressed by the conviction that he possesses many of the qualities requisite for the task. He is a young man, still on the sunny side of 40, with great force of character, a resolute will, a breadth of view, and a statesmanlike grasp of affairs, which promise well for the future of Mexico should her fate ever be placed in his hands. One of the strongest traits in his character is the evident capacity to wait patiently for his opportunity. When it comes he will be all the more likely to seize it with energy and vigour. This was clearly shown by his action in the recent revolution, and during the almost equally critical situation created subsequently, when Congress refused to decree an early Presidential election for the termination of the existing system of provisional government.

"At the time that ill-considered step was taken General Diaz had it in his power to execute a coup d'etat, overthrow Congress, and establish himself in supreme authority. With a self-abnegation and a patriotism rare in this land of selfish personal ambition, he accepted the decision of Congress, withdrew for the time being his candidature for the Presidency, and stepped back as far as his commanding personality permits, into the ranks of private citizenship. It was an unexpected course in a country where every politician who rises even a little above his fellows rarely errs on the side of moderation."

In spite of his temporary departure from his country, there can be no doubt that Felix Diaz is the coming ruler of Mexico, and the importance of his personality is enhanced by the fact that it is understood that he is being supported by the influence of the United States.

BRITISH INTERESTS.

A recent cable suggested that American intervention in Mexico was being delayed owing to the attitude adopted by the British Government. British commercial interests are very large indeed in Mexico, and it has been estimated that at least one hundred millions of British capital has been invested in the industries of the country. The oilfields and railways owned by Lord Cowdray's firm (S. Pearson and Co.), mining companies and numerous engineering and other undertakings in all parts of the country testify to the enterprise with which British commerce has ventured into these profitable "fresh woods and pastures new," and also, it may be added, to the encouragement given by Porforio Diaz during the 35 years of his rule to the investment of foreign capital.

Great Britain was the first foreign Power to recognise General Huerta's Government, and the contrast between this action and the nonrecognition by the United States has certainly not been prejudicial to British interests in Mexico. One instance of British enterprise in the country is the Mexican Light and Power Company, which has enabled the boast to be justifiably made that Mexico City has the best and most artistically lighted streets in the American continent. Five millions of British and Canadian capital has been invested in the company, and it is one of the great electrical undertakings in the world. It controls the illumination and supplies the current not only for the lighting of the streets, but for practically every factory and workshop in the city.

In Mexico they say, "You must see Necaxa," as in the north the visitor is bidden to visit Niagara. For the waters of the Necaxa River are harnessed for the purpose of supplying the necessary power for the operations of the company. The upper of the two falls ([illegible] feet in height) is three times and the lower five times as high as Niagara. The engineering works in connection with the utilisation of the water power were of such magnitude and importance that Colonel Goethals, the chief engineer of the Panama Canal, found it worth his while to visit Mexico and study the methods employed there.

These works are typical of many others in which millions of British capital are invested, and it can be readily understood that a caveat should be issued from the British Foreign Office before their security should be endangered by premature intervention by the United States.

BURGLARS AT JUNEE.

JUNEE, Tuesday.

Burglars broke into J. S. Taylor's store between Saturday night and Monday morning. They cut their way through the iron outer wall, then through an iron grating into the cellar, and then into the shop by a trap-door. Over £60 worth of jewellery was taken.

ULTIMATUM.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

PROSPECTS OF WAR.

DR. WILSON'S FIRM STAND.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4.

An ultimatum has been received from Washington, ordering President Huerta to resign immediately, and not to allow General Blanquet to succeed him, but instead to allow a free election.

No answer has been returned to the ultimatum, and as President Huerta is not expected to assent to the demands, war is not unlikely.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

The Washington correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that President Wilson insists on the elimination of the Huerta regime, either by United States intervention, as a police power, or the recognition of the revolutionaries under General Carranza as a de facto government, and lending General Carranza moral support.

LONDON, Nov. 4, 12.40 p.m.

Reuter's correspondent at Washington reports that a copy of the United States' ultimatum to Mexico has been forwarded to all foreign Governments.

NO THOUGHT OF CONQUEST.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

The newspapers give prominence to the recent declaration of Senator Bacon, of the United States, to the effect that nothing was further from the thoughts of the United States than conquest or the acquisition of territory in Mexico.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR'S ABSENCE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.

Advices from New York state that Americans are commenting on the absence of Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British Ambassador, from Washington, during the Mexican crisis.

The British Foreign Office, however, explains that Sir Cecil Spring Rice has been resting in New Hampshire owing to ill-health, and adds that the work of the British Embassy is being performed to the full satisfaction of Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

RAISING PROTECTIVE ARMY.

COPYING SIR EDWARD CARSON.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, in course of a speech at Hackney last night, announced that a volunteer army to defend the women suffragists was to be raised in the East End.

"We must copy Sir Edward Carson," she declared.

Captain Sir Francis Vane has promised to take command of the "army," and other officers are co-operating.

RAILWAY DISASTER.

FIFTY LIVES LOST.

RIO DE JANIERO, Nov. 4, 10.10 a.m.

Two express trains collided near Saopulo this morning, and as a result 50 persons were killed and many injured.

HOME RULE.

MR. A. J. BALFOUR'S VIEWS.

"CONSULT THE PEOPLE."

LONDON, Nov. 3.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, M.P., speaking at Aberdeen on the Irish question, said that the most sluggish imaginations were beginning to understand the true character of the Ulster problem.

"We are living," he added, "under an interim constitution, and it is incumbent on the Government to consult the people before proceeding further."

The Home Rule Bill, he declared, was an experiment in federalism of a preposterous character, as it failed to treat all members of the federation alike.

Federalism itself was not only a possible form of government, but a form which many parts of the world found to be of incalculable benefit. But in every federal government all the separate units were treated alike, and the whole system was designed as a closer and firmer organisation.

The Home Rule Bill was predestined to hopeless failure. It was ludicrous to pretend that it was an instalment of Home Rule All Round, or any other form of devolution.

The greatest dupes were those who believed it was going to bring peace and leisure to the Imperial Parliament.

The people of Ulster feared being turned out of the United Kingdom, and thrust under a system they detested, and in which they would form a mere fraction of the electorate.

"It is not a question of better safeguards," he said. "We are dealing with human beings with a history behind them, and ideals before them."

Personally he looked with horror upon the situation that had been created, and he remarked that a great party had drifted into a position which its best members deeply regretted.

"If the Government is determined to drive out of the United Kingdom some of the most loyal subjects, it must at least see that it has the settled convictions of the British people behind it."

He added that if the Government objected to a general election, then why not hold a referendum, which would not endanger the Government?

THE BALKANS.

FURTHER FRICTION.

ATHENS, Nov. 3.

Representatives of Britain, France, and Russia, on the Albanian Delimitation Commission, have strongly protested against the claim of Italy to fix the frontier regardless of the nationalities of the people, and the question has been referred to the various Governments.

"REGRETTABLE LACK OF COURTESY."

PARIS, Nov. 3.

The newspapers look upon the action of Austria and Italy in regard to the boundaries of Albania as inadmissible without a European mandate, and add that it "shows a regrettable lack of courtesy towards the triple entente (England, France, and Russia")."

CANDIDATE FOR THE THRONE.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.

TURKEY AND GREECE.

ATHENS, Nov. 3.

TURKISH ARMY REORGANISATION

BERLIN, Nov. 4.

It appears that the German officer who has been appointed to reorganise the Turkish Army is General von Sanders.

STRIKE VIOLENCE.

BLOODSHED IN AMERICA.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.

Further strike riots occurred here yesterday.

The car-barn was demolished, and a number of strike-breakers received a severe handling.

A fierce shower of bricks and stones practically wrecked a number of cars, and there was no traction throughout the city during the afternoon and evening.

Eventually the police suppressed the disorders.

CANADIAN POLITICS.

LIBERALS AND THE TARIFF.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.

The Liberal party press is advocating an increase in British preference to 50 per cent., the abolition of duties on food, the abolition or reduction of duties on machinery used in the production of food, and the appointment of a permanent tariff commission to regulate the tariffs.

AUSTRIAN EMIGRATION SCANDALS.

FURTHER ARRESTS.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.

The offices of the Austro-American Steamship Company at Cracow, Galicia, were searched by the police yesterday. The books were seized, the offices were closed, and the manager and two clerks were arrested.

The police in Lemberg and elsewhere in Galicia have raided the offices of other shipping companies who are suspected of having shipped emigrants liable to military service.

CRIME IN SPAIN.

JALON MURDER CASE.

MADRID, Nov. 3.

Captain Sanchez, who was sentenced to death for the murder of M. Jalon, was executed to-day.

In May last the body of M. Jalon, a wealthy man, who had mysteriously disappeared in April, was found cut to pieces and hidden between two walls of the military school. Captain Sanchez and his daughter Luisa were arrested in connection with the affair. Subsequently, as a result of the daughter's accusation, Sanchez confessed that he murdered Jalon. The daughter was arrested while attempting to change a quantity of Jalon's casino gambling counters to the value of 5000 pesetas. Sanchez was formerly acquitted in Corunna on a charge of having murdered a man just after the latter had drawn a large sum of money from the bank, and since the Jalon case a fresh search revealed human remains under the floor of the house formerly occupied by Sanchez in Corunna. At the trial it was alleged that Jalon was a notorious gambler and fast liver, and that Luisa Sanchez was his mistress. The male accused, on being interrogated, blamed his daughter for the crime, but the latter retorted that she had tried to prevent the murder, but her father had threatened to kill her as well as Jalon. Counsel for Captain Sanchez argued that he was not responsible for his actions, and that he committed the murder in a fit of mad jealousy on seeing his daughter, for whom he had an illicit affection, on intimate terms with Jalon. Sanchez was found guilty, and sentenced to death.

LAWN TENNIS.

NOT A TIN-POT NAVY

AUSTRALIAN FLEET.

ADMIRAL FREMANTLE'S VIEW

A FORCE TO BE RECKONED WITH.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

Admiral Sir Edmund Fremantle, in a letter to the "Morning Post," declares that though a squadron of Dominions' ships based on Gibraltar and used for the protection of the trade routes would be an admirable solution of present oversea requirements, such a fleet would do but little to stimulate the maritime proclivities of the oversea people, and it does not come within the sphere of practical politics at the present moment.

The fact that Australia is loyally carrying out Admiral Henderson's proposals is, he declares, an object lesson regarding the right course to adopt.

The enthusiasm of the Commonwealth is in strong contrast to the political difficulties in which Mr. Borden has become involved in his effort to meet the Admiralty's views.

Admiral Fremantle adds: "I am disposed to treat lightly the difficulty in regard to the combination of the Australian and Canadian squadrons in war time.

"The Australian navy is not a tin-pot navy—it is already a force to be reckoned with.

"Any of the Dominions' squadrons would be anxious to join in making one great Imperial navy in case of war.

"Not only European complications, but Australian and New Zealand troubles regarding the New Hebrides and Japan, must concern the whole empire."

NEW YORK MAYORALTY.

BITTER CAMPAIGN.

INFLUENCE OF TAMMANY HALL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.

Mr. Edward McCall represents Tammany Hall interests, and Mr. John Mitchell is the Fusion nominee who seeks to break the power of Tammany.

Mr. Sulzer has published letters and telegrams purporting to show that Mr. McCall offered to get "Boss" Murphy to stop the impeachment proceedings provided he (Mr. Sulzer) endorsed Mr. McCall's candidature and dropped the exposure of Tammany Hall, which Mr. Sulzer threatened to make.

Mr. Sulzer has further asserted that he knows he stands in danger of assassination because of his continued participation in the mayoral campaign.

Mr. Mitchell is not popular because Mr. W. R. Hearst, newspaper proprietor, is supporting him, and Mr. McCall is disliked because Tammany Hall is pledged to elect him.

"Boss" Murphy's position is insecure, as the Tammanyites think that he has mismanaged the campaign.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

SUCCESSFUL NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 3.

The Berlin correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says that an Anglo-German agreement has been almost concluded, whereby Germany secures a free hand in economic matters in Angola (Portuguese Lower Guinea), with participation in the construction of the railway from Lobita Bay in Benguela to Katinga, where there are rich copper mines.

This line, which will be a length of 1242 miles, will afford the quickest route to Europe through the centre of Africa.

Germany disclaims all right in Mozambique.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

A NOTABLE BIOGRAPHY.

LONDON, Nov. 4.

Sir E. T. Cook's "Life of Florence Nightingale," which has just been published, is acclaimed as one of the finest biographies in the language.

The diaries of Miss Nightingale reveal a remarkable conflict between a desire for marriage and a life spent in the pursuit of the ideal of opening up new spheres of usefulness for women.

UNITED STATES ARMY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.

The Army Department announces that as the result of several years' work the United States is now able to place 530,000 men in the field in the event of war.

Critics have attacked the plans of the department on the ground that they provide for the enlistment of a large volunteer force after war breaks out.

FOOTBALL JUBILEE.

GROWTH OF THE GAME.

LONDON, Nov. 3.

Lord Kinnaird presided at a great banquet in the Holborn Restaurant on the occasion of the jubilee of the Football Association.

Mr. J. C. Clegg said that the association had begun with eleven clubs, but now there were 13,000, with nearly a million players, of whom only 5000 were professionals.

The "Athletic News" points out that the association's receipts for the season 1868-9 amounted to £4 2s, but last season they were £25,338.

NEW ZEALAND FOOTBALLERS.

ANOTHER EASY WIN.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 2.

The postponed match against California University was played to-day, when the New Zealanders scored another easy win by 33 points to nil.

The Californians never crossed the half-way line.

BILLIARDS.

REECE V GRAY.

LONDON, Nov. 3.

Scores at the close of to-night's session in the match between Reece and Gray were:—Reece, 3333; Gray, 7099.

BELLINGEN, Tuesday.

The six-year-old son of Mr. W. Knight was bitten by a black snake on Sunday on one of his toes. The nearest neighbour, a quarter of a mile away, happened to have a bottle of antidote in the house, and by the time he arrived the patient was almost collapsing. A little of the antidote was applied, and in a short time the youngster recovered.

HARBOUR GALE.

STEAMER SNAPS TWO LINES.

55 MILES AN HOUR.

The stiff wind which blew steadily from the west yesterday shifted slightly to the south-west towards evening, and shortly after 6 p.m. was blowing with the force of a strong gale. The surface of the harbour was whipped into numerous vicious little white-topped waves, and many steamers strained at their anchor chains and moorings.

When the storm was at its height the steamer Strathord, which had arrived from Talcohuano, via Auckland (N.Z.), during the day, was being taken to the wharf near Woolwich Dock, when she was struck broadside on by the full force of the gale. The vessel had passed two lines ashore from the stern, one of which had been made fast to the Woolwich Ferry jetty, and the other to the Woolwich Dock wharf. A tug also had a line from the vessel's stern.

The intention was to bring the big vessel alongside the wharf, but the wind caught her, and swung her bow round away from the wharf. An attempt was then made to bring her in stern foremost to the wharf, but the gale, which had reached a force of 55 miles an hour by this time, was too strong. Although her own propeller was going astern, two winches were hauling on the lines, and a tug was also pulling at her stern, the gale easily won the tug-of-war. First of all a six-inch rope, the older of the two, attached to the wharf, snapped, and soon afterwards the other, a brand new Manila line, also carried away.

The tug tried to hang on to the vessel for some time, but the gale carried the big steamer across from Woolwich Dock, and she proceeded to a point some distance ahead of the Ocean Monarch, which is lying off Long Nose Point. The Strathord, which, of course, had steam up all the time, dropped her anchors here, and they held her fast.

Mr. Ford's launch, which was proceeding out to the steamer, picked up the broken lines, which were hanging to the wharf. These measured about 90 fathoms each, and the launch endeavoured to tow them over to the vessel. When about half-way across the weight of the lines in the water brought the launch to a dead stop. The owner of the launch, with the assistance of two others on board, succeeded in hauling in the 90 fathoms of one of the ropes, after which they managed to get the launch to move. The two lines were then safely returned to the steamer, being hauled back on board by two winches.

DEARER GAS.

THE NEW ACT BLAMED.

SINGLETON, Tuesday.

A few weeks ago the Singleton Gas Company increased the price of ordinary lighting gas from 6s 6d to 6s 8d per 1000 feet, and reduced the price of pre-payment gas from 8s 4d to 7s 6d per 1000 feet, gas for stoves and engines remaining the same.

A good deal of adverse comment was made locally, but the manager of the gas works states that neither the company nor himself had anything whatever to do with the alteration, the cause being the operation of the Gas Act, which was passed a few months ago, at the instance of Mr. Carmichael. Under this Act, it is provided that companies must charge certain rates for their gas (though, strangely enough, municipal gas works are not affected), and the rates are not discretionary. They are fixed by a Government officer, after an examination of the books, and the company is not even allowed to sell gas at a lower rate than that fixed by the examiner. It will thus be seen that any increase in the price of gas of which the people of Singleton have to complain is, according to the statement made by the manager of the works, entirely a matter for which the Government is responsible.

STEEL WORKS.

MR. CANN'S DEFENCE.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Mr. J. H. Cann, speaking to-day at the sports in connection with eight-hour day, said that he had been twitted several times about the wrongs he had done in reference to the agreement that was entered into for the steel works in Newcastle. He had been told that he had given away enormous concessions. So far as that agreement was concerned it was the sole instance where they were making the people pay for what they were receiving in Newcastle. The Government has spent about £2,000,000 to give facilities for the shipping of coal. Newcastle was not paying one fraction of interest on the capital. The Government was dredging the channel leading up to the steel works, but the people using it would have to pay 5 per cent. of the cost.

A voice: They will get the monopoly of making steel rails.

The Government had (Mr. Cann added) no facility for making steel rails. In fact, there was a monopoly manufacturing them at the present time. So far as the deposits of iron were concerned in this State, they were all held by private enterprise. The Government would not be justified in spending 10/ to develop it. The Steel Works Proprietary had at least 120,000,000 tons in sight. In his opinion Newcastle was lucky that it had the works in the district.

CREEK MYSTERY.

HUMAN BONES DISCOVERED.

MURDER CHARGE.

SELWYN (Q.), Tuesday.

The evidence of the arresting constable showed that on October 29 he saw accused, his father, and a man named Arnold at the pumping station at Hampden. He asked him if Vessey had turned up yet. Defendant replied he had heard no more about him. In general conversation defendant stated that Vessey had been drinking heavily lately, and was always rousing on him. On the morning of the 30th, in company with another constable, witness was digging in the bed of the creek, and found bones, which had apparently been subjected to great heat. There was no appearance of fire there, but heaps of ashes were found about sixty feet from the hut, in which there were bones. About 30ft north of this the remains of another fire were seen, with buckles and bootsprigs around, also a millet broom scorched. In the creek they found buckles and coin, together with bones. Defendant admitted making the last fire, and said: "We burned some clothes there." Asked who "we" meant, he replied, "Me and Vessey." When told that human bones had been found, he said he knew nothing about them, and when arrested he said: "All I can say is I didn't murder him, and never did him any harm in my life."

Accused was remanded for eight days.

BOY KILLED ON RAILWAY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

A shocking train accident happened to-day at Palmerston North, when the Northern Auckland express was nearing the terrace end, resulting in the death of Herbert Miles Cross, aged four years. A companion, Gordon Allen, four and a half years, sustained a broken leg and concussion of the brain. He was so badly injured that but little hope is held out for his recovery.

Mrs. Brewster, who was an eyewitness of the accident, states that the two little fellows crossed the Wanganui rails, apparently intending to place sticks under the incoming Wairarapa train. Not noticing the Auckland express approaching, they ran back over the rails, right in front of the onrushing engine. Both were thrown on the grass. When picked up Cross was dead. Allen was conveyed with all possible haste to the hospital.

"THE CUP."

FAMOUS HORSES AND MEN.

SOME PAST HISTORY.

One more "Cup" is over—one more horse has to be added to the list of winners of the Melbourne Cup—one more owner is made famous as the man who owned the horse that won the Cup. The hundred thousand people who gathered at Flemington to see the race have recovered from the brief excitement, and are setting about their work again; but there will be many of them who will continue to tell us until we grow weary how Posinatus, with a 20 to 1 chance, "romped home" and beat the favourite. Beragoon, indeed, never looked like winning.

Men may talk and preach against it, but the fascination of "The Cup" remains. It is more than a race; it is an Australasian institution, a meeting-place for sportsmen from all over Australia and New Zealand, and a rendezvous for fashion. In the beginning of November all roads lead to Melbourne.

There are men who never miss a big cricket match, and who can tell you stirring stories of battles lost and won over half a century; and so, too, there are men who have never missed the Melbourne Cup. Well, hardly ever. And this classic race is half a century old. It began in "Sixty-one," and it has gone on ever since. The prize has increased from £200, when the race was inaugurated, to £8000 to-day. Indeed, for a brief period—from 1890 to 1893—the race was worth £10,000. Financial difficulties came to the V.R.C., and in 1894 the prize-money was cut down to £5000, and from 1895 to 1900 it was only £3000; but since then it has gone on increasing, and it is not unlikely that we shall soon see it at £10,000 again.

That is something to win. The Melbourne Cup is the greatest and most popular handicap race in Australia. It is the race above all others that the owner of a great horse strives to win. For that way lies immortal fame in the annals of the turf. And old hands will tell you of many a thrilling incident in the race, and of many an exciting finish. They will tell you how sensational was Bravo's win, and how a well-known bookmaker who "knew something," but didn't know "something else," laid £1000 to a shilling against him, and went home a sadder and wiser men. They will tell you how Glenloth and Merriwee won in a sea of mud. They will tell you, of course, of Carbine. And of fortunes won, and fortunes lost. And of dreams. There are always dreams about the Melbourne Cup. The owner of Nimblefoot—Mr. Craig, who kept a hotel at Ballarat—dreamed a "treble"—of Croydon winning the Metropolitan, of Nimblefoot winning the Melbourne Cup, and of his own death. Croydon won, and Mr. Craig died a little while before the Cup was won by Nimblefoot. There is much strange history about the Melbourne Cup.

MEN WHO HAVE WON THE CUP.

Yesterday's Cup was the fifty-third. Posinatus is a Newcastle horse, and so of the 53 races, 25 have been won by New South Wales horses. Victoria comes next with 16 winners. Archer, the first winner of the Cup, in 1861, was owned by a Sydney man, Mr. E. De Mestre, who now lives at Moss Vale. Archer also won the second Cup, and Mr. De Mestre has the unique record of having won altogether five Melbourne Cups. Tim Whiffler, Chester, and Calamia were his other wins. He is one of the grand old men of the Australian turf, and though he retired some 27 years ago—he is now over 80 years of age—he still delights to talk about the old times when he trained his horses for the Cup.

Of those who won the Cup between 1861 and 1878, only two are still living. The one is Mr. De Mestre, whose black jacket and cap were at one time the best-known racing livery in Australia; the other is Mr. James Wilson, sen. The stories about these men and other owners of Cup-winners would fill a large-sized book—of Hurtle Fisher, owner of Lantern, the fourth winner, a man who did more for the thoroughbred of Australia than any man of his time; of the late Hon. James White, the Hon. E. K. Cox, and the Reynolds family of Tocal, who added so greatly to the wealth of Australian blood stock; of "Honest John" Tait, who won the Cup with The Barb, Glencoe, The Pearl, and The Quack between 1866 and 1872, and captured most of the other great races in Australia; of R. L. Dines, the owner of Glencoe, whose indignation with a handicapper for putting too light a weight on one of his horses, and his threat to scratch the horse if another stone was not put on, are among the titbits of the turf; of Donald Wallace, who won two Melbourne Cups with Mentor and Carbine, a man who lived like a millionaire and wagered like one; of William Forrester of Warwick Farm, who was trying to win the Cup for thirty years before at last he succeeded in winning two decisive Cups with Gaulus and The Grafter; of Herbert Power, one of the oldest members of the V.R.C., and a rare sportsman; of these, and many others.

THE STORY THAT WAITS TO BE WRITTEN.

There is not time nor space to tell it here; but there is a story waiting to be written some day about the history and romance of the Melbourne Cup—not in the way of a "Ruff's Guide," nor any volume of that sort, but in the way of a story full of human interest. There is something of romance, too, in the horses as well as in the men—how this was the son of a famous sire, and that was an "accident" that a racing man picked up for "a song" in an outback town, and hid away in his stables till the time was ripe. And they are not all of them sons—the "softer sex," too, has had its representatives among the winners of this famous Cup—as the names of Briseis, Auraria, and Acrasia remind us.

There is a glorious uncertainty about horse-racing; but so far as the Melbourne Cup is concerned, though the favourites have gone down often enough, it can hardly be described as notable for its surprises. Only occasionally does an outsider win. Generally the race rests between half a dozen horses.

This year's Cup was robbed of a good deal of its interest in respect of class by the withdrawal of Duke Foote, who stood out as a horse of uncommon merit among the older division. Duke Foote proved his superiority over the three-year-olds at Randwick; not, however, that this reflects any discredit on the young horses, inasmuch as he may fairly be described as one of the best weight-for-age horses of modern times. Past history has shown that even a good three-year-old is unable to cope with the first-class "old" horse.

And now Posinatus, five years old, has won the Cup. One more name has to be added to the list of famous horses. And in years to come the men who saw him win will tell the story of his race, as the story of other Cups has been told, to the men who were not there.

Other Cups . . . Only one or two remain to tell us of the early ones. And where are now the horses of those days that sent a thrill through a continent? Most of them are gone, too; but some of them live again in famous sons. Here and there is a touch of pathos—as in the case of The Barb (how few remember him!), who, Cup-winner that he was, ended his days in menial tasks at Coolac Creek, near Bringenbrong.

DISMASTED BARQUE.

PIERRE ANTONINE DOCKING.

The French barque Pierre Antonine, which arrived here early in April last, in a dismasted condition, will soon be ready for sea again.

The Pierre Antonine was on a voyage from Monte Video to Newcastle in January last, and when near the Kerguelen Islands was struck by a hurricane, which threw her on her beam ends. The crew had to cut away the bulwarks and stays with axes to bring the barque to an upright position. The topmasts carried away, and the vessel had to come on to Sydney with jury masts. Captain Neidellac, who displayed great courage in the emergency, was decorated by the French Government.

NAVAL PROPERTIES.

STATE'S CLAIM FOR £600,000.

An important statement concerning the position which has arisen between the Federal and State Governments over the transfer of Admiralty House and Garden Island to the Commonwealth, was made by the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) yesterday.

Mr. Cook said, referring to the negotiations for the transfer of Admiralty House and Garden Island:—"On taking office I found that arrangements had been made to concede the right to Mr. Holman of the ownership of the properties, and on that assumption a valuation of them had been made, amounting to about £650,000.

"On the last day that Mr. Fisher held office, that is, the day we were sworn in, the late Prime Minister minuted the agreement to the effect that he did not feel satisfied with it. The probabilities are, had there been no change of Government, the thing would have gone by default, and we should have paid the £650,000 for these properties.

"On looking into the matter, the unfairness of the thing impressed me more and more, and I instructed the Attorney-General (Mr. Irvine) to look into the legal side of the question, with the result that, in our opinion, the State has no legal claim to these properties, and we do not propose to make any payment for the transfer. There was an exchange of these properties many years ago. The State Government of that day agreed to transfer these properties and present improvements in return for a free grant of extremely valuable ordnance land by the Imperial Government. The matter is now being held up, I presume, because of the election, but the latest is that Mr. Holman now tells the public, through the press, that the matter must be settled by the High Court, but whatever the High Court may settle on the purely legal and technical side, it will not alter the fact that a bargain was made by the Imperial Government and the State Government, which gave the Imperial authorities the right to these properties, and believing these properties were theirs, the Imperial authorities gave them to us at the 1909 conference, when arrangements were concluded for the construction of the present fleet.

"However, I do not want to go into this matter further at the present time. Suffice it to say we have declined to pay the £650,000, or any other sum in connection with the transfer of these properties. In the meantime, we are in possession, and I can only hope that another eviction will not take place."

CARS CAPSIZE.

A SMASH IN THE PASS.

BULLI, Tuesday.

Shortly before dark on Sunday, a motor-car, the property of, and driven by, Mr. Ham, Wollongong, was descending a steep part of the Bulli Pass, when the driver lost control of the car, which swerved into a bank and capsized.

The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Ham, Mrs. Castle, and three children were thrown out clear of the car, with the exception of Mrs. Castle, who was pinned down by the seat of the car, the whole weight of which was on the unfortunate lady.

The occupants of a car proceeding to Sydney gave early assistance, and conveyed all parties to Dr. Dixon's surgery, at Bulli. Mrs. Castle was in a state of collapse, suffering from shock. She was taken to Bulli Cottage Hospital. Her condition is improving. The remaining parties suffered from bruises and shock.

It is fortunate that the lamps of the car were not burning, as the clothing of the two ladies was saturated with petrol.

CAR SOMERSAULTS.

HOBART, Tuesday.

A serious accident occurred on the Huon-road, near Hobart, as a result of which Frank Coad, jun. (25), living at Lymington, and his sister May, were admitted to the Highbury Private Hospital, the former suffering from a dislocated hip and the latter from severe cuts and bruises and shock. The car contained a party of five, and was rounding a curve on the Longley Hill, when it got out of control and overturned, flinging the occupants out into the road, and then somersaulted over the bank. Three of the party escaped injury, and the other two were conveyed to Hobart. Their condition is serious.

A VENDETTA.

MAN FOLLOWED ROUND THE WORLD.

TOWNSVILLE, Tuesday.

Mr. Bain, the wireless operator, who was shot at on Saturday night, is reticent as to the possible cause of the attack. He has for some years been engaged in wireless work, and he spent two years at the Wireless Naval Depot at Libau. Subsequently, he went to America, and engaged in his profession at New York; then in the West Indies and Brazil.

He is of opinion that emissaries followed him throughout, and on his return to Europe he was again shadowed. Whilst sitting on the balcony of Maison Hollandaise, facing the Suez Canal, he states a man on a vessel passing through the canal fired at him without effect. He reached Australia in June, and after serving in the Melbourne office for some months was transferred to Townsville.

No arrest has yet been made.

CITY RAILWAY.

SITE FOR CENTRAL STATION.

"THE STRAIGHT THING."

Despite the statement of the Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) that the Government does not now require the Queen Victoria Markets for the city railway scheme, Ald. Meagher succeeded in carrying a motion at last night's meeting of the City Council to the effect that the finance committee consider the question of negotiating with the Government for the leasing of the basement of the building.

Ald. Meagher emphasised the fact that the expert brought from England to report on the subject had recommended the market site as the most desirable for the purpose of a central station, and in the face of this the Minister wanted another site between the Town Hall and St. Andrew's Cathedral. Mr. Griffith had said that the site of the station had been definitely fixed there. It was the next Parliament, not the present Minister, who would definitely fix the site.

Ald. W. P. M'Elhone: The next Parliament will be a Liberal one. (Laughter.)

Ald. Meagher: Whether that is so or not the next Parliament will see that the clean thing and the straight thing is done.

Ald. W. P. M'Elhone hoped that these negotiations would not hang up the scheme for turning the markets, which were not paying at present, into a profitable asset.

The motion to refer the matter to the finance committee was carried.

MAN SHOT.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

A telegram from White Cliffs states that Jack Stewart, who is well known in the district, was brought into town from Yancannia last night in a serious condition suffering from gunshot wounds in the face, neck, left shoulder, and body. His mate, H. M'Kinnon, thought Stewart had gone into the tent, and, hearing a noise in the bush, he thought it a kangaroo, and fired.

SCULLING.

PADDON'S CHALLENGE TO BARRY.

THE DEPOSIT WITHDRAWN.

Mr. Harry Floyd, who was responsible for James Paddon's entry into the ranks of professional scullers, has withdrawn his £100 deposit for a match with Ernest Barry for the world's championship. The money was lodged in July last, and when Mr. Floyd issued the challenge on Paddon's behalf he made no conditions. The time for taking up the challenge has now expired.

Mr. Floyd states that there was no question of expenses raised when he made the original challenge. It was expected that Barry would accept the challenge and row next year. Owing, however, to recent cables received with regard to the contemplated match between Albany and Barry, it has been decided to take down the deposit. Seeing that the time for ratification has expired Albany is quite within his rights in challenging Barry, and it is considered wiser for Paddon to wait until the match is over, or is called off, before challenging for the world's title.

Paddon's victory over Arnst has now brought him into such world-wide prominence that an effort will probably be made to bring him and Barry together. Australian and New Zealand rowing enthusiasts are anxious that the sculling championship, held so long by Australasian representatives, should be brought back to this part of the world.

CITY'S ACCOUNTS.

HOW THEY STAND.

ESTIMATED DEFICIENCY.

According to returns that have been supplied by the City Council officials, the capital value of Sydney properties assessed for rating purposes, less companies' mains, was £57,395,288 for last year, compared with £55,520,646 in the preceding year, and £49,660,600 in 1908, the assessed value for last year amounting to £2,582,788.

The year's receipts, including a cash surplus brought forward from the previous year, aggregated £504,169, rates producing £326,954, and rents, hire, and dues £113,000. The expenditure amounted to £509,002, the chief items being wages and salaries £193,000, metal, stores, and maintenance works £103,687, interest and bank commission £128,990, sinking fund contributions, £32,106, electric light, including streets and parks, £19,644; gas lighting, including streets, £9616; printing, advertising, and stationery, £6358; and fire and plate-glass insurance £2510.

The balance of assets over liabilities is set down at £395,600, compared with £529,136 at the end of 1911. The total liabilities of the corporation at the end of 1912 amounted to £5,654,810. The assets at that date comprised the following:—Bank balance £252,054, outstanding rates £6267, sinking fund £338,534, landed properties £4,207,710, machinery, plant, etc., £1,130,014, sundry debtors £41,916, contra accounts £73,922.

The estimated receipts for the year ending December 31, 1913, total £517,324, and the expenditure £530,625, leaving a deficiency of £13,301.

The interest payable on debentures current last year averaged £3 18s per cent. During the year debentures amounting to £1,106,900 were issued at various discount rates from the city treasury at £4 per cent.

THE BASEBALLERS.

COMING TO SYDNEY.

WHITE SOX AND GIANTS.

"Baseball in America is a high-toned game, and in a big League we have had as many as seven college graduates," declared Mr. Dick M. Bunnell, representative of the big American baseball combination (White Sox and Giants) that is about to tour the world, and added that the players who are to visit Australia have been chosen for their high personal qualities as well as for their prowess in the field. "It is quite a mistake to consider a ball-player as a rough type of athlete," he said.

"This tour is prompted by international sporting sentiment, and is not a commercial proposition," said Mr. Bunnell. "It will enable some of our finest players to see the world, and we hope it will lead to better understandings between sportsmen in America and in the countries we visit. We do not expect a profit on it. The thirty players selected to make the tour, 15 from each league would be a greater attraction than has ever been offered in the State to begin with, and a game or two played in our own country would bring in more money than half a dozen played abroad. No man would be foolish enough to contribute to the enormous expense of transporting such a valuable selection of players round the world as a money-making proposition, though of course we are running it on business lines, with a view to the promoters losing as little as possible. As a matter of fact, they will be satisfied if they get within £5000 of paying expenses. The total cost of the tour will be a quarter of a million dollars. Anyway, this is something more than baseball. It is an inter-national sporting event, and a large number of leading sporting writers from America will accompany the team, while moving pictures will be taken in various parts of the world. Those pictures will be seen by millions of American fans, so the players will be on their mettle."

Mr. Bunnell added that the State Department had promised the tour its cordial support, and the visit of the players to Naples would be coincident with the presence of the American fleet of 25 battleships at that port, where it had been promised that two-thirds of the sailors should have shore leave at once. The President also had promised the enterprise his cordial support. "Our President is an enthusiast," said Mr. Bunnell. "He has the baseball reports put on his desk every day, the same as he has his business despatches."

Speaking of the progress of the American national game, Mr. Bunnell said the day had gone by when the ball player was regarded as a "tough-neck." The same had now reached such a standard that there was scarcely a match in New York that was not attended by eight or ten thousand women. In Washington it was the custom for the President of the United States to open the big games, and in other places this office was performed by the Governor or the Mayor. The game is popular among the clergy, business and professional men, and it is claimed that its constant vigour and action reflects the American national spirit.

"No game," said Mr. Bunnell, "places such a premium on clean living and an alert brain, and good players get large salaries. 'Christy' Mathewson, our leading pitcher, who is coming on the tour, received a salary of 12,500 dollars for six months' work last year. The Rev. Christian F. Reisner, of New York, has described Mathewson as a modern masculine Christian, and the evangelist Billy Sunday has written that he would not take a million dollars for his experience on the ball field.

SMALLPOX.

FIVE ADDITIONAL CASES.

Five fresh cases of smallpox were discovered yesterday. One patient came from Rochefort-street, Erskineville, and all the others from one house in St. Peters. Seven contacts were taken to quarantine.

The persons detained at the Quarantine Station, North Head, now number 173, of whom 63 are actual patients. Six persons were released yesterday.

REVOLVERS FREELY USED.

POLICE CHARGE THE CROWD.

TWO PEOPLE SHOT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The end of the strike is not yet in sight. More mounted men arrived in the city by rail to-day. Some of the shops in the vicinity of the barracks are labelled, "No scabs served here."

A riot, which has been brewing in the vicinity of Mount Cook barracks for the past two or three days, broke with full force just before 8 o'clock last night. At first a fire hose was turned on the crowd of about 1000 persons gathered around the guard at Buckle-street, then bottles and stones flew. The rioters remaining unmovable, mounted special constables were ordered to clear the streets. They carged, and were attacked with bottles, stones, and other missiles.

REVOLVERS USED.

Revolvers were also used by some persons in the crowd, and, it is stated, by members of the special force. This later statement is officially denied.

George Duncan, 9, had a bullet wound in the foot.

Sergeant-major Thompson, who was on duty with the permanent forces, was seriously injured by a missile, which struck him on the head.

All day yesterday the guard at the Taranaki-street end of Buckle-street was surrounded by a crowd varying in numbers from a score to a couple of hundred people, including a number of women. They were mostly of the class well known to the police. Their language was most abusive, and there can be no doubt a great deal of it arose not from sympathy with the strikers but from the habitual enmity exhibited by these people to the forces of law. One of the regular policemen, in the course of the afternoon, walked down in plain clothes to the end of the street. Immediately two or three women insulted him. Gradually taunts and vile epithets began to be varied with missiles. Pieces of iron, stones, and bottles crashed over about the permanent men, who were having a bad time. The crowd had increased in numbers, and at about 7.15 p.m. it numbered between 500 and 1000. A hose, which had been prepared for use that morning, was brought, and a stream of water served to clear the crossways of the crowd. Very soon, however, people had assembled again, and two mounted constables were given orders to clear the streets. They succeeded in inducing most of the members of the crowd to fall back, but two girls remained, and caught hold of the horses bridles. About this time Sergeant-Major Thompson, who was on duty with the permanent force, was struck on the head with a sharp pointed stone. He fell, and was carried away by his comrades. Then special mounted men in two troops, each numbering between 30 and 40, came out. One section charged up Arthur-street, and the other turned down Taranaki-street towards the wharf. The Arthur-street section was hotly received.

The rioters, including women, had scattered at the approach of the troops, and a number of them had stationed themselves behind the fence of a house which stands back several feet from the pavement.

ARMED WITH PALINGS.

As the troops went past the rioters showered forth broken bottles, large stones, and empty tins. The horses reared and plunged, but the riders kept them in control admirably. Evidently the rioters' attack had been planned, for lower down Taranaki-street could be seen a section of waste land, from which bottles and tins had been gathered. The place from which the principal fusillade came had evidently been decided upon previously.

Exactly when the shooting started it was difficult to say, but several most reliable witnesses state that as the mounted troops marched out a man came from under the verandah of a tobacconist and stationer's shop opposite the Garrison Hall and fired three or four shots with deliberate intent. The troops returned to the barrack block, followed by a crowd which was now armed with palings torn from the picket-fence, pieces of gaspipe, with pockets bulging with stones and scrap iron. A great many of those carrying missiles were youths, obviously not waterside workers.

Another charge was made after volleys of missiles had shown the temper of the mob. This time a section of troopers turned up Taranaki-street into Webb-street.

It was stated by a number of eye-witnesses that these men used firearms in the second charge down Taranaki-street. One horseman was surrounded. He dashed down the street, leading a riderless horse, sheltering himself as only a clever rider could between the two into Martin-square. The rioters went round to the other entrance to intercept him with bottles and stones, and he had to run the gauntlet of a crowd of some hundreds.

Throughout the whole disturbance the permanent guard at Buckle-street came in for much ill-treatment. One of their number had been struck down, but the guard stood their ground quietly.

After the last charge the crowd again surged round. Major Hume, coming out in front of a small body of men without arms of any description, succeeded in quietening the mob to such an extent that no further action was necessary. The regular mounted patrol assisted the permanent men to keep the street entrance clear, evidently expecting another charge. The mob had secured a wire rope stretched waist-high across Taranaki-street. At a word from the regular police this was taken away. It was stated that at least one hoop had been thrown on to the road for the purpose of entangling and maiming horses. The crowd thinned out along the streets, but a large number of people continued to stand in front of the Garrison Hall.

Stones were still flying at intervals, and crash went the windows of the hall. The windows of M'Farland's bakery in a portion which was not protected by shutters were also smashed by stones. Young men carrying formidable pickets of wood and pieces of iron piping walked up and down, but attempted no great violence. Later in the evening the Royal Tiger Hotel was attacked, and the windows broken.

WINDOWS SMASHED.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock the strike leaders appeared and urged all the members of the Watersiders' Union and Labour sympathisers to go home. A large number of men and women left, but a crowd of both sexes remained and betook itself to the Royal Tiger Hotel for some more window-smashing. Mounted police served to keep a check on these people.

An official report of the riot, supplied to the Minister for Justice (Mr. Herdman), states that the shooting from under shop verandahs and from upstairs windows in Taranaki-street and from windows in Arthur-street showed that the men were there with the deliberate intention of shooting, for it must be clearly understood that the persons who shot from these buildings were not endangered in any way by the police clearing the disorderly mob off the roadway.

Regarding the statements made to the effect that revolvers were fired by special constables, the Minister said he had personally inquired from four gentlemen who were in charge of special constables engaged in clearing the street, from a number of the special constables themselves, and each and every one most emphatically denied that any shots were fired by any of their party, or that any of them even carried revolvers.

The strike committee to-day made an official statement regarding last night's affray, stating that a member of the strike committee there assured them that, so far as any interference with special constables was concerned, waterside workers were absolutely not responsible.

At the mass meeting held to-day a resolution of sympathy and condolence with the injured persons was passed. It was also decided to write to them, stating that the waterside workers were not responsible for their injuries.

STEAMERS' MOVEMENTS.

The only arrival at Wellington this morning was the Maori. After landing passengers and mails from the South, she proceeded out to the stream. She is to sail, as usual, at 8 o'clock for Lyttelton. According to present arrangements, the Union Company intends despatching the vessel, as usual, for Sydney direct this week in place of the Moeraki, which will lay up in Dunedin. It has not yet been definitely decided which steamer will sail for Sydney, but it is quite probable that it will be the Maunganui, which is due from Australian ports to-morrow.

"LOYAL TO OUR MASTERS."

The following resolution was passed at a meeting of the Merchants' Service Guild this afternoon:—"That members of the Merchant Service Guild view with regret statements in the press with reference to their attitude in refusing to work with free labour, and at a largely-attended meeting to-day decided to refute the statement most emphatically, and to state that we have not the slightest intention of doing otherwise than remain loyal to our respective masters." Similar reports come from Dunedin and Auckland.

At Dunedin, a deputation, representing the masters and mates of the Union Company's vessels in port, waited on the company's local manager, and assured the company of their loyalty, stating that if they had any grievances this was not the time to ventilate them. The crew of the Government steamer Hinemoa, who gave 24 hours' notice this morning, are coming out.

When the House met a Labour member wanted to ask the Minister for Justice a question without notice regarding last night's riot. The Minister told him to give notice. "Well, if there's any blood spilt," said the member, whose voice, however, was drowned in cries of "order."

AN ABORTIVE CONFERENCE.

A statement with regard to the position of the Shearers' Association was made by the secretary, who said he had been waiting anxiously for a settlement of the strike. During last week he had received numerous telegrams from shearers all over the Dominion, asking if they should strike. He had advised them not to, but now finally stated they could not get settlement, and he had sent the following telegrams to the secretary of the Australian Workers' Union, Sydney:—"Keep shearers and all labour away from Maoriland; fight to finish here."

Soon after the conference of masters and men resumed this afternoon efforts at settlement proved abortive, and the conference was adjourned. The deliberations lasted only five minutes. It is understood that the insistence by the employers on the Arbitration Act provision was the cause of the deadlock.

SHIPPING STILL DISORGANISED.

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

Shipping is still disorganised. Probably the Tramway Union will decide that the trams are to cease running the moment the free labourers arrive in Auckland. The union's final decision is expected to-morrow. Seven hundred special constables are now enrolled. It is expected that the invasion of the farmers will commence to-night, when 600 are expected from the Waikato. Farmers throughout the province are unanimous in the decision to assist to maintain order and ensure the handling of produce. It is understood that the Harbour Board and others interested are arranging a scheme to carry on work at the water front with free labour. Details have not been divulged. Matters are quiet at the water front, only the ferries running. Pickets are watchful, and the men are holding mass meetings frequently.

POSITION IN SYDNEY.

The Union Company's steamer Warrimoo, which arrived yesterday from Wellington, was not worked. It was stated by the management last night that a start would be made discharging at 8 a.m. to-day. The vessel will leave for Newcastle in the afternoon for coaling purposes.

RICH ORE BODY.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE BARRIER.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Another important mining development, which will help the future of Broken Hill, has happened, the Central mine (Sulphide Corporation) striking the lode at the 1300ft level. The crosscut struck the ore body on the footwall side at a distance of about 550ft from the shaft. The crosscut is only in a little way, and the assays taken were only grab assay. These give values of 14 per cent. lead, 12 per cent. silver, and 17 per cent. zinc. This is high-grade ore for the depth. The development will not only add to the Central's value, but will probably materially add to the South's reserves, and certainly gives greater prospects to the southern end of the field, commonly called White Leads Flat. This development and that of the North mine again raises the proposition, why should not the other mines, in between Block 14, for instance, secure equal ore wealth. The striking of these ore bodies in Central and North mines adds very many years of life to Broken Hill.

BOOT TRADE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The conference of representatives of the Boot Manufacturers of Victoria and N.S.W. and the Australian Boot Employees' Federation, which commenced at the Chamber of Manufactures last week, was concluded to-day. The question under discussion was the tariff on boots and shoes. The general tariff on boots and shoes and boot and shoe uppers and tops is 35 per cent., and the British preferential duty 30 per cent.

Certain resolutions were adopted in regard to the position, but the nature of them has not been disclosed.

JOURNALISTS' AGREEMENT.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The dispute of the Western Australian branch of the Australian Journalists' Association, which has been for three days informally before Mr. Justice Rich, as Deputy Judge of the Federal Arbitration Court, has been amicably settled after three conferences. Mr. Justice Rich presiding. The second conference brought about an agreement so far as the Perth morning paper is concerned, and the third brought the evening paper into line. The agreement signed is on the basis of the Sydney agreement, less 7½ per cent. in wages. A slight modification in staff proportion is conceded to the evening papers. Lineage is fixed at 1½d, and the employment of a casual reporter is limited to 14 days in a period of two months.

Mr. Justice Rich congratulated the parties on arriving at agreement, in which Mr. De Warre, of Sydney, representing the central executive of the Journalists' Association, materially assisted.

FIRE AND WATER.

SYDNEY AND THE FORESHORES.

A realisation of the inadequacy of the Sydney water supply as a weapon against fire in many parts of Sydney, and of the urgent need for some measure of reform in this direction, has been felt for some time, and found voice yesterday in a deputation from Balmain to the Chief Secretary, Mr. Fred. Flowers. The deputation, which was introduced by Mr. J. Storey, consisted of the Mayor of Balmain, Ald. G. Clubb, and Aldermen Young, Laws, Cohen, Jesson, Mr. J. Bowden, and Mr. J. Goodsir, town clerk.

Mr. Storey explained that the object of the deputation was to request the Government to build a fire-float, which, while able to serve all the foreshores, and indeed the greater part of Sydney, was particularly needed in Balmain, whose foreshores were almost entirely occupied by large timber industries, and where the ordinary water supply was not only inadequate, but in some places absolutely non-existent.

Mr. Flowers, in reply, stated that while he could not definitely promise that the sum required would be placed on the Estimates, the deputation might rest assured that the matter would be seriously considered.

FLEET RECEPTION.

The usual charges are to be made for the use of the Town Hall on the occasion of the citizens' reception to the fleet, and for the united church service on the Sunday.

The Lord Mayor recommended that the charges be remitted, but this was not approved by the finance committee, whose report on the subject was debated at last night's meeting of the City Council. A debate ensued, and the recommendation for the remission of the charges was rejected by 15 votes to 6.

SIR W. M'MILLAN.

SPLITS THE VOTE.

WILLOUGHBY ELECTION.

MR. WADE'S PROTEST.

Sir Wm. M'Millan yesterday decided to contest the Willoughby seat as a Liberal in opposition to the selected Liberal candidate, Mr. Fleming.

A deputation, representing electors of Willoughby, waited on Sir William M'Millan, and presented him with a requisition asking him to contest the Willoughby seat in the Liberal interests. The deputation was introduced by Mr. H. A. Jones, chairman of the Greenwich Liberal League. Mr. Jones said that the requisition was signed by over a thousand voters, and all signatures were genuine.

THE REPLY.

Sir William M'Millan made the following reply:—

"After the deputation called upon me on the 27th October, asking me to contest the Willoughby seat, I decided to send in my resignation as a member of the Liberal Association. Personal explanations may be forced upon me during the course of the present campaign, but I can assure you that, subject to what I owe to my own personal reputation, and in fairness to my supporters in Willoughby, I shall carefully abstain from uttering one word which would injure the Liberal party, or cause the enemy to rejoice.

"I now understand that the conditions I laid down, and which the original deputation cheerfully accepted, have been substantially fulfilled. This requisition, so largely signed with genuine names, honestly obtained, together with your united assurances regarding the feelings of the Liberal electors throughout your district, satisfies me that there is a general desire that I should place my services at your disposal, not to create further discord, but to draw together all the best Liberal elements of the electorate, and thus prevent the return of the socialistic candidate. I therefore accede to your request, and desire through you to return my very sincere thanks to those who have signed the requisition.

"You will readily understand that I have not arrived at this decision without giving the whole matter most anxious thought. There is no question that the Willoughby selection was irregular and illegal, according to the constitution of the Liberal Association. This must have been clear to the members of the central executive. While the members of that executive may have acted as they thought for the best, I hold that no attempt to cut the Gordian knot, no matter what the difficulties and perplexities of the case, could possibly justify the legalising of illegality. I therefore decided to stand for election, provided the Liberals of your district were of the same mind, and had determined not to be bound by this remarkable judgment.

Although I decide to take this step, I am still a stanch Liberal, and do not believe in what are called Independent members. This is not a time for men to 'run with the hare and hunt with the hounds.' I also acknowledge unreservedly the leadership of Mr. Wade. I have stated this in a number of speeches and in interviews with the press, and I need not now repeat the warm terms in which I have always referred to the strenuous and unselfish work of the Liberal chief.

"In conclusion, I may say that no intelligent observer of public affairs can doubt for one moment that the present selection system, especially as carried on without proper supervision during the last few months, is gradually lowering the calibre of our Liberal representatives. When a vacancy occurs, instead of the Liberals meeting together and endeavouring to obtain the services of the best man they can procure, the machine simply opens its mouth and invites all who desire to play the game to jump down its throat. The skilled intriguer, who under other circumstances would have no chance of election, secures promises he has no right to exact, and the political door is often closed to men who could raise the party to that position of influence and respect which alone can counteract socialistic designs and restore the credit of the country. It was not the principles of Liberalism which failed at the last election, but the general weakness of the men, whose feeble hands were unable to uphold its banner. I can only hope that our party will come back with a good working majority, and that the Liberal ranks will be filled with men of such capacity for governing that socialistic anarchy will never again get a chance to rear its head. I hope that our industrial life will free itself from the blatant attempts at class warfare, and devote itself to the development of this great free country."

MR. WADE'S COMMENTS.

ENDANGERING THE SEAT.

"Every true Liberal," said Mr. Wade yesterday, "I am sure, will regret for his own sake and for the cause of the party that Sir William M'Millan should at this stage step into the Willoughby contest. It will only produce one result, that of dividing the Liberal party into two camps and increasing the prospects of the seat being won by Labour. For some years it was the practice of the central body or the Liberal leader practically to select candidates in the different electorates. Local people complained bitterly that personal influence and underground methods were used extensively, and that that system should discontinue. As a result delegates of the Liberals framed a constitution providing for local selection only in the first instance, with the right of appeal to the central executive, against irregularities in the process of selection.

"Following that course of procedure, a very bitter contest developed in Willoughby, which resulted in Mr. Fleming coming out first. An appeal was lodged by Mr. John Haynes on grounds, I have explained previously, utterly unsubstantial, and the appeal was dismissed. In accordance with our constitution, the central executive endorsed Mr. Fleming as the selected Liberal candidate.

"Under these circumstances, I, as leader, have no alternative, so long as the constitution remains as it is, but to be loyal to it, and to use my best endeavours and those of the organisation to secure Mr. Fleming's return. If there is discontent with the present methods of selection, and some other machinery is required, the commonsense and patriotic course is to sink our personal feelings for the time being, and all unite to secure a majority for Liberalism in the coming Parliament, so that a new scheme may be adopted for securing the representation of the people, and which can be made use of in the next general election. Here a new candidate is thrust in to intensify any bitterness that now exists, and is out apparently to fight the constitution to which Liberals should be loyal until it is altered. The weakness of the present method of selection lies in the fact that the Liberal party are divided into two or more camps of partisans before the candidate is even chosen, and the supporters of the rejected men, through resentment, either refuse to vote or threaten to work against the successful candidate, so that abuse characterises the second ballot. Feeling is already embittered in Willoughby, and with Sir William M'Millan and Mr. Fleming in the field, I am afraid there is no escaping the fact that which ever of these two is defeated on the first ballot, his supporters will not rally round the successful man in the second. This may be said to be very wrong and improper. So it is, but we must take things as we find them, and the intrusion of another candidate at this stage can only have evil results.

"Another matter that is most significant is that Sir William M'Millan, simultaneously with being asked to stand, resigned his membership of the Liberal Association. He now says the action of the executive on hearing the appeal was improper, but I will guarantee he has not heard one word of the official evidence that came before the appeal board, being influenced apparently by the wild stories that are in circulation in the electorate. He is out apparently to challenge the organisation, and to challenge my action as chairman of the executive that heard the appeal. His presence is a protest and a condemnation of our conduct, and yet he asks the people to believe he is a loyal supporter of mine.

"While the public may be reconciled to these statements, there is a very grave danger that the present trouble will be severely accentuated. So far as the organisation is concerned, we have no alternative. We must stand to the chosen candidate, and the course that experienced and common-sense Liberals ought to adopt is to get behind the man who is chosen, to sink personal feelings, and make sure of one more unit in the fighting strength of Liberals in the new Parliament. A few more instances like Willoughby will produce the result our enemies are expecting, a defeat of Liberals by Liberals, and three more years of socialism.

CASUALTIES.

GIRL BURNT.

While lifting a kettle from a lighted gas-ring at her home in Bulwarra-road, Ultimo, on October 28, Margaret Accidentall, 9 years, allowed her pinafore to catch alight. She was burnt about the face, neck, and arms, and died the following day. A finding of accidental death was recorded by the City Coroner yesterday.

DROWNED AT PORT DARWIN.

DARWIN (S.A.), Tuesday.

The body of an old man named William Demery, who has been missing since Saturday evening, was found on Tuesday moorning, stranded on the foreshore near Fort Hill sea baths. The deceased was a cook on board the coal hulk Warrego, which arrived here recently from Sydney in tow of the steamer Coolgardie. He leaves a wife and a grown-up family living in Sydney. He was last seen on Saturday evening fishing from the deck of the Warrego, and it is presumed that he accidentally fell overboard.

RAILWAY FATALITY.

Patrick McHugh, 40, a labourer, was knocked down by a railway engine near Sutherland late on October 24. The City Coroner conducted an inquiry yesterday.

Patrick Smith, a painter, gave evidence that at about 12.30 a.m. on October 24, while walking along the line, he was startled at hearing a moan accompanied by heavy breathing. He struck a match and discovered deceased, M'Hugh lying between the rails of the down track. Witness had seen M'Hugh on the Sutherland platform earlier in the evening. He then seemd to have had some drink, although he was able to look after himself.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded.

KURRI KURRI, Tuesday.

At an inquiry held on Tuesday into the cause of the accident by which Wm. Richardson received fatal injuries through the fall of stone from the roof in Pelaw Main colliery, the jury returned a verdict of accidental death, with a rider that it was desirable that in the future 3ft of coal be left up in the roof. This refers to the recommendation of the commission appointed to inquire into the safest method of working tops, that in future 3ft of coal be left in the tops.

FEDERAL POSITION.

MR. COOK EMPHATIC.

"WE MUST GO TO THE PEOPLE."

LABOUR TRICKERY.

"I see that Mr. Holman has been devoting attention to myself, and has been endeavouring to establish an analogy between his own case and my own," said the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) yesterday.

"He declares," he continued, "that his censors have been more keen about the impropriety of his carrying on with a fictitious majority, but he says that I am now doing the same thing. There are some differences which I think need to be pointed out. In the first place, I have not yet tried to carry on by putting men from other parties into the Speaker's chair. I can tell Mr. Holman this, we will not stay in office if we can only do so by resorting to the trickery and strategies that he resorted to during the last three years. Moreover, he says we are attempting to carry on without a majority. It is not quite correct to say that we are trying to carry on—it would be more proper to say that we are trying to carry off to the electors the moment things can be shaped to that end. Our object is to get the Upper House, miscalled in this State the States' House, or Senate, with us. Mr. Fisher and Mr. Hughes are trying their best to prevent an appeal, the only kind of appeal that can be effective, from taking place. The true analogy, therefore, is one between Mr. Fisher and Mr. Holman, and not between Mr. Holman and myself.

"I frankly want to get to the country, and I am anxious that the electors shall resolve the difficulty that has arisen in the Federal Parliament. Mr. Fisher and his friends are trying to prevent the only appeal which can be satisfactory. To this end, they are putting forth every effort, resorting to every subterfuge, indulging in endless garrulity, accompanied by violence of language and opprobrious epithets, all with one object in view, namely, to prevent us from shaping the issues as we desire, so as to get the effective voice of the country.

"Mr. Holman then goes on to say," continued Mr. Cook, "that the difference between us and them is that they have passed an unprecedented programme into law, while my aim appears to be to continue merely to exist. This is true in a sense, but in a sense only. We exist merely while an effort is being made to settle the present uncertainty by an effective appeal to the country, which our opponents are doing their best to prevent. In the meantime we are doing something more than existing. Legislation is not all. I do not think the country is suffering from any want of legislation. The contrary would rather seem to be the case. If we had not been able to carry any large measures of importance, we have done something which, I venture to say, it is worth while doing from the point of view of the country. For instance, we have appointed the Interstate Commission, and have taken care to exclude partisans from its personnel, and the wide approval which has been manifested in every part of Australia is an indication that in that respect alone we have done something which is worth while. We have done another little thing. The only constructive proposal which the late Government put in their programme, apart from the referendum was the establishment of a State line of steamships between Tasmania and the mainland. We have made all arrangements which, for a very small amount of money, will give Tasmania all she wants for some years in the way of an effective and comfortable service. We have made such arrangements also as will, we hope, give them their letters hours earlier than they have been accustomed to get them. There is, therefore, no longer any use for the only constructive proposal in their programme. Another thing we have done since taking office is to turn down the purchase of a station in the Northern Territory. We have also saved the Federal Capital from being interfered with. We have sought and obtained expert advice on this matter, as well as on the subject of wireless telegraphy and the construction of naval bases. We are taking steps as quickly as possible to prevent the repetition of the "man on the job" scandal, and are making arrangements to construct our public works for the future on a contract basis rather than by day labour. At the same time, we are ensuring that fair and just industrial conditions will obtain.

"After alluding to the trouble which has arisen in connection with the transfer of Garden Island and Admiralty House to the Commonwealth, Mr. Cook went on to say: "Mr. Holman calls these important administrative actions nothing, and says we are merely endeavouring to exist. He will find in the sequel that we are doing very much more than that, and, I believe, the important administrative reforms we are undertaking will do infinitely more good to the taxpayers than all the socialistic fripperies of the socialistic party.

"I repeat, the analogy is not between Mr. Holman and myself—it is between Mr. Holman and Mr. Fisher. We want the appeal to the country as soon as possible, but at the same time in the only form in which it can be of any use. Mr. Fisher, like Mr. Holman, is doing his level best to prevent it, as we know to our cost."

NEWCASTLE.

COLLIERY LOSSES.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At to-day's sitting of the Miners' Wages Board evidence was given by Mr. Robert N. Kirk, secretary of the Stockton Borehole Company, showing that from the establishment of that company in 1909 to June of this year the working of the mine resulted in a loss of £6006. The total amount of capital invested in the mine was £81,937.

After further evidence was heard, the board adjourned till to-morrow morning.

FOUND DEAD IN A PIT.

Christopher Kafer, aged 60, was found dead at the bottom of Elermore Vale Colliery this morning. It is thought that he wandered out last night, and fell down the pit mouth.

PELAW MAIN AWARD.

Further discussion was given to the interpretation of the Pelaw Main award at today's sittings of the Miners' Wages Board.

Mr. Peters (miners' representative on the board) thought that when a man on tonnage rates had to leave his working place for another part of the mine he should be paid for the time he was travelling.

The chairman said that he would include a clause to that effect in the award.

METHODIST SYNOD.

ORANGE, Monday.

The first annual synod of the Methodist Church in the western district has just concluded. The president was the Rev. J. W. Collier, of Orange. Bourke, Cocnamble, Narromine, and Wilcannia circuits were exempted for a year from the obligation to take married ministers. As the Nyngan Home Missionary was required to work the Bourke circuit at a financial loss the conference was urged to make the Nyngan Home Mission station a special retrospective grant. To further the work of the church, the synod carried a motion urging upon the Sustentation Society a bolder forward policy and the provision of more agents, and, if necessary, other agents, for the purpose. Resolutions were carried for the special inculcation of temperance. A course of bookkeeping was requested to be added to the curriculum of the Provisional Theological Institution. Resolutions protesting against the growing practice of holding committee meetings of local governing bodies and other public bodies on Sundays; against the compulsory attendance of the citizen soldiers at Sunday parades other than church parades; and congratulating the Minister for Defence on his decision to adhere to the non-canteen system at military camps, were carried. The next sitting of the conference was fixed for Orange.

HARVEST HANDS.

GILGANDRA, Monday.

There are indications of an industrial strike of harvest hands. There are between 30 or 40 men, who have decided to stand out for 8s 4d per day of eight hours, 10s for machine drivers, and 15s for stack builders.

Mr. E. H. Richards, organiser, addressed a number of men here on Saturday night, and urged them to stand out for increased rates. He said the farmers to safeguard themselves against unreasonable demands by the men would appeal to the Arbitration Court. The general opinion amongst farmers is that in the event of not having sufficient labour outside the strikers, they will work in with their neighbours to get each others' crop off, and prove independent of organised labour.

DEATH OF ALD. C. A. WALKER.

A POPULAR MAYOR.

The untimely death of Alderman Charles Alexander Walker, which occurred at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Paton, Baronga, Bennett-street, Neutral Bay, on Monday, has removed a man who had made his mark in the municipality in which he lived.

Alderman Walker was the second son of the late Mr. W. Walker, M.L.C., of Windsor, who was also for eleven years a member of the Legislative Assembly. He was born in March, 1865, at Windsor, and educated at the Windsor Public School, Windsor Grammar School, and under a tutor—Rev. J. Neil Dalton. After leaving school he took a clerkship in the Treasury, where he remained for some years, subsequently becoming articled to a firm of solicitors—Messrs. Shepherd and Crossman. He completed his articles with his elder brother, Mr. F. W. Walker, and was admitted as a solicitor of the Supreme Court in 1891.

He practised at Gundagai, Moss Vale, Dubbo, and Goulburn, ultimately coming to Sydney some twelve years ago. He has lived on the north side of the harbour during the whole of the time. Some eleven years ago he was elected an alderman of the North Sydney Council to represent the Tunks Ward, and about 18 months ago he was elected to the mayoralty in succession to Mr. A. Milson. He was re-elected to the chair last year, being thus in his second term of occupancy. He took a very keen interest in the affairs of the council, and was to be found at the Town Hall every morning. He was a deservedly popular mayor, and carried out his duties with the greatest impartiality.

He was a prominent figure in the social and sporting side of the life of the northern suburb. A very keen bowler, he acted as secretary to the North Sydney Club for many years. He was always ready to take the chair at a sporting function, and was the custodian of a cup won by the North Sydney cricketers last season. He leaves a widow and two sons, the elder 12 years of age. A sad feature in connection with the late mayor's death is the fact that his wife lies seriously ill in a private hospital, having recently undergone a dangerous operation. Alderman Walker's health had not been of the best for some months, though it gave no indication that his end was so near. The cause of death was an apoplectic seizure. Only last week he was presiding at meetings, and had just come through the contest for selection as a Liberal candidate for Willoughby, in which he was well up on the list.

The deceased gentleman's brothers are Mr. F. W. Walker, solicitor; Mr. A. G. Walker, Engineer for Lines, in the service of the Federal Government; Mr. Bruce Walker, solicitor, of Windsor; Mr. Jack Walker, of Aberdeen; and Mr. Arthur Walker, of Casino. There are also three sisters.

The funeral will take place to-day, and will leave St. Peter's Church, Blue's Point-road, for Gore Hill Cemetery, after a short service at 11.15 a.m. The aldermen of North Sydney will attend, and also the Freemasons, of which craft the deceased was a member.

LORD MAYOR'S TRIBUTE.

The Lord Mayor, referring to the death of the late Alderman Walker, said that he was a man who, like many another municipal worker, had sacrificed his own pecuniary interests to the honorary offices that he had occupied. "There is no doubt," said the Lord Mayor, "that he put a large amount of energy into the discharge of his duties as mayor, and it is quite probable, in my opinion, that the vigorous campaign and the enthusiasm which he maintained throughout the contest for the selection of a candidate for Willoughby, reacted to his detriment upon his nervous system."

SCIENCE AND THE BIBLE.

DR. RADFORD'S LECTURE.

GENESIS AND MODERN RESEARCH.

"Any person," affirms the Rev. Dr. Radford, "who starts out to prove that there is no historical, geographical, or other kind of error in the Bible, is doing the most grievous possible harm to Christianity. It is claiming for the Bible something which it never claims for itself, and which the Church has never claimed for it in the course of all the centuries."

Dr. Radford's address last evening at the University, on "Genesis in the Light of Modern Science," delivered on behalf of the University Women's Christian Union, served as "confirmation strong" indeed of his reputation, already well established, as a scholar of broad views and high attainments. The interest felt in his utterances on Biblical questions was shown in the fact that every seat among the audience was occupied almost to the point of discomfort.

In studying Genesis, said Dr. Radford, one was met at the outset by certain formidable difficulties, such as the apparently conflicting accounts of which it was a later combination, or the conflict of its account of creation, and of the chronology which it had been held to implicate with the entirely opposed predications of modern research. He had read many attempts to reconcile Genesis and science on these and similar points, and each attempt had seemed less convincing than the last. The attempt to make Genesis square with science was a perilous proceeding, and due only to an entirely false conception of that in which the true value of Genesis consisted. "The science of the Bible was the science of the age in which it was written;" and the idea that the scientific accuracy of Genesis was an integral part of the Christian religion was an entirely mistaken idea. It was the spiritual teaching beneath and beyond the facts of Genesis that made it the porch of the Christian faith.

What is evolution? asked Dr. Radford. People, he declared, often asked him if, as a clergyman, he believed in evolution. His answer was "Yes, because I believe in God." Evolution was simply the process of construction or creation. Its two main features were the continual development from lower to higher, or simple to more complex forms of life, and a steady and well-marked progress—both of which aspects were clearly brought out by Genesis and the Bible, and corroborated by history.

OXFORD-STREET.

The matter of the widening of the Oxford-street footpath from 12ft to 16ft on the southern side provoked a long discussion at last night's meeting of the City Council.

It was decided to widen the pathway on the understanding that the tenants were to make the necessary alterations to awnings at their own expense.

This is the second record load that the Algoa has taken from the Puget Sound country. This ship took the largest cargo of wheat ever shipped from the Pacific coast, from Tacoma, in 1897, for Marseilles. The ship was on this occasion met at the French port with bands of music, and was the cause of a celebration.

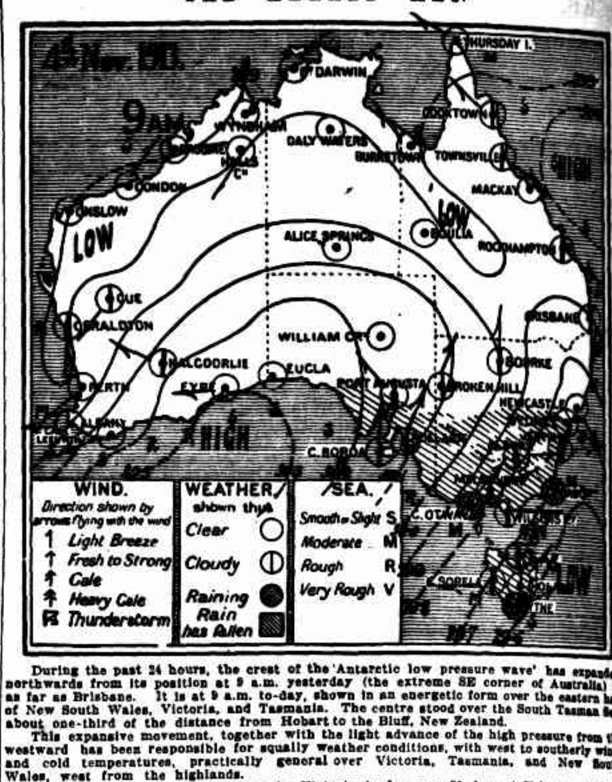
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



During the past 24 hours, the crest of the 'Antarctic low pressure wave' has expanded northwards from its position at 9 a.m. yesterday (the extreme SE corner of Australia) to as far as Brisbane. It is at 9 a.m. to-day, shown in an energetic form over the eastern half of New South Wales, Victoria, and Tasmania. The centre stood over the South Tasman Sea, about one-third of the distance from Hobart to the Bluff, New Zealand.

This expansive movement, together with the light advance of the high pressure from the westward has been responsible for squally weather conditions, with west to southerly winds and cold temperatures, practically general over Victoria, Tasmania, and New South Wales, west from the highlands.

The highest 9 a.m. temperature in Victoria to-day was 50 deg. at Echuca, whilst it was as low as 41 deg. at Ballarat, where it was snowing.

Monsoonal conditions are now pronounced to-day over tropical Australia, and the influence extends through Western Queensland and the extreme NW districts of Western Australia; also along the coast to Perth.

Present indications favour an extension to the coastal districts of New South Wales of the cool to cold, squally, southerly weather, with some very scattered showers in eastern districts.

Ocean Forecast.—Southerly gales on the New South Wales coast, and in the eastern Straits.

ASSAULTING A LAD.

PENRITH, Monday.

At the Police Court on Monday, before Mr. T. B. Clegg, R.M., James and Samuel Protest Brown and Anne Brown were charged with illegally assaulting a 16-year-old lad in their employment named Harold Randolph Bennett, by flogging him and dragging him through a waterhole, on a farm on the Richmond road. Mr. D. McDonald appeared for defendants.

Dr. Higgins gave evidence of the boy being brought to him and examining him, and finding him covered with bruises, in all probability caused by flogging. Defendant made some serious charges against Bennett, giving this as a reason for flogging him.

The Bench fined James Brown £5, professional costs 21s, costs of court 9s, in default two months' hard labour in Parramatta Gaol. Seven days were allowed to pay.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

Preparations have already been made for work to be resumed at the British Australian Oil Company's works at Murrurundi and Newcastle.

Men are employed putting in foundations and condensers at Murrurundi, and boilers at Newcastle. It will be four or five weeks before they will be able to obtain any crude oil.

Mr. W. R. S. Grey, the manager, arrived last Tuesday from Scotland, and is expected in Newcastle either to-day or to-morrow. It is the intention of the company to provide the necessary plant to double the output.

STATE FINANCES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

BATHURST, Tuesday.

"The finances of the Government," said the Premier in an interview to-day, "are criticised this morning both in the leading columns of the 'Herald' and by Mr. Wade in a published statement. The 'Herald' criticism, in brief, amounts to this: That we made a blunder over our finances in the year 1912-13, which resulted in a deficit; that this must be admitted; that nobody can guarantee that there will not be a further occurrence of a similar blunder. That is perhaps true. Guarantees are very difficult things to give. But the 'Herald' itself suggests inadequate control by the Premier as the main cause of this blunder. I don't conceal my own large measure of agreement with this view. The necessity for close control by the Premier is a thing which experience has taught us.

"The 'Herald' says that the 'policy of carefulness, of closely watching outgoings, of undivided control, has been set aside.' This might have been more or less true during our first year or two. It is not true now. There is close watchfulness of the outgoings, and there is undivided control. My colleagues accept the necessity for this as readily as I do, and the position of the Premier in the Cabinet is now quite clearly understood.

A TILT AT MR. WADE.

"What Mr. Wade has said is less effective as criticism, because it is less fair. He says that we spent £9,000,000 more than he did in his last year, and that the country will never know how it was spent until the Liberals have access to the departmental accounts. The Auditor-General will doubtless appreciate this commentary on the value of his own tireless annual researches. The public is, I think, a little weary of this continual declaration of Mr. Wade that he knows nothing about matters he ought to know something about, and that, being ignorant, he 'naturally assumes' that things are at their worst. If Mr. Wade wants information, there is an official way of getting it.

THE NINE MILLIONS PUZZLE.

"To begin with, Mr. Wade's nine millions is eight and a half millions. The increase in expenditure from revenue was £3,100,000. Of this £2,100,000 was, as Mr. Wade well knows, increased working expenses of the railway system, which no Government could have, or should have prevented. The remaining million went, as Mr. Wade must also know, on increased expenditure in connection with the hospital and charities vote, education, the police, works administration, and a minimum wage for the Public service, which, together, took £900,000. The remaining £100,000 is the outcome of the natural expansion of the other departments of State. That accounts for £3,100,000 of the total.

"Our loan expenditure we did increase £5,350,000 over Mr. Wade's last year. The main items in this increase were that he spent on duplication in his last year £200,000, and we spent £1,000,000. He spent on rolling stock and other railway requirements £980,000, and we spent £1,880,000. He spent on tramway requirements £250,000, and we spent £880,000. He spent on the Harbour Trust £145,000, and we spent £421,000. He spent on the requirements of the Sydney and Newcastle Water Boards £265,000, and we spent £540,000. There was thus an increase in loan money handed over to these statutory boards—the Railways, the Harbour Trust, and the Water and Sewerage Boards—of £2,850,000.

"Does Mr. Wade seriously suggest that he doesn't know how the money was spent by the boards, or that the public has not had value for the money laid out. He provided for their purposes in his last year of office close on £2,000,000. We provided close on £5,000,000. This money was provided by us because it was asked for by their responsible public servants. We increased the outlay on country town and water sewerage supplies by nearly half a million, and on each of the three items of railway construction, school building, and the brick works, and other works, of a quarter of a million cash. This accounts for the best part of another two millions, and the balance is made up principally of the transfer to the closer settlement account of £300,000, and other minor items which need not be enumerated.

"Mr. Wade is hopelessly wrong in his estimate of the relative economy of day labour and contract, as I have proved up to the hilt by figures quoted in Parliament, and as has been again proved by the figures recently submitted to the Queensland Parliament by Mr. Paget, Minister for Railways, a Liberal like Mr. Wade, but a Liberal who has the faculty of appreciating the value of evidence, the lack of which is apparently the principal defect in Mr. Wade's mental composition."

FINANCIAL.

STOCK EXCHANGE DEPRESSION.

Business has been frightfully depressed in the London Stock Exchange of late, and its 5000 members are reported to be barely earning a crust. We speak figuratively, of course. A broker, writing on the subject, thus summarises the cause of the dulness:—

(1) The unprecedented trade boom, which has necessitated the employment of vast sums of capital.

(2) The stringency in the Money Market, due to the hoarding in nearly every European country against the possibilities of international conflagration.

(3) The gigantic sums which the public have subscribed to fresh issues of Government bonds, Railway stocks, and industrial concerns.

(4) The lack of confidence in the present system of taxation.

He concludes with the following significant remarks, which may not be without a local bearing:—"But surely all these reasons are nothing compared to the chief one, which, I contend, is due to the enormous losses sustained by the public during the last twenty years, by the flotation of worthless companies, the gross over-capitalisation of good ones, and, still more so, by the scandalous methods employed of starting the market quotation of several companies at grossly inflated premiums—the American Marconi issue being an excellent example. Here is a great opportunity for the committee, in the interests of the public, to try and remedy matters by a more careful scrutiny of all companies seeking a special settlement and quotation."

It certainly, in our opinion, is the duty of the Stock Exchange to protect its clients—the great investing public. If this is not done Nemesis is bound, sooner or later, to strike back.

BANK OF AUSTRALASIA.

Lord Aldenham presided at the half-yearly meeting of the above institution in London on October 3. He said:—"In the last few years we have always begun these meetings by saying that we have had a very prosperous year, that the seasons have been good and that apparently the seasons are continuing to be good. I am glad to be able to say that once again. I do not think, however, that any of you who remember the many years of the drought time, during which the chairman had to begin with a very different story—the best he could say was that he hoped the drought was coming to an end—will feel at all inclined to blame us for not having departed from what has been our practice during all these years, namely, to strengthen the bank in every possible way. As you have seen by the report, we have recommended that another £50,000 be placed to the reserve and that another £20,000 be applied in reduction of bank premises. You have for many years supported us in making these appropriations and I am quite certain you will support us again. The accounts do not present any very large variations. Comparing them with those presented a year ago, which is fairer than to compare them with those for the immediately preceding half-year, you will see that specie, bullion, Government notes and cash balances have slightly increased. Loans at call have diminished. Most of that money has been put into securities, and a good deal of it has gone in further advances. On the other side, our circulation is again down a little. That, as has been explained to you several times before, proceeds from our circulation all through Australia having been withdrawn by the Act which made it impracticable for any but the Commonwealth Government Bank to issue notes in Australia. Our deposits have been a good deal increased, which is a very satisfactory feature. They have risen from £18,196,000 to £18,515,000."

THE NEW ISSUE.

Regarding the bank's new issue, the chairman said: "The capital remains as before, £1,600,000, in this balance-sheet, but this is, of course, the last time you will see that figure of £1,600,000, for the future it will appear as £2,000,000. In the next line you will see the figure of £569,200 under the heading of new share account. That item has never appeared before, and will never, I presume, appear again. When I say it has never appeared before I should say that it certainly has not appeared within the memory of anybody here. That, of course, merely represents the money that has been paid on the new issue. That new issue, as you know, was a complete success, and I think the bank is very much to be congratulated on the success of the issue. Of the £1,000,000 paid up £400,000 goes to increase the capital and £600,000 will appear as swelling the reserve next year. I am glad to say there is a very good demand for money now in Australia at remunerative rates, but I need hardly tell you that the superintendent is keeping great control over those advances, and is using the utmost care that every advance we make shall not only be remunerative, but shall be thoroughly safe. That, I think, is all I need say with regard to the accounts."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Most departments of business were quiet yesterday. The demand for oils from the retail trade was sustained, but parcel business was very restricted. The fall back in the value of spot pipes had made buyers nervous. Distributing prices of linseed oil, however, were without alteration. Meggitt's reported the sale of 10,500 gallons of Australian raw and boiled oil. Prices for distributing lots were 3/5 and 3/7. Whitelead was firm at late rates, £39 for Champion's and £37/10/ for other brands. In the latter case the quotation was purely nominal, because, as the import prices of first and so-called second brands are the same, importers are naturally importing first brands solely. Cottonseed oil was meeting with a little inquiry, but only absolutely necessary business was being done, as the far cheaper oil to arrive about the commencement of the year is finding a great deal of support.

All heavy metals were slow. The wires now arriving on the market have been bought at cheap prices, but the local values are kept up because of the small quantity coming forward. Once there are adequate quantities in sight prices will return to a reasonable level. As some No. 10 black has been bought below £7/15/ c.i.f. and e., and will soon arrive, an £8/15/ local market should be reached. Wire netting had little demand, and what demand there was came principally from the pastoral districts. All shelf lines were inquired for, and had sales at full rates.

A few sales in tea were recorded. Two hundred and fifty packages of Javas sold, prices ranging from /10½, and other transactions included 200 packages of Ceylons up to /11½. Rates obtained were fully up to late auction bids. According to a cable from Calcutta there was a strong demand for all teas, and high prices were ruling. The senders of the cable were most optimistic as to the future of the market.

CORNSACKS FIRM.

Cornsacks showed no weakness yesterday. Figures as to shipments by the Itola, which left Calcutta on October 22, made the position stronger if anything, only 2500 bales being brought to Sydney. There was, however, no merchant business, principally because holders would not go below 7/7½ ship's slings for September shipments. The country was buying freely, especially those districts where stripping was near at hand. Prices were regular at 7/9 net to rails, or where terms which were asked for 8/. For October shipments 7/8½ was wanted, but here again there were no buyers. Branbags had a limited business at 6/10½, delivered, discount; and woolpacks were quoted at 3/3. The shipments by the Itola are as follows:—

JUTE SHIPMENTS PER ITOLA.

	Woolpacks. Bales.	Branbags. Bales.	Cornsacks Bales.
Sydney	75	400	2500
Melbourne	—	350	6650
Adelaide	—	—	2050
Total	75	750	11,200

Melbourne is greatly in want of sacks, and the 6650 bales will be a welcome addition to her stock. To get a proper idea of the position it is necessary to compare shipments to date this year with those of the nearest boat of last year. This boat happens to be the Uganda, which left Calcutta on November 3, 1912, and the totals may be compared thus:—

TOTAL CORNSACKS SHIPMENTS TO DATES MENTIONED.

Adelaide	13,500	13,463
Total	94,025	43,825

From the Sydney total this year there must be taken 6600 bales imported by the Sugar Company, which leaves us with 43,000 bales in round numbers, which, using round numbers again, will bag 39,000,000 bushels. At least a forty million crop seems assured. The future then of the market depends on three factors, whether the harvest will be early right through the State, if it is at the normal time the amount to be brought down by the next two boats, and thirdly the number of second-hand sacks (Liverpool once used) which farmers buy. These second-hand sacks cannot be used for shipment, and it is also to be remembered that the millers have decided, in conjunction with the shippers, to pay a penny a bushel less for wheat where second-hand sacks are used. This last fact will militate against many being bought. As to last year's figures there was a heavy carry over from 1911. The shipments were late and second-hand bags were freely used, there being no penalty against them.

BROKEN HILL STEEL WORKS.

The monthly report of the Broken Hill Proprietary Co., Ltd., gives some details of the progress of the company's steel works at Newcastle. From this we learn that the construction of the foundations is making good headway. The foundations for the blast furnace and stoves and blast furnace boilers have been finished. The driving of piles to support the foundations of the steel furnace and buildings are nearly finished. The concrete work for the mill boiler foundation is approaching completion. Dredging and reclamation work has been carried on continuously. The loading jetty is finished; the first consignment of machinery, consisting of a 60-ton crane, has arrived, and was landed at this jetty. This crane will be put together immediately, and be ready for unloading of the heavier portions of the plant, that are expected to arrive towards the end of November. The complete ironwork for the blast furnace, together with the blowing and hoisting engines, were shipped by the steamer Anglo-Egyptian, which left New York on October 5. The first shipment of boilers for the power plant will be made from England early in November, and the gas producers are in course of shipment from America.

BREADSTUFFS.

THE MARKETS STEADY.

Both the local and the overseas markets were steady yesterday. In London Australian cargoes were steadily held, and what sales took place were made at a slight advance. Locally values were without change, but there was no weakening. January to March delivery was held for 3/5½, though buyers were disinclined to go above 3/5½. January to June was offering at 3/5½, and April to September at 3/5½. Farmers were selling steadily at 3/ at country stations. It was found impossible to get any considerable quantity at a lower figure, as growers did not like to set a bad precedent of breaking the full three shillings. Old wheat was nominally 3/6, but the demand had practically ceased.

Flour was dull at the association quotation of £8/10/. Bakers expect the new flour to be lower, but against this must be put the probability of bran and pollard remaining low, and, of course, if bran and pollard are low the flour cannot be reduced to any extent, if at all, unless wheat falls greatly below its present price. Bran and pollard yesterday were £4 per ton. A year ago the price was £6/10/ for bran and £7 for pollard.

ARRIVALS BY RAIL.

Wheat and Flour.—The receipts of wheat and flour by rail at Darling Harbour and the suburban railway stations for the week ended November 5 are as follow:—

	Wheat.		Flour.
Week ended November 5	3,030	..	765
A week ago	4,494	..	1,193
A year ago	2,186	..	1,124

The total arrivals to date for the statistical year, which commenced on December 1, compare with those of the corresponding period of the previous three years as follows:—

	Wheat.		Flour.
1911-12	397,244	..	41,320
1910-11	491,312	..	41,317

	Yesterday.		Last year.		2 yrs. ago.
Wheat, per bushel	£0 3 6	..	£0 3 9½	..	£0 3 6¾
Flour, per ton	8 10 0	..	9 10 0	..	8 15 0
Bran, per ton	4 0 0	..	6 10 0	..	5 0 0

ADVANCE IN NEW LAID EGGS.

According to private cable advices the London butter market is unsettled. One message received yesterday ran: "The New Zealand strike will have the effect of holding prices, but a slump is sure to occur on the arrival of the accumulated supplies. Coupled with advices from Australia of light quantities afloat and the prospects of a good season, London buyers anticipate prices will be reduced to 112/ per cwt. after Christmas." On spot there was no change. The requirements of the local trade were filled at 105/ per cwt., delivered in boxes.

As most agents anticipated, there was an advance in the value of new-laid eggs. Supplies were fairly heavy, but as the demand was exceptionally brisk sellers were able to secure up to 1/ per dozen for the best samples. Ordinary qualities were to be had at from /11. There was no movement in the case varieties. River consignments were offered at from /9½ to /10, and Railway and South Coast lots from /10 to /10½ per dozen. Small or inferior quality duck eggs were dull, but prime large descriptions met with a brisk inquiry at up to /11½ per dozen.

There was no further movement in the value of bacon. Stocks of sides continued light, but flitches, middles, and shoulders were plentiful, and in some instances difficult to clear.

A FEATURELESS MARKET.

Trade in the forage and grain section of the Sussex-street markets yesterday was dull, and values showed but little change from the previous day.

A fresh shipment of 1100 bags of Victorian onions was available. Brown Spanish bulbs were worth £8/10/. Silverskins in bags from £6/10/ to £7, and cases from £7/10/ to £8 per ton.

Only a couple of hundred bags of potatoes were landed by the Victorian produce steamer. No prices were actually fixed, but it was anticipated that they would open much above last week's levels. It was thought that Snowflakes would be worth from £3 to £3/10/, and Excelsiors from £3/10/ to £4/10/ per ton.

BLISTERS ALL OVER BODY AND FACE.

Cambridge-street, Penshurst, N.S.W.—"When my baby was only a week old he came out in big white mattery blisters all over his body, face, hands, and feet—in fact, he was one mass of blisters. They would break and go into sores, and I could not bathe him. He would scream when I touched them. He could not sleep night or day. I was just worn out with him, so I took him to a chemist, who gave me ointment, but it did not do him any good. A friend got me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and I was pleased to see when I had bathed him with Cuticura Soap and applied Cuticura Ointment for two days they began to dry up. He seemed to get relief from the first time I used them, as he would sleep. They seemed to soothe him, and by the time I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment the sores had all disappeared and never even left a mark on him.

"I may also tell you of my eldest girl who got a cut on her nose, from which she suffered for about four months. I bought some Cuticura Ointment, and by the time I had used half a tin it was healed." (Signed) J. Lye, October, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T, Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

MINING.

FALL IN COPPER.

MARKET MORE ACTIVE.

CARPATHIA'S NEW DEVELOPMENT.

There was nothing attractive about the cabled advice from London yesterday morning, for it showed the London Stock Exchange prices easier, with a drop of 42/6 in copper.

Despite this fact, the market was more active, and the result was a slight improvement in the volume of business transacted. However, there was no improvement in share values. Indeed, the trend of values was on the easy side all round, except in the case of Carpathias owing, in that case, to a new development referred to in another portion of this issue.

In the copper division, Mount Elliotts sold weakly on terms, whilst Mount Morgans and Mount Lyells sagged a fraction. Hampdens were also offered slightly under late sale rates, despite the fine copper output and profit earned last month.

Barriers were slack, both as regards the amount of business done and the prices realised. The gold section was quiet, with Bullfinch Proprietary selling on terms at an easy figure.

An improved note was sounded in the case of Ardlethan stocks, and firm prices were realised in the sales booked in Southern Cross, Wild Cherry, and Carpathias. In the case of the latter improved offers failed to draw sellers, who had learned as soon as the buyers did of the new surface development 250ft from the No. 1 shaft. It was bad news for the "bears," for they had counted upon the shares dropping gradually to 5/, and so enable them to "cover" what they had sold from 20/ down to 19/.

Business was on very quiet lines during the afternoon. The most noticeable transactions were weak forward sales in Mount Elliotts. It was stated in certain quarters that private information received by mail from London does not speak well of recent developments in the mine. Moreover, the fact that the declaration of the expected 10/ per share dividend is hanging fire, had a bad effect on local operators, and possibly accounts for the weakness. Carpathias (con.) eased a shade towards the close of the day.

MINING NOTES.

The gold production of Western Australia for October was 111,508 fine oz, valued at £473,658. Compared with the previous month this shows a decrease of 3660oz, but an increase of 5342oz on the total for October of last year.

The manager of the Brackenjay Deep Lead, Limited, reports:—"The water is now practically beaten. Am almost down to the old pump on the bottom. Expect to be driving towards wash in a day or two."

The manager of the Cope's Creek Dredging Company reports for the week ending November 1 as under:—"All work running smoothly, paddock cleaned in, and boxes run down for a recovery of five tons."

Another group of Australian mining investors have turned their attention to the tin-bearing areas of the Federated Malay States. The Malayan Tin Syndicate (N.L.), recently formed in Sydney, has commissioned Mr. W. H. Crompton, who has had 17 years' experience in the States, and has recently been on a visit to Sydney, to return to the States to inspect and report upon, and if advisable, to secure for the syndicate certain tin-bearing areas personally known to him. Mr. Crompton left Sydney for the States last week. The capital of the new company, of which Mr. J. E. Cocker is secretary, is £4000, in 400 shares of £10 each.

Mr. J. E. Cocker, secretary, writes:—"Advice received by mail from the manager of the Oxide Creek, Limited, states that he is now crosscutting and driving both ways from the bottom of the winze, also that he has restarted No. 1 south drive at the adit level, and is now in 59ft. This will be continued to 100ft, and then crosscut to No. 2 vein, which will then give good ventilation. The manager is now on his way to Sydney to confer with the directors regarding the future policy and shipment of ore, and will arrive at the end of the week. Negotiations are under way for a large string of camels to enable the carriage of ore to the head of the railway, which is now open for traffic to within 20 miles of Mount Cuthbert.

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., has received a cable message, dated London, November 3, giving the following quotations:—Silver, 2/3 7-16 (official quotation); lead, £20/12/6 (buyers' price); company shares, £1/15/3 (buyers' price); spelter, £20/7/6 (buyers' price); and copper £71/10/ (buyers' price).

At the C.S.A. Mines, Ltd., all work is still confined to No. 2 level in both the C.S.A. and Tinto sections. In the C.S.A. a crosscut started west from the south drive, opposite No. 2 crosscut, is in blue slate, with small patches of copper ore. A lead stope has been opened between the two shafts, and some rich ore passed through. The face is patchy, and requires a good deal of dressing. A rise started on the copper vein, west of the old shaft, is up 7ft, with the ore still maintaining its width and copper values. The ore in all the stopes is very patchy. At the Tinto mine the main stope is opening up well, the ore being the richest broken. A rise of 8ft has been put up in the back of the old copper stope, has also exposed rich lead ore. During the fortnight 218 tons were shipped to the smelters, and 162 tons were broken and hauled, leaving a balance of 18 tons at grass.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MINES.

KALGOORLIE, Tuesday.

On the Associated Northerns Victorious leases the east drive at the No. 5 level has been extended to 300ft in ore of good average value. A plat is being cut at No. 6 level.

The Sons of Gwalia has cabled to London:—"No. 19 level, face of south drive off winze at 1510ft south has reached co-ordinate 1544ft south, and assays 85/ per ton over a width of 120in."

TONGKAH COMPOUND.

MONTH'S FINE OUTPUT.

A telegram received yesterday at the Sydney Stock Exchange from the Melbourne secretary of the Tongkah Compound Tin Dredging Company stated that during the past fortnight the dredge in a run of 275 hours treated 31,950 cubic yards of material, and recovered 32 tons 10cwt of tin oxide. This shows that the value of the ground treated was 2.24lb of tin per cubic yard. The record for the four fortnightly periods is as follows:—

	Tons.	Cwt.
First fortnight, 30,600 cubic yards	32	14
Third fortnight, 23,800 cubic yards	26	—
Fourth fortnight, 31,950 cubic yards	32	10

ORE DESPATCHES INCREASING.

ARDLETHAN, Tuesday.

At the White Crystal mine, the plat has been cut to 6ft. Crosby's shaft is down 26ft, and Stackpool's crosscut is in 30ft. The contractor is dismantling the winding engine and gear at Wyalong. There is a good supply of water.

The Carpathia is sending in 100 tons of ore per week to the railway station, while fully 50 tons per week are being sent from other mines not yet so well developed.

The Marethon is being extensively opened up, and a large quantity of ore is being bagged ready for despatch and treatment at Breadalbane.

GREAT COBAR, LIMITED.

COPPER OUTPUT STILL DECLINING.

The output of the Great Cobar, Limited, from October 1 to October 21 was as follows:—Copper produced for month at Cobar, 503 tons, containing by estimation 736oz gold and 884lbs silver. The concentrates on hand are estimated to contain 67 tons of copper, 86oz gold, and 520oz silver.

The detailed figures for the past six months are as follow:—

	Copper. Tons.		Gold. Oz.		Silver. Oz.

B.H. PROPRIETARY MINE.

In dealing with operations at the above mine during the four weeks ended October 22, chief interest centres in the diamond drill work. The manager's report states:—"The diamond drill hole south-west from Delprat Shaft, on the 650ft level, was extended 209ft in country rock (total, 1060ft from the shaft). At the 800ft level the diamond drill bored a further 171ft (total, 411ft from the shaft). It is still too early to expect to intersect a continuation of the mineralised zone proved on the 650ft level."

During the period in question, the ore-dressing mill treated 22,368 tons of ore, whilst 18,900 tons of dump-tailings were reground, together producing 3063 tons of lead concentrates and 4230 tons of slimes. Improved work is being done in the ore-dressing mill, owing to the introduction of two small jigs to assist the Wilfley tables, by dealing with the coarse portion of material reground in the tube mills. At the zinc separation plant 6930 tons of zinc concentrates were produced, assaying 45.9 per cent. zinc, 7.48 per cent. lead, and 13.0oz silver per ton.

At Port Pirie the Ropp roasting plant and the Dwight-Lloyd plant operated normally. One of the roaster stacks was struck by lightning, and partly demolished, causing a stoppage of the roasters for about 5 hours. No one was injured. Four smelters were in active operation at the close of the period. At the spelter plant the Hegeler roaster ran continuously. The supply of skilled labour at the zinc distillation furnaces was short. From seven to eight furnaces have been running according to the labour available. At the close of the period seven were in operation.

WILD CHERRY TIN MINE.

Report for the week ended October 31:—

Hough No. 1 shaft: Drive south discontinued for the present, and a drive north commenced. Now in 3ft. Ore body disturbed, two separate branches of ore, with a horse of mullock between. Both bodies, however, are strong, with every appearance of improving.

South No. 2 shaft: Drive south, 100ft level, extended 8ft, total 41ft. Ore of a high grade for 2ft while going fully 15 per cent. of tin. Balance for width of drive high grade milling ore.

Dam now completed, and contains 6ft of water. Arrangements well forward for removing, and erection of the plant will be carried on forthwith.

CARPATHIA TIN MINE.

The mine manager reports for week ended October 1 as under:—

"No. 1 Shaft.—North drive: Having these men on to other work for the greater part of the week. This face remains as formerly reported. South drive: Driving 4ft, making 10ft. This face has been mixed the whole week, the upper portion being porphyry, while the lower has been milling ore, which is now rising fast, displacing the porphyry. Both sides of this drive are ore.

"No. 3 Shaft Rise.—Rising 6ft, making 6ft on a lode the full size of the rise, with ore on both ends and eastern side, all of which is milling value. This ore requires no classing whatever.

"No. 4 Shaft Stope.—This stope is continuing much the same as formerly reported, and producing milling ore.

"No. 5 Shaft.—Sinking 4ft, making 7¼ft, on a lode much the same in size and values as reported last week. This advance, after picking, has been bagged as milling ore, which is scattered freely over the shaft bottom.

"On Wednesday last I discovered a new find 250 degrees west, 189ft from No. 1 shaft, on which I am now down 6½ft, exposing milling ore 2½ft wide by 4ft long, with ore continuing on both ends. At 4ft deep this assayed 15.8 per cent. M.T., with values increasing as I descend. This body showing kaolin and free tin resemble No. 1 shaft ore body very much.

"Since last report I have despatched the following:—From mine to Ardlethan station, 81.12 tons, from Ardlethan to our Barmedman battery, 84 tons."

The chief interest in the above report centres in the paragraph regarding the new discovery 189ft westerly from No. 1 shaft. The value of the ore is over £24 per ton of crude material, and is certainly an important development.

MOUNT DAVID COMPANY.

LABOUR'S LAND POLICY.

THE LEASEHOLD FALLACY.

(BY T. I. CAMPBELL.)

II.

"I think we need not look for a more damaging indictment of the leasehold 'system' than that given by Mr. Trefle's predecessor, Mr. G. S. Beeby, when he exposed 'the system' as applied to the Murrumbidgee irrigation settlement area, in debate in the House on July 30 last, in the following words:—

"'Some 200,000 acres of land were purchased at an average price of £3 per acre. We, as a trust, cut the lands up and made them available for settlement, and we tried to apply the leasehold principle on the 2½ per cent. basis. The only way it could be done was to estimate the capital value of the land, making all allowances, and, having got that, then, instead of charging 5 per cent. on the capital value, double the value and charge, 2½ per cent.'"

Will Mr. Trefle explain if, in the instance he submitted, when he compared Liberal and Labour tenures, the same "system" was followed, and if the £2 value homestead farm is represented only by land of an actual value of £1, and the "Labour policy settler" within six months of the date of confirmation will be compelled to lodge £3, and waste time he can ill afford in battling with Mr. Trefle's department on his capital value, or lose the right of appraisement?

Schedule XXX. of the report of the department shows the areas which became available during the year ended June 30, 1912, and homestead farms to the extent of 118,681 acres were gazetted as available to that date, of which only 93,254 acres had been applied for by 145 applicants.

Schedule XLIV. shows the area included in homestead farms, i.e., allotted to applicants, to be only 27,815 acres.

Will Mr. Trefle explain this apparent dearth of applicants for his ideal tenure, in favour of which he requested his Red Range audience "to allow him to give a simple yet convincing proof of the great superiority of the homestead farm over the conditional purchase area, or so-called 'freehold' of the Wade party?"

CROWN LEASES.

The same schedules also show the position in regard to Crown leases made available by the Labour Government, and at June 30, 1912, the area made available for application is shown as 709,639 acres, of which 311,360 acres were applied for by 116 applicants. Of this area only 168,492 acres had been confirmed to 54 applicants.

SUBURBAN HOLDINGS.

Mr. Trefle also enlarged on the merits of suburban holdings, which he described as "a small area of land for residential purposes, and might vary from a quarter of an acre to an area of several acres. The title is perpetual, like that of the homestead farm. The annual rent is 2½ per cent. on the unimproved capital value, subject to reappraisement once every 20 years."

"The area available under this heading at June 30 was 9258 acres, of which 1964 acres had been applied for by 48 applicants, and 21 confirmed, for an area of 1085 acres.

"Will Mr. Trefle in his next political address, and from his departmental knowledge, account for the singular scarcity of applications for the Labour policy tenures, and also bring the above figures up to date, showing the areas made available and the respective numbers of homestead farms, Crown leases, and suburban holdings allotted, and also, what will be specially interesting, the area not applied for, although available for application for a considerable period?

REAPPRAISEMENT.

A further noticeable omission from Mr. Trefle's "policy" speech is the reason why the holders of homestead farms and Crown leases are denied the right of having the unimproved capital values on which their rentals are based appraised, unless application, together with a fee of £3, is lodged within six months after confirmation.

Is it that the Labour policy "is revenue before settlement?" The disclousures under the details of schedule XXVI. give some illuminating facts as to the haphazard manner in which settlement values are determined. For the year ending June 30, 1912, 763 applications for reappraisement of conditional purchases were received; 556, covering 76,731 acres were dealt with and approved by the board. The capital value prior to appraisement was £95,029, and this was reduced by the board to £62,288. There were 599 applications for reappraisement of conditional leases, of which 424 were approved, covering 200,762 acres, and capital values reduced from £155,952 to £119,871. Thirty-one applications, covering 5620 acres, for reappraisement of homestead selections were approved, and capital values reduced from £15,876 to £12,561; and 16 applications covering 7141 acres of conditional purchase leases were approved, and capital values reduced from £7741 to £5604.

Will Mr. Trefle explain if the new settlers to be established on the Labour tenures are to be the victims of the same incompetent valuers, and the reason they are practically denied redress in this vital matter unless they lodge £3 and apply within six months? It cannot be the matter has not been under his notice, as on page 24 the Under-Secretary points out "The total number of holdings appraised for capital value was 1021, consisting of conditional purchases, conditional leases, homestead selections, and conditional purchase leases. The former capital values were £214,598, and this total was reduced to £[illegible],251, equal to a reduction of 35 per cent."

RENTAL APPRAISEMENTS.

Little consolation will be found by the holders of the Labour "Policy" tenures that they will meet with similar consideration when their period for appraisement is reached, as it is a peculiar fact that the tendency as regards "rentals" is quite the other way, as the report shows that "280 conditional leases, 237 settlement leases, one improvement lease, one occupation license, five homestead leases, and one pastoral lease were appraised for 'rental value.' The result of the appraisements was that the rental derived was raised from £11,871 to £[illegible], an increase of about 11 per cent." It is the policy of the Farmers and Settlers' Association to secure to the settlers established on the Labour policy tenures the permanent right of appraisement, and also the right of conversion to freehold. Will Mr. Trefle say if he will openly oppose these reasonable rights?

IMPROVEMENT LEASES.

"Mr. Trefle submitted a synopsis of long term leases granted by respective Governments since 1894, and attempts to take credit for the Labour party in this connection. The public memory is notoriously short-lived, and Mr. Trefle presumably trades upon that fact in the hope that the result of the land scandals and the resultant commission of inquiry are forgotten. The period that really matters in this connection is that covered by the Crick administration, and Mr. Trefle shows that the area granted in improvement leases between 1899 and 1904 was 5,259,365 acres.

"The Labour party take the credit for all the democratic legislation of that period, as they undoubtedly held the balance of power in Parliament, and the Government of the day was powerless to carry out any legislation 'or questionable administration' without their direct support. Mr. Trefle at this time was a member of the Executive Council of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, and is aware of the determined opposition by the association to the locking up of the expired leasehold area in improvement leases.

"The Royal Commissioner, Judge Owen, elucidated the reason why the protests of the association on behalf of bona-fide settlement proved futile, and the wholesale corruption that had been practised and which resulted in the locking up for 28 years of many millions of acres of desirable settlement lands. The great bulk of these lands where the grossest abuses were perpetrated, singularly enough, was in constituencies represented by Labour members, and the constituency that earned the greatest notoriety was the Castlereagh electorate, now represented by Mr. Trefle; and several of the prominent members of the present Labour party gained a most unenviable repute through the exposure of their connection with the corruption that was exposed.

"Mr. Trefle, with the full knowledge as to the locking up of settlement areas, contested the Upper Hunter electorate as the direct representative of the Government responsible r the most unsavoury page in the records land administration. Mr. Trefle shortly er, qualified as a Labour candidate, and decease of the Labour member for agh, was 'given' the seat by the party, in the hope that he would ct in some way the opposition of the and Settlers' Association to the platform and policy. efle's attacks upon the association ently part of his obligation for his elevation, and his results have proved as barren as the Labour land policy. Further pertinent questions that may be asked of Mr. Trefle are:—

"What areas of improvement leases and 18-section leases are now held in the electorate he represents?

"What steps has he taken to withdraw large non-residential leases within 15 miles of a railway that are suitable for residential settlement?"

MR. TREFLE'S CAMPAIGN.

DUBBO, Tuesday.

Mr. Trefle addressed a large meeting in the Protestant Hall on Monday night, dealing with Mr. Wade's recent speeches in this part of the State. During the Carruthers-Wade Government no fewer than 113,103 acres were locked up in 19 improvement leases in the Castlereagh electorate alone, and some of these leases had as long as 22 and 23 years yet to run. As a matter of fact, Mr. Trefle was endeavouring this year to withdraw 800,000 acres of improvement leases throughout the State.

Dealing with the adjustment of differences that existed between the Forestry and the Lands Departments, Mr. Trefle pointed out that already numerous adjustments had been made. In the Castlereagh electorate alone the adjustments had enabled him to secure 26,160 acres, which were no longer necessary for forest preservation or propagation, and this work was going on rapidly throughout the State, and considerable areas would, therefore, be available from this source during the next six months.

Mr. Trefle said that only in a few instances had the Minister for Works undertaken public works that exceeded £20,000 in cost, and not referred to the Public Works Committee under the Labour regime, but, on the other hand, there were many cases of this kind that Mr. Wade did not mention to the electors, such as the Wollongong water supply, at a cost of £116,048. Camden Haven Harbour works, which cost £67,000, and £23,000, was expended before the matter was referred to the committee. The Registrar-General's department cost £76,000, and £70,000 was expended before it was referred to the committee; the Morisset Hospital for Insane cost £144,000, and £17,000 was expended before it was referred to the committee. The Labour Government never flouted the existence of the Public Works Committee in this fashion. Yet this was the criticism of the men who were the greatest sinners.

Referring to the case of Thomas Bell, Mr. Trefle pointed out that Bell was now in possession of 26 acres of land three miles from Dubbo, from which he had made a living for himself and family by pig-farming. He did not take the criticism of this action in this case seriously. He regarded it as the miserable efforts of men bankrupt of politics, and of political ideas. When 200 acres of a special lease only a mile from the same locality was granted to a large squatter some time previously for a term of 13 years, the Pastures Protection Board and his critics said not one word of protest, but they were prepared to fight a pig-farmer. All the forces at the back of Mr. Wade were the same forces against him and Mr. Thrower in this part of the State. These forces were resisting the right of a pig-farmer to get 26 acres, but had swallowed up millions of acres themselves in the past.

A SERIOUS POSITION.

MR. WADE REPLIES TO MR. TREFLE.

Speaking yesterday of Mr. Trefle's campaigning at Dubbo, Mr. Wade said:—Mr. Trefle has been making very wild statements in Dubbo, and he seems to lose control of himself when he gets away from the guiding influence of the official under-secretary. First, in justification of Mr. Griffith's continuous breach of violation of the Public Works Act, he retorts by quoting cases in which, he said, the Liberals had likewise ignored the law. For instance, he took the Wollongong water supply which cost £11,000. Had Mr. Trefle's under-secretary been at hand he would have told him that, as the work cost less than £20,000, the law allows it to be done without reference to the Works Committee. As for the Registrar-General's building, this was referred to the Works Committee and approved of by that body, and subsequently authorised by Parliament. Next, the Hospital for Insane at Morisset, at a total cost of £144,000. This was referred to the Works Committee in 1910, and recommended by them to be carried out. Lastly, the Camden Haven Harbour works. This was referred to the Works Committee, thoroughly inquired into, with a recommendation that the south wall be completed. No doubt in this case the cost intimated by the Works Committee was exceeded but the committee cannot lay down limitations with regard to cost, their sole function is to recommend or reject a work. In all of these cases, therefore, the law was complied with by the Liberals. Mr. Trefle was woefully at fault.

"Mr. Trefle," said Mr. Wade, "next criticises my statements at Chatswood with regard to finances. In making a comparison on that occasion I compared with three years ending June, 1910, with the three years ending June, 1913. Mr. Cann has since taken exception to these dates, and says we ought to start from the following October, when the Labour party came into office. I therefore adopt that view to avoid all fault-finding, and it turns out that although there was a surplus to the credit of the revenue fund account of £134,000 in the middle of October, 1910, that account was in debit at the end of three years in October last to the tune of as near as possible £2,000,000. There is the further fact that, although the trust fund represents nearly £6,000,000 they have drawn on it to the extent of over £6,000,000, and on November 1 the actual amounts which could be utilised legally were less than £100,000. It means we are fast approaching the dead end and financial stopping point.

"The Government has been living on its trust funds for some months past at a most extravagant rate of progress, and it means, unless fresh supplies of loan money are available in the course of this month, the supply of funds for public works must inevitably come to an end. It would look as if this is being done to embarrass the Liberals if they come into office. Mr. Cann has said he had no difficulty in raising loans in London. If so, his duty was to raise those loans and not make these outrageous inroads on the trust funds. As things are now developing, the trust fund will soon be exhausted, and the obvious duty of a Government when they do raise fresh loans will be to reduce this enormous overdraft in respect of trust funds. In the meanwhile they are making merry in the last orgie of desperate and condemned men, and if they leave the Treasury absolutely empty they will be able to turn round at once and say it was the Liberals who stopped public works.

"Again Mr. Trefle attempts to defend himself against the charge of locking up improvement leases near Quambone. These areas total 60,000 acres, and would have become valuable for settlement if the Crown had agreed to withdraw them at various dates during the last eighteen months. Quambone and district have been crying out for land. These areas have been still held by the lessees, and till September last no practical steps had been taken to release these lands for settlement. Mr. Trefle says now he had taken steps with regard to a large portion, but the fact he cannot get away from is that the bulk of this land could have been made available and actually taken up at least 12 months ago by those who are land-hungry. They still remain in the occupation of three or four persons only."

DAY LABOUR SYSTEM.

MR. GRIFFITH AT CAMPERDOWN.

At 9.30 last night, after addressing a meeting at Kogarah, Mr. Griffith, Minister for Works, spoke to a crowded audience at the Camperdown Town Hall. He was received with cheers.

"When I deliberately entered into war with the tremendous vested interests," said Mr. Griffith, "by the establishment of day-labour in this State, I knew that the men against whom I was undertaking this campaign, if I interfered with their great interests, would make me the subject of personal attacks, and I am not going to squeal so long as the people stand by me." (Applause.)

When he went into the Public Works Department, he said, the contractors simply fixed their own prices, and fortunes were being piled up at the taxpayers' expense through the Public Works Department by these great organisations.

Instead of spending money, contended Mr. Griffith, the Government was saving money. They were saving the difference between what the railways cost under the day-labour, and what the contractors had charged for them. Why should not the men work under day-labour for Arthur Griffith as well as for Joe Brown. (Applause.) The Works Department had collected better machinery than any in Australia, and he (the speaker) was able now to work cheaper than the contractor himself.

Taking the whole of the railways constructed in the last series of years of day-labour, and those of the contract system, adding them up, and taking the actual cost to the public as the books of the department showed the lines under the day-labour system had cost £1000 less per mile than under the contract system. Queensland lines found the same thing, perhaps the contractors there wanted bigger profits. (Laughter.) It was because he was breaking down combines and establishing day-labour in such a manner that they would never go back to the contract system, that he was being attacked. Mr. Wade said at Gulgong he would get rid of the brickworks. It would pay the combine to put down £500,000 to get rid of those brickworks alone. These were the biggest brickworks in Australia to-day, and he (the speaker) was going to further increase them and to meet public requirements until he got bricks down to 20s a thousand. (Applause.)

LABOUR SELECTIONS.

The executive of the P.L.L. has selected or endorsed 84 candidates in connection with the ensuing State elections, and at its meeting on Friday night it will deal with the electorates of Ashfield, Byron, Clarence, Gordon, Hastings and Macleay, and Wollondilly.

ALD. G. W. HOWE AT REDFERN.

Alderman G. W. Howe, the selected Liberal candidate for Redfern, addressed a meeting in St. Saviour's Hall, Young-street, last night. Mr. George Stedman, president of the Liberal committee, occupied the chair.

Alderman Howe said it had taken the Labour party 20 years to get into power. They had been in office for three years, but on December 6 the Liberal party would gain the day, and it would be many years before a Labour Ministry was in power in New South Wales again. In reply to a question the other night, Mr. M'Gowen said he had relinquished the leadership to a younger man; he was getting on in years. After 20 years as leader of the Labour party, and getting into power, surely it was humiliating to the people of Redfern to see that their friend, Mr. M'Gowen, had to give way to Mr. Holman.

Mr. Howe said after 20 years as leader of the Labour party Mr. M'Gowen should have had sufficient experience to continue as Premier. This was the third time he was contesting the seat against Mr. M'Gowen. On the first occasion he was defeated by 600 votes; on the second occasion he was defeated by 375 votes; but this time he felt he would defeat James M'Gowen. (Applause.)

After touching on the taking away of the Federal Government House, Alderman Howe said he wished to refer to the contract for 80 locomotives that was let to an English firm by the present Government. As an engineer, he knew full well what he was talking about. The locomotives manufactured at Eveleigh were equal to, if not better than, any manufactured in any part of the world. They had some of the finest machinery and finest workmen in the universe. At Eveleigh they were manufacturing about two locomotives a month, and at the Clyde works they were also manufacturing about two locomotives a month. He could assure them that this was not half enough. With the rapid strides they were making, and with their population, they wanted at least twice that number. But the sum of £407,000 had gone out of the country for these locomotives. No one could have done more to prevent that than Mr. M'Gowen. Had he given the Commissioners the land and the money they could have erected larger workshops, and thus employed more men at the railway workshops, and spent that money in New South Wales, instead of sending it to England.

He strongly advocated land boiler inspection. If it were right and proper to inspect marine boilers, it was equally right to inspect the land boilers. The Labour party had been turning the sod for railways that were to cost £4,000,000. Did they think they were all likely to be built? They were purely vote-catching tactics. He did not believe in the members raising their own salaries; he believed in paying by results. He would pay members at so much per sitting. If an ordinary workman did not attend his work he was not paid, and if a member of Parliament did not attend to his duty he should not be paid. (Applause.) He strongly advocated irrigation and water conservation. If returned he would urge the construction of large irrigated areas throughout the State, and the conservation of large bodies of water, so as to provide against drought. In one of his speeches Mr. M'Gowen had said if they placed him in Parliament he would stay in Redfern as long as he lived. But after going home and hobnobbing with the King, Redfern was not good enough, and friend Jim had gone to Petersham to reside. All his interests, his property, and works were in Redfern, and he (Alderman Howe) spent most of his time here. If the people returned him—as he felt sure they would—they would never regret it, for he would devote all his energy and brains to the interests of Redfern. (Applause.)

Mr. W. T. Dick, M.L.C., also spoke, and was well received.

MR. GRIFFITH ON MR. WOOD.

Speaking last night in the St. George electorate, Mr. Griffith said that Mr. Wood was undoubtedly in a position to know better than any other man in the House which was the best party, for he had belonged to them all. He first got into Parliament by signing the Labour pledge. When it suited him to "rat" from that party to the Lyne party, with a prospect of a portfolio, it did not take him long to make up his mind, and when a similar prospect allured him towards the Wade party his action was just as prompt. In other directions also Mr. Wood had attained notoriety, if not distinction. He was the only member of the present Parliament who could claim to have been thrown out for insulting each of the three Speakers who had presided over him—viz., Mr. Cann, Mr. Willis, and Mr. Morton.

MARRICKVILLE.

MR. S. DAVISON.

Mr. S. Davison, whose candidature has been endorsed by the National Progressive Association, addressed a large audience on Saturday night at the corner of Marrickville and Illawarra roads. The cause of the people's trouble was, he said, machine politics, which enabled men to stand as candidates without stating their political faith.

PETERSHAM.

Mr. J. J. Cohen, M.L.A., the selected Liberal candidate for Petersham, opened his campaign at the local Town Hall on Monday night. Mr. John Wheeler (Mayor) presided.

Mr. Cohen, who had an excellent reception, opened his address by referring to the maladministration of the Labour Ministry. He disposed of the "leg-iron" party cry at the last election by stating that the Labour Government, which had made capital out of the Peter Bowling incident, had never had the courage to remove the existing departmental regulation relating to leg-irons on prisoners in transit.

The speaker next touched upon Labour's commission on food. He described its results as farcical, and quoted its report that was tantamount to the indisputable fact that fish sold in cans was canned fish, and that salt fish came from the sea.

The Fair Rents Bill, "brought in in the dying hours of a dying Parliament," was adversely criticised. The real and obvious reason for high rents was the law of supply and demand.

Mr. Cohen received a vote of confidence.

ST. GEORGE.

Mr. W. H. Wood, M.L.A., on Monday night addressed a meeting in the Shady Nook grounds at Brighton-le-Sands.

He declared that the Liberal party believed in collectivism in so far as regarded certain things being run by the State. But the Labour party wanted every enterprise to be directed by the State. Regarding the recent gas strike, under the Liberal party's Arbitration Act the ringleaders only would have suffered punishment. M'Gowen's Ministry, however, exercised no discrimination. It fined every man.

Mr. W. Taylor spoke in support of Mr. Wood, who was cheered as he left for the railway station.

THE UNIVERSITY.

The monthly meeting of the senate of the University was held yesterday at the University.

On the recommendation of the Professor of Veterinary Science the following examiners were appointed to act with the professor and lecturers in conducting the annual examinations in veterinary science:—Veterinary pathology and bacteriology, Dr. J. Burton Cleland; veterinary surgery and obstetrics, Mr. C. J. Sanderson, M.R.C.V.S.; veterinary osteology and arthrology, Mr. S. J. Gilbert, M.R.C.V.S.; veterinary medicine, Mr. A. P. Gribben, M.R.C.V.S.

The following recommendations contained in a report from the building and grounds committee were approved:—1. That a union building for the women students be built on a site near the men's union, the two unions to have a common dining-room with separate entrances. 2. That the ground floor of the southern wing of the main building now in process of erection be used for additional lecture rooms for the faculty of arts.

PROPOSED NEW LINE.

Recent advices from America state that the new line of steamers to be established between San Francisco and Australia by Gibson and Co. in January next will fill the place of the Australian mail line operated by Andrew Weir and Waterhouse and Co. three years ago. According to the present plans of Gibson and Co., the steamers will begin loading at San Francisco, and will then proceed to Astoria and Tacoma, steaming from the latter port to Melbourne. It is stated that J. T. Steeb and Co. are to be the agents for the line in Tacoma. It is understood that the new line will carry lumber as well as case oil and general merchandise, taking coal to San Francisco on the return journey.

LATE SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Pony and galloway racing will be the attraction at Ascot this afternoon, and the programme to be run through promises interesting sport. Large fields are assured, and as it will be necessary to run several races in divisions a start will be made at 12.30 p.m. Special trams will run direct to the course; while the ordinary service to Botany will also be available. The track is reported to be first-class going, and the results of the racing may be anticipated as under:—Maiden Handicap: Strixin, Rose Color, Alcion. Flying Handicap: Miss Luna, Sea Lark, Yandon. Fourteen-two Maiden Handicap: First division, Sir Bobadil or Lady Poseidon; second division, Miss Vanadium or Waukennot. Encourage Stakes: First division, Sweet Success or Sir Coolie; second division, Experiment or Coryphene. Fourteen-one Handicap: Thea Merv, The Rigging, Realm. Ascot Handicap: Mortar, Argyle, Playtile. Fourteen Hands Handicap: Honeymoon, Green Rose, My Dove.

Training matters were very dull at Randwick yesterday morning, there being very few gallops. On the tan Winora, Malthusian, Graceille, and Blairgour all did strong work, and Popinjay spurted freely, as did Stainer and Asote. St. Albyn and Minting Boy negotiated six furlongs in 1m 21s, while over the same course Sylvamour took 1m 25s. Britain put in a steady round, and several others pottered about.

The next meeting of the Wallsend Jockey Club will be held on Saturday, November 15, when £600 prize money will be distributed over six events. Nominations close with the secretary (Mr. E. Croucher) at 4 p.m. to-morrow.

"Subscriber" is informed that Ladies' Man was scratched for the Melbourne Cup at 2.45 p.m. on October 23.

The Queensland Turf Club will continue its November meeting to-day, when the principal event on the card is the Queensland Cup of 1000 sovs, to be run over two miles.

Our Perth (W.A.) correspondent wired last night that E. King, who rode Ejector in the Leak Handicap, and Flavigny in the Bohemia Handicap at the recent W.A.T.C. Meeting, was found guilty by the stipendiary stewards of malpractice in each case, and disqualified for five years.

AUSTRALIAN TROTTING CLUB.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT MEETING.

Yesterday was the second day of the meeting organised by the Australian Trotting Club, for the joint benefit of the South Sydney and St. Vincent's Hospitals. The experience of Monday's dust on the trotting track caused the transference of the races to the inner grass track. The only mishap was when Luke fell in the Flying Mile, near the rails. His injuries were so severe that he had not risen when the meeting concluded.

Three fines were inflicted. The owner of Ding Dong was fined £10 for non-scratching in the Encourage Handicap. The owner of Island Lady was fined £25 for non-scratching and disobedience in connection with the Novice Unhoppled Handicap. May King's owners were fined £10 for non-scratching in the Flying Mile. KEYS v TURNER.

The veteran lightweights, Hock Keys and Bob Turner, are to meet at the Stadium, Rushcutter Bay, in a 20-rounds contest this evening. Each is a man of great skill, who has enjoyed champion rank, and they were rivals some years ago for the lightweight title. They have both made a successful return to the ring, and a clever, scientific contest is expected. The match will begin at half-past 8, being preceded by a 10-round match between Battling Taylor and Jack Mayne, to begin at 8 o'clock.

Johnny Summers (Eng.) and Harry Stone (U.S.A.) are to box their second match at the Stadium on Saturday next. The previous meeting was in Brisbane, where, at the end of the twentieth round, Mr. Baker awarded the match to Stone on points. Subsequently Summers said that a slightly injured ankle had robbed him of some of his speed. The weight limit conceded by Stone is 10st 8lb.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA.

The Quinlan Grand Opera Company successfully continued their season at Her Majesty's Theatre last night with a second performance of "Faust," under Herr Richard Eckhold's baton. Therein Miss Felice Lyne repeated her touching impersonation of Marguerite, in which she sang with all her accustomed charm. Mr. Spencer Thomas, in the same part, and Mr. Graham Marr as Valentine, well sustained the interest of those characters, and Mr. William Anderson again appeared as Mephisto. Gounod's opera was cordially received by a large audience.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the last performance of "Samson and Delilah" will be given, with Franz Costa and Edna Thornton in the central characters, when the beautiful scenery costumes and ballets of the Biblical music-drama will enhance the dramatic effect of the music. In the evening, at 8, "Madame Butterfly" will be staged for the first time this season.

THE THEATRES.

At the Criterion Theatre this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, there will be a matinee performance of Bayard Veiller's powerful drama "Within the Law," in which the full company, including Muriel Starr, Mary Worth, Lincoln Plumer, E. W. Morrison, and Eric Maxon will appear. The plan is at Paling's.

"The Mysterious Janers" will give a matinee performance at the Theatre Royal this afternoon at 2. Mystery never fails to fascinate, and the clever illusionist's entertainment is drawing good houses. The spirit paintings are creating exceptional interest. The plan is at Paling's.

Mr. Allen Doone will appear in "Barry of Ballymoore" for 10 more nights. On Saturday, November 15, there will be a revival, for one week only, of the popular play "Molly Bawn." On the following Saturday, November 22, a new romantic Irish drama, "The Rebels," will be staged for the first time in Australia. The plan is at Paling's.

A dramatisation of Marcus Clark's novel "For the Term of His Natural Life" is the present attraction at the Adelphi Theatre, where the George Willoughby Company are drawing good houses nightly. The play contains many exciting situations, and the audience is kept in a state of excitement throughout.

The star turn at the National Amphitheatre at present is that provided by Callen and Emery, who appear in a miniature musical comedy act. Other excellent turns are The Two Storys, and Matthews and Mack. The Driscoll B-Hoys will make a reappearance to-day. The final heat in the "Mr. Doone" competition is announced to take place on Friday evening next.

On Saturday next a company of amateurs will give a matinee performance of "Dandy Dick" at the Criterion Theatre, in aid of the Waitara Foundling Home.

JOHN M'CORMACK CONCERTS.

Mr. John M'Cormack will give four farewell concerts at the Town Hall on Saturday, Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, November 15, 17, 19, and 20. Messrs. J. N. Tait announce that the well-known tenor's programme will be decided by popular vote.

CONCERTS AND RECITALS.

This evening the city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, will give an organ recital in All Saints' Church, Hunter's Hill, of which he was organist in 1888. Vocal items will be rendered.

Miss Kathleen Darby will give an elocutionary and dramatic recital in the Mosman Town Hall this evening. The programme will include excerpts from "As You Like It." There will be a number of assisting artists.

The twenty-third mid-day organ recital will be given in the Pitt-street Congregational Church to-day at 1.15 by Miss Lilian Frost. The assisting artists are Miss Hazel Doyle and Mr. Cyril Monk.

Mr. Stanley Leadley, a young Sydney baritone from the studio of Mr. Andrew Black, will give a concert in the Sydney Town Hall to-morrow evening. He will sing "Prologue" (from Pagliacci), "Eri tu," "Un Ballo" (Verdi), and ballads. Assistance will be given by Miss Vera Watt, Miss Ilma Gresty, Mr. Bryce Carter, Mr. Frank Hutchens, and the Y.M.C.A. Glee Club. The plan is at Paling's.

To-morrow evening a recital by students of the Ancelon-Chapman School of Elocution will be given in St. James's Hall. The programme includes scenes from "The King and the Commons," "Leah the Forsaken," and "Romeo and Juliet." The plan is at Paling's.

On Sunday night, at the Glaciarium, the Vice-Regal Concert Band, under the baton of Mr. L. De Groen, will present an interesting programme, including the "Peer Gynt" Suite (Grieg), the overture to "Tannhauser," and a selection from Ponchielli's "I Promessi Sposi."

The pupils of Miss Gwyn Smith will give an elocutionary recital in St. James's Hall on Tuesday, November 11. The plan is at Paling's.

The 10th annual invitation pianoforte recital by the pupils of Mr. D. Henry Stewart will be given at St. James's Hall on November 12. The plan is at Paling's.

On Thursday, November 13, Miss Katie Rappenecker, a young soprano, will give an invitation concert at the Concordia Hall. There will be a number of assisting artists. The plan is at Nicholson's.

A concert will be given at the Town Hall, Mosman, on Friday, November 14, the proceeds to be devoted to purchasing and converting the "Rangers" building, Cremorne, into a public institution.

Miss Elsie Pidcock (a pupil of Mr. John Mansfield) will give a concert in St. James's Hall on November 15. The assisting artists include the Fiona Glee Party, Norma Asprey, Gladys M'Intyre, Leslie Piper, and Bryce Carter. The plan is at Paling's.

The Walter Bentley Players will give their usual monthly recital at St. James's Hall on Thursday, November 20. Mr. Bentley will appear in four scenes from "Macbeth," supported by Miss Ida Gough as Lady Macbeth.

The David Jones, Ltd., Musical Society will give their third annual concert in the Concordia Hall to-morrow evening. The assisting artists include Miss Annie Mills, Mr. Ernest Archer, Signor Torsillo, and Mr. Graft West. The plan is at Paling's.

MELBOURNE CUP RACE IN SYDNEY.

Arrangements were made for securing moving pictures of the race for the Melbourne Cup yesterday from start to finish. These pictures, which will include comprehensive views of the Flemington course and the people assembled there, will be screened at the Crystal Palace Theatre this afternoon—or less than 24 hours from the starting of the race.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.

"Cross versus Crescent," a film illustrating in vivid manner the fall of Constantinople in the year 1453, will be screened at Spencer's Lyceum Theatre for four more nights only. On Monday next the management will present "The Prisoner of Zenda," a production by the famous Players Company, with Mr. James K. Hackett in the title role.

This evening, at the Glaciarium and Olympia Theatres, the West management will screen some films illustrating the Melbourne Cup of 1913. The star drama at present being shown is "Protea," a tale showing how a beautiful adventuress thwarts the spies of the secret service. De Groen's Orchestra renders incidental music.

At the Crystal Palace Theatre to-morrow the principal attraction will be a film production of Shakespeare's delightful comedy, "Taming of the Shrew." Some films of Briens Lake will also be shown. The Lyric Theatre will screen on Thursday a drama, "Joyce of the North Woods," a tale of a brother's noble sacrifice and its thankless requital. At the Colonial Theatre to-morrow the star drama will be "The Midnight Message," a sad story of a father's terrible mistake. The second of the "Who Will Marry Mary?" series, in which a Spanish Don proposes, will be shown at the Empress Theatre on Thursday.

The star films at the Imperial Theatre—foot of William-street—are "Humanity," which is being shown for the last nights, and "Protea," a 5000-feet film of absorbingly interesting adventures. On Saturday evening next an exclusive film, "London by Day and Night," will be screened for the first time in Australia.

The principal attractions at the American Picture Palace include an exciting drama, "Hero Among Men," "The Gold and Gilded Way" (a sensational drama of the goldfields), and "New Love and Old."

The Dandies opened at Eden Gardens, Manly, on Monday night to a crowded and enthusiastic house. The artists proved up to a high standard, and versatile, Mr. Cuthbert Rose and Misses Leroy, Gardiner, Morton, and Griffiths were all particularly good. The chorus and ensembles were excellent.

NORTH COAST RAILWAY.

MACKSVILLE, Tuesday.

The Nerong arrived here on Monday with a quantity of railway material. The clearing gang is at work. The horses and drays are expected here immediately, so that the work will be in full swing next week. It is to be hoped that the Government will give the dredging of the bar attention, as the expeditious carrying out of the work will depend on the facilities for landing the railway material.

HIGH COURT.

A POLITICAL SUIT.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The High Court, which has been sitting for a week under the presidency of Mr. Justice Barton, has concluded the Western Australian appeals, and given its reserved decisions.

W. N. Hedges, formerly representative for Fremantle in the Federal Parliament, who has filed a petition against the return of Mr. Burchill last May, asked the Court to give an order that he be allowed to inspect and take extracts from rolls used in rechecking votes, and also take into his possession a certain roll.

The application was dismissed, with costs.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES AND THE B.M.A.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. George T. Clarke writes of a lodge doctor receiving a flat rate of £1 per member for 1000 members, with separate fees for special services, and right of private practice.

This is disingenuous and calculated to mislead people who do not know that here the doctor has to attend for the stipulated fee, not only the member, but his wife (if married) and his children (if any), or widowed mother or mother-in-law, or others dependent on him, so that allowing the safe average of three extra to each member, it would mean that the doctor would have to attend 4000 at 5s per head. The public should not lose sight of this fact. How much time would a doctor under such conditions have for private practice? Yet the B.M.A. is only asking this sum per member and family in the city, and about 1½d a week additional for members of country lodges.

I am credibly informed that barbers' clubs exist amongst members of the classes who belong to friendly societies, and each member pays a shilling a week to be shaved, and yet these same men resent being asked to pay sixpence per week for medical attendance on themselves, their wives and families.

In England, doctors working under the National Insurance Act get 8s 6d per capita, not per family. If paid at the same rate for an average family, they would receive 34s per week, which, in England, where the cost of living and doctors' expenses are less than here, is equal to about 50s per week here, and yet our doctors ask less than half this sum. Truly, I am astonished at their moderation.

Most of the members of friendly societies have had large increases to their wages during the last few years, and in view of this, and the greatly increased cost of living, they should (and many of them do) recognise that the doctor is entitled to a rise also.

Those who resent the doctors' "demands" are examples of a section of employees who, while properly objecting to being sweated themselves, are the worst kind of sweaters when they come to be employers.—I am, etc.,

CONTRACTORS AND THE GOVERNMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I notice a report in your paper from Gundagai. The Premier, Mr. Holman, in an address to his constituents, has re-echoed the parrot-cry of his Minister for Works, Mr. Griffith, that there exists a ring of contractors and it is arranged that first one contractor gets a contract, then another, by mutual arrangement between them. I being one of the oldest contractors in the State, wish to give the accusation a flat denial. There is absolutely no truth in the statement. I have been president for several terms of the Public Works Contractors' Association, and if any ring existed I surely would have known of it. Perhaps the general public do not know that in all works the officers of the several departments make estimates of their value, and if tenders were in excess, fresh tenders would be called, or the department would carry out the work themselves. I am, etc.,

OUR OPINION.

WE HONESTLY THINK, THAT LOOKED AT FROM A RESIDENTIAL STANDPOINT, OR REGARDED AS AN INVESTMENT, WE HAVE NEVER SUBMITTED TO THE BUYING PUBLIC A MORE ATTRACTIVE ESTATE THAN

FAIRLIGHT EXTENSION,

FIVE DOCK.

It is a fine property, level, nicely grassed, and park-like. It is sheltered and ornamented by beautiful trees. It extends from Five Dock Park in a gentle slope right down to the Parramatta. It occupies a picked position in a clean, healthy suburb, and in addition to possessing excellent views of its own, adjoins some of the prettiest scenery on the river. The roads subdividing the property are numerous, well made, and carefully laid out under council supervision. Provision has been made for a splendid Marine Drive, and a portion has been allotted for a Recreation Reserve. The tramline is under five minutes' walk, and the township of Five Dock, with its shops, post office, school, etc., is close at hand. City water and gas are available. So much for its RESIDENTIAL ADVANTAGES, and as an INVESTMENT it appeals just as strongly. The growth of Haberfield during the past few years has been phenomenal, and is well known to everybody. Five Dock adjoins Haberfield, is served by the same tramline in fact and affords equal opportunities for money-making. It is a nice, quiet, select residential suburb. Our old Fairlight Estate has been thickly built upon—its homes form a boundary wall to the new property, and a building restriction of £400 is a guarantee that the same good class of residence will be continued. In a few years this land will be much sought after, and present-day purchasers will reap the benefit of the sure increase in values.

MIDDLE HARBOUR WATER FRONTAGES,

"THERE EV'RY BUSH WITH NATURE'S MUSIC RINGS, THERE EV'RY BREEZE BEARS HEALTH UPON ITS WINGS."

There are few cities in the world which have been so lavishly endowed by Nature as this Sydney of ours. Half an hour's journey or so, in almost any direction, puts us in touch with scenes of varying beauty; but for natural charm—for an atmosphere of restfulness and seclusion, where practically every turn offers a scene fit for the brush of a master, we must yield pride of place to the magnificent stretch of water known as Middle Harbour. . . . . The wonder spots of the universe celebrated in song and story, such as Killarney, and the famous Italian lakes, are no whit superior from a scenic standpoint to this magnificent work of Nature, which is at our very doors. Situated at a point from which typical views of this beautiful neighbourhood can be obtained, is

UPPER SPIT-ROAD ESTATE, MOSMAN.

This property is about half-way between the Spit and Spit Junction, and under five minutes from the tramline. (Leave tram at junction of Upper and Lower Spit roads). It is one of the few spots in the neighbourhood which has not been built upon, and the residences surrounding are of a very select standard. From the tram end of the Estate a very fine view of Sydney Harbour, right out through the Heads, is obtained, and the other end overlooks the waters of Middle Harbour at Quakers Bay. The number of water-frontages is limited, but from the other blocks very good views can be obtained, and many are suitable for the finest kind of homes. The Estate is well provided with roads, and is easily accessible.

AUCTION SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15,

At 3 p.m., on Ground. The Allotments vary in size from 50 x 130, to 66 x 225, and more; and there are also a few fine half-acre and acre blocks. They will be sold on

This speaks well for the quality of Plateau Estate, which we sold by auction last week. Good land at Lindfield is a scarce commodity, and we advise those anxious to secure one of these lots to inspect right away. If you are not already acquainted with Lindfield, let us say here that it is the cleanest, healthiest, and most picturesque suburb on the Milson's Point line, is under half an hour from the city, and has a half-hourly train service.

PLATEAU ESTATE, LINDFIELD,

consists of a limited number of level home sites about a mile from the station. As the name indicates, they occupy an elevated position, from which glorious views are obtainable, extending right back to Sydney, and taking in splendid views of Middle Harbour and the Main Harbour itself.

The lots average 66 feet frontage, and have a fine depth of some 250 feet.

ROSEBERY.

MODEL AND INDUSTRIAL SUBURB.

A COTTAGE HOME AT £625,

AND ON THE EASIEST TERMS.

Live in a Garden Suburb—right on the City Boundary! Live in an ingeniously-planned suburb, which offers all the freedom and charm of remote districts, but in which the important question of transport cost is light. The tram fare to Central Railway Station is only 1d from the nearer parts of the estate and 2d from the further portions. And, moreover, live where your home site will enhance in value so surely that in a very few years it will be worth double your purchase money. But act NOW! Every day gained is more profit gained!

We mention below a few instances of the splendid opportunities that the ROSEBERY MANAGEMENT offers to people of moderate means. Take careful note of these offers! They represent the greatest home chances in Australasia.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF £625 COTTAGE.

This Cottage stands on land having a frontage of 40ft by a depth of 140ft. It is solidly built on concrete foundation, roofed with shingle tiles. It contains Four Rooms, Kitchen, Laundry, Bathroom, etc. Fitted with Electric Light, Fuel Stove. Gas laid on for Gas Stove. Has Fibrous Ceilings, and is finished with Art Oak Mantels, etc.

You should investigate this Cottage at once. There is nothing like it at the price on the market.

A COTTAGE AT £610.

This Cottage is erected on land measuring 41 x 160, and is built of brick and stone. It contains 5 Rooms, Kitchen, Breakfast-room, and all Offices. Gas Stove in Laundry. Electric Light. Fibrous Plaster Ceilings, Art Mantels, and all the latest Artistic Furnishings.

Many other splendid offers, ranging up to £900, are open; and the conditions of purchase are on.

THE EASIEST AND MOST LIBERAL TERMS.

On the Cottages, priced above, we will accept £50 deposit and the balance as rental. We will accept as low as 25 per cent. on our cheaper places, which payment includes principal and interest. In other words, no other payment, except the weekly amount, is asked.

Full particulars from any of our offices. Torrens Title will be given.

STOTT'S CORRESPONDENCE COLLEGE, —AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS.

There can be only one leading correspondence college, and that's STOTT'S (The Original), 70 PITT-ST., SYDNEY. With all self-assertion cast aside, the system of teaching employed by Stott's Correspondence College is beyond question the very best in Australia if the testimony of thousands of students counts for anything.

299 GENUINE—PRACTICAL COURSES,
CONDUCTED BY COMPETENT INSTRUCTORS.

Three thousand students are being instructed at present by Stott's Correspondence College. Many thousands have completed their studies, and every one has derived practical benefit as a direct result of becoming a student. You can do the same if you wish to.

THOUSANDS OF UNSOLICITED LETTERS
PRAISING STOTT'S (The Original) SYSTEM.

We have in our files many thousands of letters testifying to the excellence of our system and soundness of our methods. We quote extracts from two. "Am delighted with my progress—your lessons are simply explained, and can be followed quite easily."
J.C.J., Corrimal, N.S.W., 25/10/'13.
"Your system is a most comprehensive one. The lessons are graded most perfectly, and all instructions are clear and conclusive. I thank you for the interest you have shown throughout my studies, and will have pleasure in recommending your college when opportunity occurs."
J.E.M., North Hill, Forbes, N.S.W.

ALL-SILK GLACE RIBBON AT BARGAIN PRICES.

FOR THIS WEEK ONLY.

Our offer of an All-Silk Glace Ribbon, in the leading colours of White, Cream, Sky, Mexique, Navy, Cardinal, Tabac, Lilac, Rose, is still available. It is in four widths, and the shades are really beautiful. So great was the response to the first announcement of our offer that we were afraid that the entire stock of this fashionable ribbon would be sold ere the day closed. Our Ribbon Manager was at his wits' end to know what to do. Suddenly he remembered having inspected at a wholesale warehouse a parcel of ribbon similar in quality, shades, and finish. A 'phone message secured the entire stock. It's rattling good value, and a Ribbon much in vogue. We unhesitatingly assert that an identical ribbon—identical in quality, texture, finish, and shade—cannot be obtained in Sydney at these phenomenally low prices.

SEASONABLE FINERY.

ALWAYS A MOST INTERESTING SUBJECT TO THE LADIES.

It is their WATCHWORD. A matter that, at one time or another, engages the attention of every DAUGHTER OF EVE. Some there are to whom SAD CLOTHES are sweet, who prefer to "WALK THE WORLD IN FUNEREAL BLACK," has underneath the "INKY CLOAK" there is generally a yearning for the joy which walking in the WAYS OF FASHION brings.

the question of SEASONABLE FINERY has been thoroughly threshed out, with the result that for every occasion, for all SORTS OF WEATHER, and all KINDS of PEOPLE, the CORRECT THING is forthcoming.
